Vice President Agnew resigns

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has resigned, a White House official announced today.

An official said that the vice president informed Nixon of his decision Tuesday night. An official announcement was expected in mid-afternoon.

Agnew spent most of the day in executive office Building adjacent to the White House. He called in his staff at early afternoon to inform them of his decision.

Until the announcement, the plans for Agnew's resignation were a well-kept secret. Nixon went through a full schedule of activities Wednesday, briefing congressional leaders for an hour and a half on the Middle East crisis, visiting with an African leader and presenting medals of science to 11 scientists.

In U.S. District Court in Baltimore, Agnew pleaded no contest to a charge of evading income taxes in 1967 and resigned as vice president. U.S. District Judge Walter E. Hoffman, calling it a "tragic event in history," placed Agnew on probation for three years and fined him $10,000. Agnew't lawyers said he had agreed to plead no contest in order to spare the nation the agony of a trial that could have gone on for years.

Agnew had been under investigation by a federal grand jury on charges he received kickbacks for contracts while he was governor of Maryland and, prior to that, Baltimore County executive.

Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson said in Baltimore, "Out of compassion for the man, out of respect for the office, he has spared the nation the agony of a long trial."

President Nixon must appoint a successor who will be subject to approval of both houses of Congress.

In his statement to the court in Baltimore, Agnew said:

"My decision to resign and enter a plea of nolo contendere rests on my firm belief that the public interest requires swift disposition of the problems that are facing me. I am advised that a full legal defense of the probable charges against me could consume several years,

"I am concerned that the intense media interest in the case would distract public attention from important national problems —to the country's deteriment."

The 25th amendment to the Constitution was ratified in 1967 after the vice presidency remained vacant for 14 months following the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

Reports had circulated that the White House had drawn up a contingency list of possible successors. One published report listed some of the possibilities as Richardson, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, former Gov. John B. Connally of Texas, Assistant Attorney General William D. Ruckelshaus and Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz.

The White House had steadfastedly denied the existance of any such list.

Any. nomination made by Nixon would be subject to severe scrunity in Congress because, among other things, the nominee might prove to be a successor to Nixon as the Republican nominee three years from now.

Upland boy kills self accidentally

UPLAND — A 12-year-old Upland youth who stayed home from school Tuesday because of illness apparently shot himself to death while playing with a .38 caliber pistol taken from his mother's dresser drawer at 1377 Ukiah Way.

Michael J. Schiro, son of Mrs. Carl Schiro, was pronouncd dead on arrival at San Antonio Community Hospital shortly after the accident was reported by his sister at 3:08 p.m. Young Schiro died of a gunshot wound of the head, police said.

According to police reports, the youth was found by his sister, Jenneen Schiro, when she came home from school. The youth was lying on the floor of his bedroom with the .38 caliber revolver at his feet.

Mrs. Schiro said that her son had stayed home from school that day because he was ill. Police said the youth apparently went into his mother's bedroom when she was out and removed his late father's revolver from a dresser drawer, taking it to his bedroom.

The bullet, according to police struck the youth in the left side of the head, killing him instantly. Capt. Howard Seay said this morning the youth's death appears to be accidental, but the investigation is continuing.

Draper Mortuary of Ontario is in charge of funeral arrangements.

Warming trend likely for area

A weak Santa Ana condition will warm up temperatures to above seasonal levels starting today and continuing into the first of next week.

The official forecast today is for fair and warmer weather with gusty winds below canyon areas. Warm winds should push temperatures up to 83 degrees today and 82 degrees Thursday. Night lows will be near 50 degrees during the warming trend.

Carry out massive air attacks

Israelis rally after Suez loss

By United Press International

The Israeli Air Force carried out massive bomb attacks in Syria and Egypt today in an effort to offset loss of the Bar-Lev defense line on the Suez Canal, Israel's worst military setback in 25 years. Air battles swirled through the skies and each side reported victories.

Tank and artillery battles on the Suez Canal front five to nine miles behind the Bar-Lev line blazed through the fifth day of the 1973 Middle East War but thus far have been indecisive. Israel did appear winning back the Golan Heights and UPI Correspondent Richard C. Gross reported the Israelis had fought into Qneitra, 38 miles from Damascus.

Israel said its air force shot down 7 counterattacking Syrian MIGs trying to attack in the Golan Heights area—the biggest Israeli claim of this war. Cairo reported its air force hit Israeli troops in the Sinai and set fire to Israeli military headquarters there while beating off inland air raids.

The war appeared to have turned into a war of attrition with neither side expecting a quick, knockout victory. There were ominous reports Iraq had entered the fighting on the side of the Arabs, and an Iraqi military commuled or wounded Tuesday when Israel hit Damascus; victims included six Russians killed at the Russian cultural center there.

The Syrians said Israeli rockets also hit the oil refinery and an electricity power station in Homs, 106 miles north of Damascus and that Israeli rockets also fell into an area inhabited mainly by workers inside Homs.

The Israeli-Syrian dogfight spilled over into Lebanese air space and residents of Beirut could watch part of the battle over the Lebanese mountains six miles from the city. Loud bangs, apparently sonic booms, startled the citizens of Beirut who have thus far stayed out of the war despite intense Palestinian pressure.

It was the first air battle that the military spokesman announced with details. But no account of Israeli losses was given.

An Egyptian communique issued in Cairo said Egypt fought off an Israeli air attack on forward Egyptian airfields today and hit back with concentrated air strikes on Israeli command posts and troop concentrations in the Sinai peninsula, an Egyptian communique said.

The Egyptian communique, broadcast by Cairo radio at 1:50 p.m. (7:50 a.m. EDT), said defense forces shot down six Israeli warplanes over Egyptian territory and forced the rest of the Israeli planes to "jettison their bomb loads away from our airfields.

"At 10 a.m. this morning our air force carried out a concentrated attack on the enemy command centers, its military units and its administrative installations," the communique said. "It set them on fire and inflicted heavy losses in personnel and equipment."

The communique said all Egyptian planes returned safely to their bases.

Israeli paratroopers arrived during the day to help in the cleanup operation.

Lightning bolt fells 10 boys

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) —A "sheet of lightning" knocked down 10 boys on a football field Tuesday, injuring two seriously.

Five of the boys were hospitalized, and one was later released.

John F. Kennedy Memorial Hospital said Michael Ball, 12, was in poor condition. At Doctor's Hospital in nearby Lake Worth, Bobby May, 12, was in the intensive care unit in critical condition.

May and Ball were the only boys who were struck directly by the lightning, according to witnesses.

Allen Adams, 13, and Phillip Harris, 12, were in satisfactory condition at Doctor's Hospital.

The boys were leaving the field as a thunderstorm approached the Jefferson Davis Middle School when "a big sheet of lightning engulfed the whole area," a teacher reported.

U.S. forces adopt low key response in Mideast crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The United States—militarily speaking—has adopted a low key response to the latest Arab-Israeli conflict.

The only activity has involved shifting a few ships of the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean. As of Tuesday, the only action any of the vessels had seen was the rescue of a sinking Cypriot ship's crew, according to Pentagon officials.

When war broke out Saturday, the U.S. Navy canceled leaves for sailors in Athens and ordered the carrier Independence and four supporting ships to sea that night.

On Monday, the helicopter carrier Guadalcanal also left Athens with a landing team of 1,800 marines aboard, along with escort vessels.

The ships moved closer to the war zone but have remained out of sight, a half-day's sailing time away.

Pentagon officials say no other U.S. ships have been alerted, nor have any Army or Air Force units.

By comparison, during the September, 1970, war in Jordan between government forces and Palestinian guerrillas, the United States not only alerted ships but dispatched Air Force planes from Germany to Turkey and put troops on alert as far away as the 82nd Airborne Division at Ft. Bragg, N. C.

The Pentagon said Tuesday there had been no alert for the other aircraft carrier now in the Mediterranean, the USS Franklin D. Roosevelt, and that its crew is still ashore at Barcelona, Spain. Officials said the carrier would sail today as previously scheduled for maneuvers in the western Mediterranean.

Congress backs effort to end war

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon discussed the bloody new Mideast fighting today with top Congressional leaders of both parties and was given what one described as unanimous endorsement of efforts to end the conflict.

No details were immediately available on specific information given by administration leaders including Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger but one of the participants, Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said:

"I think they are making a general effort to bring it to an early end and establish a basis for a more permanent peace. I find no fault with what they are attempting to do."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Democrats and Republicans alike "are unanimously behind the position taken by President Nixon and Secretary of State Kissinger to bring about an end to the hostilities."

A GRATEFUL PATIENT

Dr. Ronald Gray, cardiologist on the staff at San Dimas Community Hospital, chats with Mrs. Lavertia Denney of Covina, who had a successful atomic pacemaker implantation Monday at the San Dimas hospital. It is the first operation of this type performed in the local area. Mrs. Denney is a teacher.

Atomic device gives new life to Covina teacher

By LENORE WALLACE
P-B Staff Writer

SAN DIMAS—Mrs. Lavertia Denney, 54, a school teacher from Covina, has many years of teaching and productive life ahead of her because of the implantation of an atomic pacemaker that keeps her heart beating in rhythm with every breath she takes.

Mrs. Denney underwent the delicate surgery Monday in San Dimas Community Hospital. Her heart stopped for 12 seconds last Friday during an examination at the Queen of the Valley Hospital in West Covina. Her family internist, Dr. Charles Minz called in Dr. Saul Goldberg, who implanted a temporary pacemaker in her right arm to control the heart beat.

Dr. Goldberg is an associate of Dr. Ronald Gray, who completed the operation to implant the atomic pacemaker. The San Dimas Community Hospital is the only hospital in the area with a permit to complete this type of operation and one of the four throughout the state.

Dr. Gray is also one of the four physicians in Southern California who are licensed by the State Division of Radiological Health and Safety under the aegis of the Atomic Energy Commission. The other physicians who have completed atomic implants are Dr. Michael Billich, USC-County Medical center; Dr. Maurice Hyman, Century City Hospital; and Dr. John Connolly, Orange County Medical Center.

Dr. Gray, who has been implanting pacemaker devices in his patients for the past 10 years, said Mrs. Denney requested the use of the atomic pacemaker when she was told she would have to have a pacemaker implantation to survive.

Dr. Gray said Mrs. Denney had suffered rheumatic fever as a child, which left her with a heart murmur. She had a history of heart problems in recent years, her physician said.

She will apparently have been the last person in the state to receive the implantation of the device as a first method. Other patients with heart disease will have had to have a history of using chemical pacemakers.

Dr. Gray said the advantage of the atomic pacemaker is its life span, which is from 10 to 20 years. The chemical pacemakers have to be replaced every two years during the life of the patient and involves tremendous expense and repeated hospitalizations and surgeries.

Only 20 atomic pacemakers per month will be distributed throughout the United States by the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) in a controlled program.

Dr. Gray explained that the AEC "wants to know where each of the devices is and doesn't want unqualified persons implanting the device." He said Mrs. Denney will wear a permanent bracelet on her wrist, which has an emergency number to call at the local hospital in case of any emergen-

War may cut off oil, leave U.S. shivering

By United Press International

White House energy adviser John A. Love said Tuesday if the Arab-Israeli war prompts Saudi Arabia to cut off its oil exports, it may become impossible for the United States to import all the home heating oil it will need this winter.

While there is no indication Saudi Arabia will take such action, Love said, the administration has developed contingency plans to deal with such a situation. He indicated one emergency step would be to reduce outdoor illumination to conserve energy.

In line with Love's fears, Kuwait—a leader of the Arab oil embargo during the 1967 Middle East war—called on all other Arab oil-producing nations Tuesday to reexamine their petroleum policies in light of the latest Arab-Israeli war.

Radio Kuwait, broadcasting from the capital of the Persian Gulf sheikhdom, said Oil and Finance Minister Abdel Rahman Salem el-Atiqi was trying to arrange an emergency meeting to consider steps that can be taken.

The broadcast made no suggestions of what the Arab states might do but in the 1967 war, Kuwait and Iraq suspended all oil shipments to the United States and Britain in retaliation for their support of Israel. Algeria and Saudi Arabia followed suit later, creating a temporary oil shortage throughout the world until the suspensions were lifted.

In the second quarter of 1973, the United States imported 694,800 barrels of oil daily from the Middle East. That represented 22 per cent of the nation's imports.

Of the 694,800 barrels daily, Saudi Arabia supplied 363,700— about 52 per cent—while Iran supplied 207,100, Kuwait, 48,100; Abu Dhabi, 70,500; Iraq, 3,400; and Qatar, 2,000. The United States also importted 3,400 barrels daily from Israel during that period.

Should Saudi Arabia repeat its 1967 act, or if its exports to Western European refineries which supply the United States were reduced from present levels, Love said:

"We would find it difficult if not impossible to import the amount of heating oil we will need this winter."

The administration estimates 600,000 barrels of heating oil imports will be needed each day during the official 180 days of winter.

Newsmen seek to quash Agnew case subpoenas

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A group of newsmen asked a federal judge today to throw out news leak subpoenas issued to them, charging that Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was attempting to trample press freedom "to put his career in politics back together."

Lawyers representing individual newsmen, four newspapers, two television networks and two news magazines filed quash motions with Federal Judge Walter E. Hoffman while a grand jury investigating kickback allegations against Agnew resumed its secret deliberations.

Hoffman arranged a hearing later in the day on motions before him, presumably including those of the newsmen.

Agnew has charged that federal officials have deliberately leaked information about the Agnew investigation to discredit him. The subpoenas were permitted by Hoffman so that Agnew lawyers could question newsmen about who gave them leaked information.

Overrun in massive Egyptian assault

'Impregnable' Israeli Maginot Line fails to hold

By THOMAS ACKERMAN

TEL AVIV (UPI) — The BarLev defense line along the Suez Canal, which Israel abandoned under heavy Egyptian tank assaults Tuesday, was thought impregnable by the Israeli soldiers who occupied the string of approximately 100 concrete blockhouses.

The construction of the BarLev line after the 1967 Six Day War, and the strategy behind it, was similar to the French Maginot Line before World War II. It was named for Lt. Gen. Haim Bar-Lev, former Israeli chief of staff.

But unlike the Maginot Line, which was flanked by Nazi Panzer Division armored columns going through the dense Ardennes forest to the north, the Bar-Lev line fell to direct assault by Egyptian tanks.

While they manned the blockhouses, built at a cost of $10,000 each, the Israeli troops lived in comparative luxury. Each blockhouse was air conditioned and equipped with game rooms, bunks, kitchens and toilets underground.

After they drove the Egyptians out of the Sinai Peninsula in 1967, the Israelis bulldozed a mount of earth 50 feet high along the 102-mile-long Suez Canal, then built the blockhouses on the side away from the Egyptian artillerymen on the West Bank. Only the roofs were visible from Egypt.

Each concrete and steel blockhouse was enmeshed in barbed wire and padded with sandbags. The barbed wire around the perimeter was too thick to see through.

"Once you see what went into the Bar-Lev line, how could you possibly think we would give that back to the Egyptians?" asked Eugene Jacobovits, who returned from his month's annual reserve duty recently.

The admission by Israel that the Bar-Lev Line had been lost was a sobering announcement for the Israelis.

"We're just about finishing the Syrians off," said Dalia Goldberger, a law student. "But on the Canal... there are problems."

Israel's largest newspaper, Ma'ariv, said in a front-page editorial that the army's first priority was to eliminate the closer threat from across the Syrian lines.

"But on the other hand, it is becoming more and more clear that the fight against Egypt in the Sinai will be more prolonged," the newspaper said.

Ma'ariv said the decision to evacuate the Bar-Lev line was dictated "by the new situation in the Sinai, making the line lose its strategic value."

Another victory---3 women endorsed for Rhodes funds

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—Harvard University has broken with tradition by endorsing three female applicants for the Rhodes Scholarship, restricted since its founding in 1902 to men.

Abby Dubman, a member of Harvard's Committee on Fellowships, which received applications from women for the first time this year, said members are aware of the ban, but are attempting to challenge the sex barrier.

The committee selected three Radcliffe seniors along with 82 Harvard seniors to represent the university in nationwide competition for the award.

The University of Minnesota endorsed a female applicant in 1972, but she was disqualified by the American secretary of the Rhodes Committee.

Founder Cecil Rhodes set up a trust fund 72 years ago for grants to college graduates who exhibit "qualities of manhood."

Atomic device . . .

cy. In addition, she has donated her body to the local hospital at her death so that the atomic device can be removed.

The physician said the AEC is fearful that use of the device without a controlled situation might result in costly accidents after the death of a person with an atomic implant.

"It is possible that a mortician could try to open the device to see what's inside or could just discard the pacemaker. The AEC wants to avoid this type of situation."

Dr. Gray said the atomic pacemaker will only be installed in patients who have a life expectancy of more than 10 years and have no other diseases, other than the heart problem.

Dr. Gray explained that the plutonium inside the atomic pacemaker is about the size of a fat nickel. The unit is similar in design to the chemically powered medtronic Unit. The atomic unit is called the Medtronic Laurens-Alcatel 9000 Isotopic Pacemaker.

The unit is powered by a capsule of Plutonium 238, which by radioactive decay creates heat which produces electronic energy by a thermo pile in order to produce electronic stimulation of the heart when the heart slows.

In simple language, the pacemaker flares on like a furnace when the heart refuses to operate.

"It keeps her alive when her heart stops. Without this device she would have died," Dr. Gray explained.

He said the pacemaker works on "demand." It is implanted under a muscle in the patient's abdomen.

The device is designed so that it can't be broken open. It will throw off radioactivity equivalent to one chest x-ray a year. It costs $5,000 for the unit, compared to the chemical units which are $1,250 and must be replaced every two years.

Although Mrs. Denney had complicated surgery Monday, she felt well enough Wednesday afternoon in the cardiac care unit of the hospital to chat briefly with reporters and be photographed.

She said she felt very "grateful" and was in no pain. She is looking forward to returning to her job in the El Monte School District, where she teaches a kindergarten through second grade class.

Her doctor said she would be up and trying to walk today and should be up and eating with her family in the hospital dining room by the weekend. While bedfast, her heart beat will be monitored by equipment in the cardiac care unit. When she is up and about the hospital, a radio monitoring system will keep nurses aware of her progress.

More than 220 atomic implants have been completed in the world since 1970.

Mrs. Denney's is the first in San Dimas.

$1.5 million Presley divorce settlement

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) —Elvis Presley and his wife Priscilla ended their six year marriage Tuesday with an affectionate goodbye kiss and a $1.5 million property settlement.

The singing idol, 38, emerged from the courthouse arm in arm with his former wife, 25, after the divorce petition was granted. The judge had just approved a settlement under which Mrs. Presley will receive $720,000 in cash within 10 days, another $720,000 payable in monthly installments of $6,000, monthly alimony of $4,200, half the proceeds of the sale of their Beverly Hills home, 5 per cent of Presley's music properties and $4,000 a month in child support payments for their daughter Lisa, 5.

Mrs. Presley, whose father was an Army officer, met the singer when he was serving in the Army in Germany and she was a teen-ager.

The daughter's custody will be shared between the father and mother but she will live with Priscilla, who currently resides in the Marina del Rey area of Los Angeles.

Brain damage, epilepsy noted in murder suspect

By JACK BURSON
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA —A psychiatrist testified Tuesday in Pomona Superior Court that in his opinion murder suspect Lee Donald Lakey suffers from brain damage and a form of epilepsy.

Lakey, 22-year-old busboy, is charged with the strangulation slaying Jan. 13 of his new neighbor, 19-year-old Cheryl P. Brown. Testimony in the trial began Sept. 24.

The defense, presented by attorney Joseph A. Dolan, planned to close today without the testimony of Lakey himself. The young defendant did not testify in his first trial here, which ended in a mistrial when the jury failed to agree.

The psychiatrist, Dr. George N. Thompson, said he performed tests upon Lakey last April, including an electroencephalograph. The device is used to test brain waves. His opinions were based on those tests.

Dr. Thompson stated that the tests were performed on Lakey both with the use of drugs, including six ounces of vodka, and without them.

Lakey, who was arrested several days after the young woman was found dead by her sister, reportedly told police he suffered a "blackout" the night his neighbor was strangled, but did recall being in her apartment.

Dr. Thompson was among eight witnesses called by Dolan in Lakey's defense. Others included Margaret Wilson, Michael Wallace, Jean Pape, Douglas Foland, Anthony Viola and Robert Bissell.

This afternoon was to be used for Judge Glenn M. Pfau's instructions to the jury, seven women and five men, with closing arguments to begin Thursday.

Miss Brown was strangled, perhaps with her own brassiere, during a rape attempt, investigators theorized. It was to have been the first night she spent in her new apartment after moving from home.

Ontarian arrested in vehicle burglary

ONTARIO — A 20-year-old Ontario man was arrested by police Tuesday after he allegedly pulled a gun on another man in the course of a burglary of a bus being converted into a motorhome at 1360 E. D St.

Steven Alfred Wouters, 20, of 1381 E. Holt Blvd., space 14, was booked in West End jail this morning for investigation of burglary. Wouters common-law wife, Beth Aleene Taylor, 19, was also arrested by Ontario police on suspicion of possession of marijuana.

Police reports said that a resident of a nearby mobile home park noticed two men fighting near the parked bus about 10:05 a.m. Tuesday and called police. When police arrived at the scene they learned that Joe McKeller, 18, of 1360 E. D St. had been in a fight with the suspect.

McKeller told police that he saw Wouters force the door of the bus, owned by his father, James E. McKeller, open and went to investigate. McKeller said that he asked the suspect what he was doing in the bus, and an argument ensued.

McKeller said he struck Wouters in the face and Wouter pulled a gun from his waistband. When police arrived Wouters was at the scene. The suspect was placed under arrest and his mobile home searched. Police said they discovered a small amount of marijuana in the mobile home and placed Miss Taylor under arrest.

Wouters told police that he had seen a man break into the home Monday night and remove some carpeting. He said he decided to go and look at the bus out of curiosity. Wouters said that he was stopped by McKeller and got into a fight with him. Wouters said he only simulated pulling a pistol on the witness. Police said they found no weapon.

Police said that the bus had been entered by someone who cut the chain lock on the door. Police said they found a pair of bolt cutters in Wouters' coat pocket.

CIM diving instruction paying off

CHINO—A unique vocational inmate trainees of getting a program he said, "virtually assures trainees of a diving jobs paying from $12,000 to $14,000 a year as soon as they are released on parole."

The state Department of Corrections Tuesday reported all 55 inmates who have completed a 10-month vocational divers' training program at the facility were offered jobs in the commercial diving industry.

"Not all of them have accepted, but the point is that we've managed to place them," said Robert Howard, in charge of the program at Chino.

Completion of the training program started he said, "virtually assures trainees of a diving jobs paying from $12,000 to $14,000 a year as soon as they are released on parole."

He said the training program in underwater skills "is one of the finest in the world" because of the length of the program. He said commercial training is less extensive.

Howard also said that only three of the 55 men who completed the program and were paroled have returned to prison. "That's a pretty good record," he added.

To get into the program, he said, an inmate must be qualified for minimum custody and temporary community leaves plus be in good physical condition and an excellent swimmer.

"Once somebody is in this program, he either works, or we toss him out," Howard said. "There's no room here for people who want to mess around, and maybe that's why we have such a good placement record."

Boy booked in assault

POMONA — A 165-pound student at Fremont Junior High School was arrested on a felonious assault charge Tuesday afternoon after three youths attacked another student there, police said.

The victim, Thomas A. Jackson Jr., 14, said he was attacked for no reason. He said they knocked him down and kicked him, inflicting injuries to his lower back and forehead. He did not require immediate medical attention.

The other two youths have not been located.

By L. T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

CHINO — The metric systems should be taught at some class levels in the Chino School District by next September, believes Allen McCombs, a school board member.

"It would appear that immediate action on this matter would be an important step for the Chino School District, in keeping with a policy of being ahead on major educational changes."

McCombs made his proposal Tuesday night at the regulat school board meeting. He recommended a metrics task force be established by Dec. 1, and a plan be presented to the school board by May 1 with the thought of introducing metrics at some levels by September 1974.

This could then be extended throughout the Chino district by September of 1975, he added.

Other board members noting they had not been given time to study the proposal, asked that any action be deferred until the next meeting.

McCombs said reasons for immediate planning involves both monetary and educational savings.

Regarding monetary savings, he reported that as the purchasing of textbooks becomes necessary, it is important to time the orders to minimize waste and to get the maximum life out of the books.

A survey should be made of all mathematics texts to determine if their present life can be extended until such time as those containing metrics are available, he said.

Regarding educational savings, he said a "phasing in" of the metric system is important now since pupils between kindergarten and third grades will probably graduate from high school into the full scale use of the metric system.

Children already in school will have to "convert" their concepts of measurement. The more they have learned under the old system, the harder it will be to convert,

"It is essential that we begin as soon as possible to develop a metric resource team of teachers within the district to outline a phasing in program and develop a curriculum.

"It may be that if we are to get an early jump on metrics, we need to discard certain curriculum material soon. A case in point is the great emphasis on fractions, which we could reduce substantially at least in the elementary schools right away."

Supt. Royce Lapp questioned the feasibility of a small district like Chino taking on the curriculum task for a metric system.

Comparing this to the "new math," Lapp said this involves thousands of hours in specalized work. "I would hate to take on the task for basic curriculum for the metric system. The effort would not be productive and not economical. This would get us a small head start, but there are other areas which take priority."

McCombs argued this is as important as the year-round school program which the district initiated this year at several of its schools.

Making book on Washington

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Poor Jeb Magruder — life is hard. Not only is the former official of the Committee to re-elect the President under indictment for criminal involvement in the Watergate conspiracy, but he has been dropped from the Green Book, the official social list of Washington, D.C.,

The Green Book comparable to the listing of the Four Hundred in New York society, is the Bible of Washington blueboods, a listing of the political, diplomatic and high-society big-wigs and hot-shots of the nation's capital. To be dropped from the roll means social ostracism. Guess who's not coming to dinner.

High society in Washington is an uneasy amalgam of old, established families, millionaires and top government officials. It requires position and prestige and a high standard of ethics. Needless to say, when the Whittier Whiz and his cronies came to town with their fun-and-games, the list of proper Washingtonians came in for some 6.2 seismograph readings. Panic on the Potomac.

Most of the "White House sources" dropped from the green sheet for being caught with their hands in the Watergate cookie jar are otherwise perfectly respectable (and solvent) members of society, but once you have been nailed in a corridor of the Watergate Building with a screw driver in your hand, you can never again be acceptable on the dinner lists of Washington hostesses. They don't dig manual laborers.

The latest edition of the Green Book, issued this week, does not list H. R. Haldeman, John Doan, Richard Kleindienst, John Ehrlichman, Charles Colson, Dwight Chapin, Bradford Cook or Maurice Stans. Ex-Atty.-Gen. John Mitchell was bounced from the prestigious volume last year because of the telephonic erruptions of John's Other Wife. (Martha has done more for the telephone company than Alexander Graham Bell.)

Divorces and other marital skirmishes can also cost one listing in the Green Book. California Sen. John Tunney was deleted this year because he didn't groove on his wife all that much. Maryland Sen. Joseph D. Tydings missed the roll call this year for shedding the Ms.

Two likely candidates for excommunication from posh Washington social circles are President Nixon and the present vice president, Spiro Agnew, but even the nose-in-the-air, lorgnetted Green Book doesn't dare bounce the two chief execs of the nation. The editorial staff would probably wind up before the Supreme Court.

This is called the Greening of America.

Italian literary progress through history on display

CLAREMONT — Important works representing Italian literary achievements through the centuries are on view at the Denison Library at Scripps College.

Open to the public during regular library hours through Nov. 10, the exhibit coordinates with "Italy Through the Centuries," a display of everything from pre-Roman Etruscan vases to a new Alfa Romeo sports car, which will be shown in the Clark Humanities Museum at Scripps from Oct. 23 to Nov. 10.

Manuscripts and early imprints, many on loan from the Bodmar Collection of the Honnold Library and from the Francis Bacon Foundation Library, Claremont, are displayed throughout the library.

Highlights of the exhibit include manuscripts from the Medici family, editions of Dante, Boccacio and Petrarch; and a 1551 edition of Machiavelli's "Principe." Among the many glimpses into Italy is a handwritten report from Palla Strozzi of a 1426 sea-and-land skirmish between Florence and Venice and Milan and Genoa. Early editions of Ficino, Tasso, Boccalini and Poliziano are represented. Of interest is the work "Epistola" of Aeneas Sylvius Piccolomini, who became Pope Pius II.

HELLO, UP THERE — Charles Hull, head game ranger at Warner Bros. Jungle Habitat in West Milford, N. J., was pruning trees in the park's bear compound when a 400-pound North American black bear became curious and started up the same tree. The larger bears can't really climb trees, so the best he could do was get his feet off the ground. He eventually lost interest and wandered away.

Erma Bombeck

Remember the old days when you used to park your car in the suburbs and take a bus downtown to shop?

What a hassle. Parking your car in a towaway zone. Running for a bus and missing it. Waiting for another in the cold (rain, heat, wind). Never having the right change for the driver.

All that has changed now. We have convenient shopping centers that have grown with the demand. In fact, we have one near us so big it has its own form of government.

In an effort to conserve gas the other day, four of us decided to take one car to the shopping center to buy groceries.

For laughs, we cruised around the parking lanes closest to the stores knowing full well that in order to get a parking place that close you have to (a) abandon your car on the site while the shopping center is being built (b) be there when one of the owners dies and his car is impounded.

The second lane was equally filled as was the third. We continued to make laps and cruise dangerously close to little old ladies who were crawling on their knees from exhaustion.

Maxine broke out the sandwiches for lunch as we were all getting rather testy. (Mildred was making obscene gestures to each foreign car that was taking up a full space.)

By mid-afternoon, the stores were barely visible to the naked eye when we spotted it. A parking place. The only hitch was someone had left a shopping cart smack in the middle of it. Wanda volunteered to move the cart. As she did so, a car from nowhere zoomed in nearly knocking her down. Maxine had to restrained, but in talking with the occupants, we discovered the poor devils had been cruising so long in search of a parking place their radio batteries had given out. They expressed joy of hearing about the end of the war, shock over Watergate, and dismay at Phase IV.

Mildred volunteered to drive in the late afternoon as I was suffering from hysterical exhaustion. (At one point they tell me I stopped the car, assaulted a woman with grocery bags on her back seat and demanded, "You tell me where you came from or I'll break your face.")

It was around six when Mildred spotted a parking place and slid into it easidy. We all breathed a sigh of relief.

"Okay," she instructed. "Lock the doors as you leave and someone check the street to see where we are parked so we can find it."

"That's easy, I said, "We are smack in the middle of downtown."

We ran for a bus to the shopping center and missed it. No one seemed surprised.

UC faculty splits with administration

BERKELEY (UPI) —For the first time in several years, the state-wide University of California faculty organization has apparently split with the university administration.

Arthur Kip, chairman of the state-wide Academic Council, expressed to the Regents concern over the "threat of second class treatment" for six smaller campuses in the university system.

Kip appeared Monday before a special meeting of Regents' committees concerned with next year's budget.

University president Charles J. Hitch has disclosed a plan to restrict general studies to the Berkeley and Los Angeles campuses, and to limit growth at other campuses.

The plan, devised because of a smaller number of students expected than previously anticipated, would authorize more library growth and better teacher-student ratios at the two campuses than at others.

"Faculty morale, a fragile thing at best, and with it, student morale, can not long withstand the fact or threat of second class treatment," Kip said.

He said, "I believe the citizens of California will ultimately support the goal of excellence for its university and this goal should be stated loud and clear."

Hitch is proposing a budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 which would ask the legislature for $407 million in state support, an increase of $45.5 million from the current year.

Students complain about 'bad' food

SAN DIMAS — Students who eat lunch at the San Dimas High School cafeteria and say they don't like it, met with representatives of the Bonita school district kitchen and Principal Ed Weber Tuesday to tell them so.

The students, said Julie Sandiford, 15, think the food tastes bad and that the quality is poor. About 200 students took part in a survey Tuesday, she said, and unanimously agreed that the food was not to their liking.

"We started handing out notices asking students to boycott the cafeteria last Friday. About 40 per cent of us didn't eat there today (Tuesday)," she said.

Weber conceded that there was some food left over Tuesday because more students were carrying their own lunch, but maintained that the amount was insubstantial.

Tuesday's meeting between about 15 of the students, Weber and district kitchen officials, was called by the administration. The students complained that hamburgers served in the cafeteria were both dry and greasy and that hot lunches were being thrown away completely uneaten by some students because of the taste.

Mrs. Dorothy Gee from the district kitchen, said Weber, told students that some drying takes place between the time the items are cooked and wrapped, and picked up by the students.

Weber indicated that more a la carte items may be provided to allow students a greater selection and that service would be improved where possible.

Following Tuesday's meeting, however, some students were skeptical, saying that until the food actually improves they will carry their own lunch to school.

What's a bullet if you need a night's sleep

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — John Suciu Jr. wasn't about to lose a good night's sleep just because a bullet crashed through a window of his room in the Seattle Hilton Hotel early Monday.

Officers said Suciu's room was one of two that had windows broken by bullets fired apparently at random from somewhere south of the hotel.

Suciu told police he simply took a pillow and a blanket and curled up on the floor away from the window.

"He's from Pittsburgh and acted like it happens every day," Detective Sgt. Bruce Edmonds said.

Rowland trustees to meet

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Trustees of the Rowland Unified School District confront a varied agenda for their meeting Thursday evening at district administration offices.

The board opens its 8 p.m. session with introduction of two Rowland High School students named as semi-finalists in the 1974 National Merit Scholarship program. Linda J. Taddeo and James M. Maurer will be presented to the board for accolades for their achievement.

Boys' and girls' service organizations have some interest in the session, because the district plans to offer a 99-year lease for an unused part of Hurley School in La Puente for $1 to "a non-profit organization formed for recreational, educational, political, artistic, economic and moral interests of the citizens of the community in which they reside . . ."

Additionally, trustees will review a plan for lighting tennis courts at Rowland High, consider a $20,000-plus contract for evaluation of the district bi-lingual-bicultural education program, and approve continuing vocational education programs for the current school year.

Claes Johnson

POMONA — Claes Johnson, 1275 W. Ninth St., died Monday at a local convalescent hospital.

Mr. Johnson was born April 7, 1878, in Sweden. He came to Pomona in 1938.

He is survived by a sister in Sweden and a nephew, Ernest Johnson of Springfield, Mass.

Services will be held Thursday at 3:30 p.m. at Pomona Cemetery. The Rev. Cass Schreib of the Country Church in Ontario will officiate. Burial will be made at the cemetery. Todd Memorial Chapel is in charge of arrangements.

Mark Allen Nollan

CUPERTINO — Mark Allen Nollan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Nollan of Cupertino, died in a San Jose hospital Sunday of injuries received in a traffic accident.

He was born in Wisconsin Jan. 11, 1956.

Besides his parents, Mr. Nollan is survived by four brothers, Steve R., Paul T., Peter D. and Christopher, and a sister, Jonie Sue, all of Cupertino; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nollan of Chula Vista, and Mr. and Mrs. George Schneider of Wisconsin.

Graveside services will be held at Alta Mesa Memorial Park Cemetery in Palo Alto at 2 p.m. Thursday. Friends may call at Sunnyvale Mortuary in Sunnyvale until noon Thursday. A memorial service will be held at the Bethel Lutheran Church, Cupertino, at 8 p.m. Thursday. Friends can make contributions to the Mark Nollan Memorial Fund at the church at 10181 Finch Ave.

Harry L. Wands

POMONA — Harry LeRoy Wands of 1010 W. Holt Ave. died Tuesday in Park Avenue Hospital after a long illness.

He was born May 10, 1905, in Phillipsburg, Kan. He came to Pomona in 1937 and was a former member of the Odd Fellows lodge in Chino.

Survivors include his widow, Laura; a son, Jack of Pomona; a brother, Warren of Roseburg, Ore.; a sister, Mrs. Irene Wenburg of Cozad, Neb.; and four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be in Pomona Mausoleum Thursday at 2 p.m. Dr. Joseph M. Appelgate of the Pilgrim Congregational Church will officiate. Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona has charge of arrangements.

Funeral

Cecillia Linde

POMONA — Funeral services were conducted Monday at Rose Hills Memorial Chapel in Whittier for Mrs. Cecillia Kay Linde, wife of Daniel Linde, 2571 Ann Arbor Ave. The Rev. A. L. Plueger officiated. Burial at Rose Hills Memorial Park followed the services.

Mrs. Linde, a native of Oklahoma and a resident of the area for 28 years, died Thursday at Park Avenue Hospital. She was 29. Besides her husband, survivors include two daughters, Sherie Lee and Teri Lee, both of the home address; her mother, Mrs. Hazel Trippy; and three brothers, Clayton, Darrell Trippy and Floyd Fletcher.

Some families have reactions to anesthesia

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A Pennsylvania physician says one out of every 50,000 patients has a serious reaction to anesthesia.

Dr. George E. Strobel of the University of Pennsylvania told a meeting of the American Society of Anesthesiologists on Monday that some families are prone to such reactions.

"Families in which there has been a death during anesthesia should be aware of the possibility of this snydrome," he declared.

Strobel noted that not all anesthetics produce serious reactions and said that patients with a sensitivity can be given local anesthetics or spinal anesthesia without suffering reactions.

Serious reactions result when muscles become sensitive to certain anesthetics and begin to contract and become chemically active, he said.

Roy Day withdraws board resignation

POMONA — Roy O. Day, who Sept. 27 announced his resignation from the school board, Tuesday withdrew that resignation.

In a letter to Dr. James Bell, board president, Day said:

"After careful consideration of the ramification of my resignation from the Board of Education and out of loyalty to the citizenry who supported my election, I feel that in fairness to all concerned, I should attempt to finish out my term on the board.

"Therefore, I respectfully withdraw my letter dated Sept. 27, and hereby express my intention to fulfill my term of office."

Day also wrote Dr. Richard M. Clowes, county superintendent of schools, asking him to disregard his "information only" copy of the Sept. 27 letter.

Day was elected to the school board last April and seated July 2.

He cited business pressures and "situations constantly arising at board level" in his resignation which, at the time, he said was "immediate and irrevocable."

Coal industry hits Strip mining curbs

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The chief spokesman for the coal industry has called Senate passage Tuesday of a nationwide law to control strip mining "irresponsible."

"It's shackling the coal industry," Carl E. Bagge, president of the National Coal Association, declared.

On the Senate floor, just before the final vote Tuesday, Sen. James Allen, D-Ala., said the bill "would inevitably force some operators out of business."

A leading environmentalist, Louise Dunlap of the Environmental Policy Center, sees it another way.

"The industry's position has been 'Where you can't reclaim, don't strip mine'," she said after the vote. "If that's still their position, they have no reason to criticize this bill."

Doctors advised against sex relations with patients

LOSANGELES (UPI) —Dr. Sheldon H. Kardener, who helped write the questionnaire that showed some doctors have sex with their patients, says he's against it.

The relationship of physician to patient is like that of a parent to a child, he said Tuesday, and sex with the doctor causes a trauma similiar to that of incest.

"When the father becomes the lover, the daughter becomes an orphan," said Kardener, a professor of psychiatry at UCLA.

Kardener and two other UCLA researchers drew up and distributed the questionnaire that was sent to 1,000 Los Angeles area general practitioners, internists, obstetricians, gynecologists, surgeons and psychiatrists.

Of the 460 who responded, the vast majority, 87 per cent, said they do not engage in any form of erotic acticity with their patients, frowning on it as unethical or "professional suicide."

But the survey indicated that "five to 13 per cent of the total sample engaged in some kind of erotic behavior with their patients. Similarly, the incidence of erotic behavior, specifically including sexual intercourse, was 5 to 7.2 per cent," it said.

Five per cent of the 358 who responded to one question said they "frequently" or "always" have sexual relations with patients.

The reasons given by the doctors who replied—who remain anonymous--included to "help patients recognition of their own sexual status, especially in the middle aged female who is depressed or feels undesireable," to "teach sexual anatomy," to "uncover areas of sexual blocking", to "demonstrate there is no physical cause for absence of libido" and to "relieve frustration in a widow or divorcee."

The findings of the UCLA researchers were published in the current issue of the American Journal of Psychiatry.

Kardener said in an interview that although the great majority of doctors said they do not enageg in sex with patients, 19 per cent indicated they wonder why they should refrain.

He is preparing a paper that will detail why they should, he said.

The motive for the survey, according to a letter that accompanied questionnaire, was to "gain further knowledge in the extremely sensitive area of sexual practices between patients and their physicians. Histories of patients, both anecdotal and that such as Masters and Johnson's, suggests a high rate of erotic contact exists.

"No comparable survey of physicians responses has been conducted and we are left only with hearsay, speculation and rumor."

Rider, 12, injured when horse and truck collide

CHINO — Beth Ann Schmidt, 12, of 4710 Gettysburg St. suffered minor injuries Tuesday when her horse collided with a pickup truck on Walnut Avenue near Norton Avenue.

The young rider was treated at Chino General Hospital and released.

She was riding her horse west along the east shoulder of Walnut when the animal bolted into the path of the oncoming vehicle, highway patrolmen said. The horse wasn't seriously hurt.

Lawrence Cooke, 27, of 12549 Jacaranda St. was driver of the pickup.

Panel concludes six-year study on higher education

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Concluding a major six-year study, the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education today issued a priority agenda for the system of education beyond high school through the year 2000.

The commission's six priorities for action are: the advancement of social justice, clarification of the purposes of higher education, preservation of quality, constructive reform, effective governance and assurance of adequate resources.

"Survival, with memories of past glories, is not enough of a program for higher education as it approaches the year 2000," the commission said in its final report.

For one thing, public confidence in the value of higher education has been shaken in recent years, in part by student activism but also by other changes on the campus and in society, said the summary of 21 previous reports on aspects of higher education.

For another, the stresses on higher education may be quite different during the rest of the century than they were in the past decade. "The 1970s may belong to faculty activism as the 1960s did to that of the student," the 143-page report said.

For all its impact on public opinion, student activism was not the major change in higher education during the 1960s, the report added.

"The great change of the past decade was not the vociferous rise of student power but the quiet increase in public power —by governors, by legislators, by coordinating councils. Some of higher education already has the status of a highly controlled public utility."

The panel's final report on a study begun in 1967 was released at a news conference here. Dr. Clark Kerr, former president of the University of California, was commission chairman.

To advance social justice, the commission recommended that "all remnants of inequality of educational opportunity due to race, sex, family level of income and geographic location should be overcome substantially by 1980 and as completely as possible by the year 2000."

This should include major improvements in the federal student loan system; universal access to all areas of higher education including colleges, proprietary schools, on-the-job training, national service work and off-campus extension work, and increased recruitment of women and minority representatives into faculty and administrative jobs, the commission said.

The purposes of higher education —whether to advance the intellectual and professional capacities of individual students, to promote social goals, or to meet other needs —should be re-evaluated. "There should be some new aspirations, some new visions."

Quality should be preserved by maintaining the 1960s-level of federal support, giving more priority to basic research, social sciences and humanities; providing equal rewards for teaching and research, and increasing opportunities for independent study.

The commission also recommended the preservation of the black college system and private liberal arts colleges with special financial assistance to each.

The reform favored by the commission would give students more options in their college attendance —whether to go to college or not, to "stop-out" for work or travel, to attend nontraditional schools, or to defer college to a later age. It also would provide a greater diversity of college programs, perhaps by creating "cluster colleges" within schools.

The report identified four "new shocks" that may threaten the "endurance, flexibility, adaptability and continuing vitality" of higher education: Collective bargaining, which covers 15 per cent of college instructors; the politicalization of institutions, faculities and students; the possible resurgence of student activism, and the spread of public control.

Finally, the commission reiterated its proposal for increased tuitions over the next decade until they reach about one-third of educational costs compared with the current one-sixth, as one means of assuring adequate resources.

"If the current trends continue, the commission believes that facilities for students will become less adequate; research quality will decline; library resources will deteriorate, and more conflict will arise over the distribution of limited resources," the report said.

Use of electricity will be tallied

SEATTLE (UPI) —Seattle City Light customers soon will be receiving report cards on their conservation of electricity.

The utility plans to change its billing system to tell customers how many kilowatt hours they used last year and this year, during the same billing period.

A spokesman said the new bills should start going out within a few weeks.

Brain surgery halts violence

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Violent outbursts by two otherwise normal men were cured by brain operations, a neurosurgeon said Sunday.

Dr. John E. Adams of the University of California Medical Center said both men were victims of auto accidents and had suffered recognizable brain damage.

But Adams said the surgery "completely stopped" the outbursts and both men were "perfectly normal" after the operations with no loss of intelligence or adverse side effects.

The surgeon said both men had recovered from their auto accidents "except for these assaults. They came for no apparent reason."

CLAREMONT APPROVES NEW SEAL

CLAREMONT — This college community of 17,000 trees and 25,000 persons has a new city seal today—an arch-shaped logo with an outline of a tree in the center.

The City Council Tuesday night unanimously adopted the new seal, a brainchild of Adele Schoene, a mother of three and a member of the city Architectural Commission.

Mrs. Schoene will receive the $25 prize offered by the council last Dec. 12 after Councilmen Frank Hungerford and Gene Block agreed to work as a sub-committee to replace the seal the city as had since 1968.

One of the first things Hungerford went after when he became city councilman in April 1972 was that city seal should be changed.

Block agreed with him, and said the "free-flowing form" designed by a graphic design intern during the summer of 1968 was abstract.

Jay Olson, the intern, had said that his seal of curving lines was worked to "suggest a leaf within a leaf."

Councilwoman Claire McDonald had said at the time that the matter wasn't worth the fuss, but Councilwoman Berlye Smith felt it was time for a new city symbol, and that the leaf seal didn't add dignity for the city.

Mrs. Schoene who studied as an art major at Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y. and worked in advertising design in New York, presented four suggested seals to the council, which agreed with Hungerford's and Block's choice on the seal depicting the avocado tree at Mountain Avenue and Foothill Boulevard.

Mrs. Schoene, accompanied to the council meetiing by her husband Herman and their three children, explained to the council members that the arch form is repeated over and over again in the college, church, and home architecture throughout the city. She made the arch form the outline of the seal.

She said that Claremont is known for its beautiful trees, and explained that she had used the tree at Mountain Avenue and Foothill Boulevard to symbolize all of Claremont's trees. "It symbolizes life and growth," she said.

Mrs. Schoene illustrated how the suggested seal could be reduced in size to fit on a business card and still retain minute detail.

CALF KISS — Grace Veiga gets a feel of a young steer's rough tongue. Her father, Dominick Veiga Sr., and her uncle, George Veiga, are donating the calf to St. Margaret's Catholic Church calf sale Thursday at 7 p.m. at Maclin Caldwell Auction Co., 7407 E. Riverside Drive, Chino. A number of parishioners have given calves, some sheep, and even a turkey to be auctioned off to benefit the church. The sale is billed as part of St. Margaret's parish fiesta, which will be held on the Chino church grounds Oct. 19, 20, and 21.

Bonita School Board sets district tax rate of $4.9065

By ED PRATHER
P-B Staff Writer

SAN DIMAS — An official district tax rate of $4.9065 was announced by the Bonita School Board Tuesday night, realizing the more than $.175 tax cut promised by the district all year.

The total district tax rate is down from $6.6739 forlast year. The $1.7674 decrease is less than two cents off the $1.75 decrease predicted by Bonita Supt. James Johnson eight months ago.

Coupled with the decrease in junior college assessments, property owners will be receiving a schools tax cut of about $2.40 for the year.

An educational report was delivered to the board by two San Dimas High School vocational teachers, Don Pluim and Don Maurizio. They reported on the vocationl program at the school, which utilizes a new theory of instruction.

Formerly, explained Maurizio, vocational training centered on craft skills with students involved in individual projects, or in some cases class projects. The San Dimas approach is to use "industrial simulation" involving many different classes.

Under the program a drafting class may prepare plans for a project, while classes in woodworking, plastics and metals set up assembly line to produce the product. In addition, bookkeeping classes prepare work schedules and payrolls, and art classes work on advertisement campaigns.

For one project last year, he said, students even bought stock certificates, printed by the graphic arts class, which eventually tripled in value.

The idea, he continued, is to demonstrate the dependency between industries and the cooperation needed to complete a project. Students also discover what it is like to work on an assembly line or in other industrial environments.

In other business, the board:

—Was informed that the repair of the Bonita High School Library, damaged by fire duriing the summer, is now underway. Completion is expected by the end of December.

—Announced that bids for the phase two building program at Lone Hill School would be opened Nov. 1 and that board action on the bids would be taken at the Nov. 13 meeting.

—Was informed by Johnson that the administration is now studying Proposition One, tax initiative on the Nov. 6 ballot, and that a recommendation may be made at the next board meeting.

Air Force would help evacuation

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Air Force Chief of Staff George S. Brown said Monday the Air Force's only possible mission in the Mideast conflict would be to help evacuate U.S. citizens.

"In that case the normal plan is to evacuate under state department sponsorship through the use of commercial aviation," he said at the opening session of the 95th general conference of the National Guard Association of the United States.

He said the concern of the military in the Mideast war is to bring peace through the United Nations.

He also said military spending has decreased, while social programs have skyrocketed.

"The military services now consume fewer real dollars than at any time before the Korean War," Brown said. "Social programs have increased in cost to the taxpayers several hundreds per cent."

Love for S.F. foiled by police

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Eight Greek sailors who "fell in love" with San Francisco during a three-day visit and wanted to stay were hauled back aboard their ship by police Monday.

Police Capt. J. William Conroy said the sailors tried to jump ship shortly before the Vassilis Katskis departed from Pier 90, but they were rounded up and put back on board.

COSTELLO'S BAR—The cool, dark retreat on Third Avenue in midtown Manhattan for 40 years has been a second home for some of the best writers in America. Soon it will be gone.

End is near for bar in which writers toasted

By MATHIS CHAZANOV

NEW YORK (UPI) —Costello's is just another bar, a cool, dark retreat on Third Ave. in midtown Manhattan. For 40 years it has been a second home for some of the best writers in America.

Ernest Hemingway, James Thurber, John Steinbeck and John O'Hara were among the regulars, along with reporters and rewritemen from the nearby newspaper and wire service offices. Robert Ruark drank there, and so did A.J. Liebling, the critic, and a varied crowd from all the professions.

The north wall of the long, narrow tavern is taken up by a series of cartoons Thurber drew, some say to pay off his bar bills.

One shows a young man, wearing the leather football helmet of years gone by, straight-arming a long-haired girl who is trying to tackle him. "Mt. Holyoke 14-Yale 3," the caption reads. Mt. Holyoke is a girl's school.

In other cartoons skiers schuss into a living room before the nervous eyes of the resident couple; a man and woman play cards — the man is blindfolded.

The mirror behind the bar is half-hidden by an exotic collection of walking sticks, including a black wood cane that Hemingway broke over his skull to show which was stronger. The Hemingway cane has been tied together again with twine, and Timothy Costello, an affable man who inherited the place from his father, points it out to new customers when they ask about the legend.

Soon it will all be gone: the American Home Products Corp. which owns the property has decided it needs the space to expand its offices.

Founded as a speakeasy, Costello's went legitimate with the repeal of prohibition. Under the administration of Costello's late father, also named Timothy, it drew the literary crowd.

What it was that drew them to what was then a depressed area hidden from the sun by the Third Ave. elevated train was the force of his father's personality, Costello said.

"My father was a remarkable person, considering his background born in rural Ireland and all; he had a charming, winning way about him, although to certain people he could be a crusty bastard, too. The man had two sides."

One witness said the late Costello was sitting in a back booth when a well-known writer staggered in. "Look at that guy," he said. "He has been married three times, he's in hock up to his shotgun, he's trouble all around. If he had any money, I'd throw him out of here."

Costello's is expected to close by the first week in January. There will probably be a party.

Safeguards to prevent overexposure

FDA sets up rules to limit use of commercial Xray

By MICHAEL J. CONLON

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has proposed rules to protect the public from radiation emitted by commercial X-ray machines, including antihijacking devices in use at more than 30 major U.S. airports.

The rules would limit how much radiation can be given off in the vicinity of such machines and provide safeguards to prevent accidental exposure.

The X-ray machines involved are those enclosed in cabinets and used for such purposes as authenticating works of art or detecting flaws in solid matter. In recent months they have come into widespread use to screen airline carry-on luggage to detect weapons.

Last month Ralph Nader asked the Federal Aviation Administration to ban the airport use of such devices, saying passengers should not be exposed to them until the government sets safety standards.

At that time the Air Transport Association said 175 of the machines had been installed at a cost of $4 million.

Passengers are generally screened by metal detectors which do not employ X-rays. The FDA said the cabinet devices are also being used to uncover contraband at air, rail and bus terminals as well as in civilian and military post offices.

Under the proposal filed Monday for 60 days of public comment, X-ray emissions could be no higher than 0.5 millirentgen per hour at a distance of five centimeters, about two inches, from the equipment. Barriers would be required to prevent any part of a worker's body from passing before the primary X-ray beam. There would also be locking systems and other devices to guard against accidental exposure.

Medical and dental X-ray devices were covered by previous government safety rules and were not involved in the latest proposal.

Columbus statue unveiled in L.A.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —A $25,000 statue of Christopher Columbus was unveiled Monday in the Civic Center, opposite a statue of George Washington.

"Los Angeles was one of the few major cities in the United States without a monument to the discoverer of America. Now this vacuum has been filled," said the Rev. Luigi Donanzan, one of the leaders of the Sons of Italy fund raising campaign that paid for the statue.

'Ski America First' becomes the slogan as European costs soar

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (UPI) —More American skiers than ever will be schussing down slopes in the United States this year and fewer will be going to European ski centers.

The reason is cost—the devalued dollar and rampant inflation that have sent European prices soaring.

As a result, east coast and midwestern skiers are turning to the towering Rockies, the Sierra Nevada, Cascades and Wasatch in greater numbers than ever as western winter resorts prepare for their busiest season since the whole schuss boom began. The eastern resorts, as well, are anticipating a surge of new customers.

Skiing is not a poor man's sport. A national survey places the average income of a skiing family at more than $20,000 a year.

Affluent skiers in the eastern half of the United States commonly jet to France, Germany, Austria and Switzerland for a week or two in winter to tackle the more precipitous slopes of the Alps. The mountains are higher, more challenging to the experts than most of the slopes of upper New York state and New England.

But even the affluent skier balks at being skinned financially.

Since last October the dollar has been devalued throughout Europe. In the three major ski countries the dollar has decreased in value by as much as 32 per cent against the German mark; 27 per cent against the Swiss franc, and 18 per cent against the French franc.

On top of the loss of buying power the American tourist is beset by an inflation that in many instances doubles the price of food, clothing, lodging and ski equipment in Europe.

The result is an economic reappraisal this year by thousands of skiers who once waxed their skis and headed for Kitzbuehl, Innsbruck, Alpe d'Huez, Chamonix, Zermatt, Garmisch and other exotic Alpine wonderlands.

Skiers are executing stem christianias in the direction of Sun Valley, Aspen, Snowbird, Alta and Vail.

Mobile People

Of needs be skiers are highly mobile people. Unlike golfers or tennis players, they must travel considerable distances in most cases, to reach the snow-laden slopes.

Some 75 per cent of the country's skiers are between 25 and 50 years of age. Of those who fly to the snow country 60 per cent buy some type of package tour, and the tour is Europe's most enticing deal for American ski fanatics.

The airlines have been promoting ski tours for years and reflect the cost and accommodation open to skiers in Europe.

Through Dec. 1 and April 30, Air France offers weekly departures from New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia to nine modern French skiing resorts for $320-$360.

The package includes seven nights in a double occupancy room, motorcoach ride from the airport to destination and continental breakfast (coffee and roll).

Vacation Costs

For traditional resorts such as Chamonix and Courchevel the price can go as high as $492.

Germany's Lufthansa jets will carry American skiers to Munich in a group package for $260 roundtrip for a single week, $306 for two weeks, not including accommodations.

This year it will cost Americans about $125 for a week in Innsbruck for lodging, $135 at Kitzbuehel.

The prices do not include first class arrangements.

Total cost for the skier going to Europe, including transportation and housing but excluding meals, is a basic $350 average with no frills. Food and incidentals could easily double the cost. For a couple, then, a ski vacation could run to $1,500 with little or no trouble.

U.S. Prices

UNITED Airlines and TWA are giving foreign carriers a run for their money with increasing numbers of package and group flights from the east coast to the western mountain resort areas.

Under a new travel group charter program TWA is offering roundtrip flights from New York to Denver for as little as $129 every Saturday from Dec. 8 through April 6.

Optional accommodation packages at Aspen, Snowmass and Vail are priced from $71 - $196.

Thus the American skier heading west can expect a bare bones seven-day holiday for as little as $200 as against $350 for the trip to a German spa.

Double the American costs for food and incidentals for a couple and the total price for a week's skiing comes to, say, $900 or so compared to the $1,500 in Europe.

Best In World?

United Air Lines, the domestic leader in ski flights, offers charter bargains of $137 roundtrip from New York to Denver or $120 from York to Salt Lake City. From Chicago roundtrip to Denver and Salt Lake City the cost is only $104.

Western resorts lack the lure of foreign language and customs, but provide as good or better accommodations as those found in Europe, according to skiers who have tested the best runs in Germany and Switzerland as well as those of the Rockies.

Burt Sims, assistant managing editor of the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner, is one ski authority who says, "Some of the best sport in the world is western skiing.

"I've skied Europe, South America and the United States and I'm convinced skiing in the west is the best in the world. And now, with the financial squeeze on in all aspects of the leisure field, skiers are looking for ways to keep within the budget.

"There are good bargains in western skiing and have been for years. Skiing is not an inexpensive sport and now economic pressures in Europe will focus more attention on the west. Now is the time to ski out here."

Still Bargains

Even executives of American Express, a company whose major business is done abroad, agree that western ski resorts may anticipate a sharp upturn in reservations this year because of Europe's economy.

James Robinson, executive vice president of American Express, says there are still bargains in Europe for American tourists, especially in the United Kingdom, Greece and Spain. But there are no ski resorts in those countries. He said the picture is less bright for winter holidays in the Alps.

"A person not on a package tour will find a trip to Switzerland more expensive this year than in the past," he said. "The cost has increased 60 per cent in currency.

"Skiers are thinking less about the glamor of Switzerland and finding glamor in Sun Valley. The reason is the dollar now is undervalued abroad which will bring more skiers to the west."

Alan Coleman, president of the Sun Valley Co. Inc., predicts a boom in western skiing this winter.

Less Expensive

"A fairly affluent American will pause at a 10 per cent increase in prices abroad," he said. "But a 30 or 40 per cent increase will cause him to change his holiday plans.

"New England and east coast skiers are the ones who normally fly to Europe because the local skiing isn't as good. But now I think they will be coming out here where the slopes are even better and less expensive. There's no question it is now less expensive to come to Sun Valley than it is to go to Germany, Switzerland or Austria.

"In the past western Europe was more than just a place to ski. It was viewed as a seat of culture, scenic appeal and sports. But at current prices the west looks better all the time."

Eastern ski spokesmen echo those of the west.

Go West

Kay Scanlan, an official of the Eastern Ski Association, Brattleboro, Vt., which handles a good number of charter bookings for ski trips, told UPI:

"I think definitely more and more people, judging from our charter flights, are going out west rather than to Europe. It's because the dollar has gone down so much. It's a heck of a lot more expensive to go to France or Switzerland than to go out west."

Eastern skiing, too, should benefit, she noted. "Among other things," she said, "it is even cheaper to go to New England than west."

Whether skiing is better in the western United States than in the northeast depends, she said, "only on who gets the most snow." She added:

"There are few runs that match the National in Stowe, Vt. Stowe is really the best in the east. There's no way to get around it. And you can go to Stowe for $100 a week, and that's for everything—lift tickets and hotel and meals. You can't match that out west."

Eastern ski fans, while not downgrading the western ski slopes, do not concede western claims of superiority. They tell you that Sugarloaf in Maine, Killington in Vermont and Cannon and Wildcat in New Hampshire match anything else in the country.

Regional claims aside, it does all add up to one thing: More Americans will be skiing at home this year, whether in the east or the west.

Europeans reverse tale, plan U.S. ski vacations

GENEVA (UPI) —Things look so expensive for Americans wanting to make the European ski scene this winter that several European travel companies are actually organizing ski charters to go to the United States.

Dollar devaluations, European revaluations and general cost-of-living increases will raise this season's skiing prices by up to 50 per cent according to travel experts, who are advising Europeans to go ski in the States instead.

Swiss resorts, as usual, will be the most expensive and many Americans favoring Switzerland's famous Alpine slopes are expected to try some of the less glamorous, but cheaper, Italian centers.

"Even this summer we have noticed a lot fewer Americans, both the wealthier ones and the hitchhikers," said officials at the tourist office in St. Moritz, the world's most renowned and perhaps most expensive resort.

"We expect considerably fewer Americans this winter but there is little we can do about it," they said.

Prices soar

"If we started making special arrangements for Americans, there would be trouble with other people."

Prices for the 1973-74 season at St. Moritz have not yet been fixed, but even at last year's rates—and taking the current Swiss franc value of the dollar —one night in a medium category hotel, with breakfast and one meal, comes to $35. A simple restaurant meal cost a minimum of $10 and a 10-day pass for all ski lifts and cable cars is $50.

"Prices for Americans will probably be 40-50 per cent higher this winter," the officials said.

Zermatt, long an American favorite in Switzerland, believes that business from the United States will be as strong as ever this coming season despite price rises.

"All the cheaper hotels are booked out already," the Tourist Office said. "What we have noticed is that Americans, and especially the charter companies bringing them over, have taken the middle and lower category hotels instead of the first and luxury ones. They used to book the expensive hotels but this coming season it's different."

Austria not optimistic

Prices will be up some 35 per cent in Zermatt this season. A room, with bath and three meals, will come to $30 and a one-week pass for all lifts will cost $55.

Austria, one country which expects a lot of its skiers to take advantage of the financial situation to visit American resorts, intends to do what it can to attract vacationers from the United States but is not too optimistic.

"We can only hope that as many Americans as last year will be coming," said officials at Kitzbuehl, the number one Austrian resort. "But local prices will be up five to 10 per cent, which means Americans will have to pay 30 to 35 per cent more this winter."

And Austrian prices are still below those in other European resorts. Americans came third among tourists to Austria last winter—133,411 of them following West Germans and Britons.

France gloomy

France, the other big winter sports nation in Europe, is equally gloomy when it comes to American guests this winter. Said the Tourist Bureau at Chamonix, the resort below Europe's highest peak, the 15,771-foot Mont Blanc:

"There will be fewer Americans this winter because of the dollar's weakness. The big companies like TWA and Air France have asked for reservations but only tentatively. There is a reticence that we've never seen before. Americans are now asking about price details while before they weren't concerned."

Cape Kennedy may revert to Canaveral

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A committee of the government board responsible for geographic names recommended unanimously Tuesday that Cape Kennedy be changed back to the historic name of Cape Canaveral.

The recommendation would apply only to the geographic cape in Florida and would not change the name of the John F. Kennedy Space Center located on the cape and on a nearby island.

Chairman William D. Overstreet, chairman of the Domestic Names Committee of the Board of Geographic Names, said the action would be rushed to Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton, who would have authority to make official the renaming of the historic geographic site.

Historians believe the cape was originally called Canaveral by the Spanish explorer Ponce de Leon 400 years ago when he was searching for the Fountain of Youth. The name was changed shortly after President Kennedy was assassinated in 1963.

The Florida legislature already has changed the name to Canaveral so far as the state is concerned.

Electronic box warns of heart attack

BERKELEY (UPI) —An electronic box designed to give an audible warning when a person's heart show signs of an impending attack was demonstrated Monday by a University of California professor.

Dr. John W. Gofman, who developed the pocket-sized box, said it would beep if a patient's heart is going too fast, too slow or exhibiting a twitching behavior called "premature ventricular contraction."

Severe heart seizures, called ventricular fibrillations, often are preceded for several hours by PVCs, Gofman said.

His hope is that the beeping box will send such patients to physicians for anesthetic injections that almost always prevent the attack from occurring.

The device is hooked to the patient's chest by three pasted-on electrodes.

Gofman and engineers Robert Chapman and Richard Lawhorn have organized a firm to manufacture the device.

Lease money tied up until apartment is rented again

My daughter left her husband more than two months ago because he was cruel and beat one of the children. She was afraid for their lives and hers.

She took the children and ran away to Reno in an old car. They had to stop to put water in the radiator every quarter mile across the desert.

She used her sister's name so her husband couldn't trace her. When she found an apartment she was suffering from a nervous breakdown and, I say, not responsible for signing a six-month lease and paying in advance.

She was in the hospital and under a doctor's care for a month. I had to stay with her after she was out of the hospital and then I brought her back here.

When we left, the apartment managers promised to return her money as soon as the apartment was rented. It has been a month and we haven't received any refund. — E. F., Pomona.

You enclosed a copy of a rental agreement with Amesbury Place in Reno and later, at our request, sent a copy of a receipt showing that your daughter paid $1,492, covering six months of rent and a deposit.

In reply to an Action Line letter, Stephen C. Amesbury wrote to us that your daughter was told the policy of the Amesbury complex precluded renting to families with more than two children.

Your daughter, he said, told him she would sign a six-month lease and pay all the money in advance if he would make an exception in her case.

He stated that he agreed, provided she would accept an apartment where the presence of three children wouldn't inconvenience other tenants.

Amesbury said he told you that breaking the lease agreement constituted a breach of contract and entitled him to payment in full. He said he also told you he would return money left from the time the apartment was re-rented until the lease expiration date.

At the time he wrote to Action Line, Amesbury said, the apartment had not been rented although its availability had been made known to prospective tenants.

As soon as the apartment is re-rented, he promised, a check will be forwarded to your daughter for money due her under this agreement with you.

Pomona school trustees opposing Proposition 1, ceiling on taxes

POMONA — Pomona school board, in concert with four district employe groups, Tuesday went on record opposing Proposition 1 on the Nov. 6 ballot.

This is Gov. Reagan's initiative amendment to the state constitution which, if passed, would establish a tax ceiling.

Four Pomona school board members voted to oppose Proposition 1. One, Roy O. Day, abstained. He offered no explanation.

The board action followed a lengthy discussion during which representatives of the four employe groups spoke on the issue.

Urging the board to oppose the amendment were Judson F. Ellson, president of Associated Pomona Teachers; Eleanor Allen, president of Pomona Administrator's Association Richard Salgado, president of AFL-CIO Local 1080, Public Employes; and Jack Jones, representative of Pomona Chapter 14, California School Employes Association.

They were joined by James G. Ervin, secretary-treasurer of the Mt. San Antonio Field Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa; Mrs. Judy Ringquist, president of the Pomona League of Women Voters; and Mrs. Shirley Abrams, president of the Pomona PTA council.

Supt. Robert E. Wentz, expressing "deep concern for the level of funding for schools," told board members that "the rigidity of this constitutional change would remove the flexibility of the state to adjust its financial support to the changing needs of the school districts of the state, including the Pomona Unified School District."

Wentz said he felt the initiative, if passed, would be detrimental to long-term fiscal interests of the district and result in an undue and unwarranted burden on taxpayers of the district.

Dr. Garrett C. Nichols, assistant superintendent of business services, said Proposition 1 as it is written is so unclear and vague that, if passed, will "turn into the biggest lawyer's fight you've ever seen.

"I feel it's a gamble we cannot afford to take," he advised.

The motion to oppose the amendment, as recommended by the administrators, was made by board member Ken Pine, and seconded by Don Donnelly.

Lee Fuller of Diamond Bar rose from the audience to suggest that the board refrain from taking a position on Proposition 1 "because it has become a partisan matter." He met disagreement from board members.

In other action, the school board:

— Accepted $70,000 state funds through Assembly Bill 2284 to maintain the bilingual resource center at Hamilton Elementary School. The thrust of this program is to provide materials for teachers working with Spanish-speaking children, staff development for teachers, parents and instructional aides, and to foster community liaison assistance.

— Agreed to send six students from Simons Junior High School, along with two teachers, to the California Association of Future Homemakers of America conference Oct. 25-28 in Pacific Grove.

They are Vickie Rock, Rosemary Rumnel, Linda Saige, Patty Saige, Cynthia Williams and Jennifer Williams. Their teachers are Lorrayne Clark and Pamela Matsushima.

— Agreed to allow all three high schools in the district to continue limited noontime open campuses and to permit the use of automobiles, when parents give written consent. This action was recommended by district administrators and school principals.

The school campuses, however, will continue to be closed to outsiders.

— Approved expansion of the Pomona Children's Center at 1351 S. Main St. into two classrooms of the Trinity United Methodist Church at a cost of $200 a month, including utilities.

— Agreed to continue its agreement with Claremont Unified School District to provide data processing services for 1973-74 at a total cost of $67,990 — $4,400 more than last year due to increased labor and material costs.

— Approved a plan by the parks and recreation department to install lights on the softball field at Harrison Elementary School at no expense to the district.

Pomona couple's nightmare trip is having happy ending after all

By PAT SPENCER
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — A Pomona couple's dream trip turned nightmare is having a happy ending after all.

Last month, while Leroy "Pinky" Costello, 68, and his wife, Eveline, 67, a polio victim confined to wheelchair, were having lunch in a restaurant just off Route 128 in Burlington, Mass., their pickup truck, specially rigged camper and all their belongings and clothing were stolen.

The Costellos had planned a four-month trip and their loss amounted to well over $11,000. The vehicle has yet to be recovered by Boston police and the Costellos expect to receive less than $3,500 from their insurance coverage.

When the news of their loss was reported in local papers, Dave Altman, president of Altman's Recreational Vehicle Centers in Baldwin Park, launched a nationwide campaign to raise funds for the stranded couple.

So far, $2,000 of an expected $12,000 has been pledged to the Pinky Costello Fund.

That was the good news that greeted the Costellos Tuesday afternoon as they arrived at Ontario International Airport from Tempe, Ariz., where they had been staying with their daughter following the theft.

On hand to meet them were Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire, Altman, and a host of friends.

Both appeared to be in good spirits after their ordeal which they described as "nerve wracking." And both were glad to be back home. As Leroy quipped, "There's no place like California, smog and all."

A number of local organizations are working to replace the Costellos' belongings and to raise funds, including the Pomona Breakfast Lions Club, St. Madeleine and St. George's Catholic churches, General Telephone Co. and the Metropolitan Water District.

The fund is set up at the Hong Kong Bank of California, 1912 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, and interested persons may send donations direct or contact Lee Crawshaw, fund chairman at (213) 626-4282, Ext. 594.

WELCOME HOME

Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire greets Eveline and Leroy Costello as they arrive Tuesday at Ontario International Airport. The couple lost all their belongings when their camper was stolen during a trip back east, but a special fund-raising campaign is under way to help them recoup their $11,000 loss.

Advisory Council schedules meeting

MONTCLAIR — Members of the Montclair Community Advisory Council will meet tonight at 7:30 in the staff dining room at Montclair High School.

Agenda items include a discussion of back-to-school night Oct. 24, a review of school goals, selection of representatives to the district advisory committee, and discussions of the student resource center and vocational programs.

Principal Dean Smothers said the meeting is open to the public.

Pythians slate district meeting at local lodge

POMONA — The Pomona Lodge of the Knights of Pythias will be host at a district meeting at 8 p.m. Monday.

Prior to the meeting, a dinner will be served at 7 p.m. for all Knights and Pythian Sisters. Both the dinner and meeting will be at the lodge hall at 455 Pomona Mall West.

The honored guest at the meeting will be Charles Coy of Stockton, grand chancellor commander for California. He will be accompanied by Charles Weathers of Los Angeles, grand prelate of California.

Officiating at the district meeting, which will include the lodges from Tustin, Riverside and Highlands, will be Robert A. Treat, District Deputy Grand Chancellor.

Switch uncovered; both brothers are in jail now

POMONA — Two half-brothers have been charged with felonious escape after one posed as the other and was released from jail briefly on bail, police reported.

Officers gave this account:

Ruben Julio Rivas, 18, 931 E. Third St., was seen by officers Friday morning at Ninth Street and Towne Avenue. He wore a probation department camp jacket and was stopped and questioned. He admitted having escaped from a youth camp Sept. 20 and was arrested. He also was charged with being under the influence of narcotics.

Also in jail at the time was Rivas' half-brother, Ronald Anthony Ortiz, 18. He had been booked on a charge of prowling. Monday morning Ortiz was to be released on bail, but when the jailer called his name, Rivas answered and was wearing Ortiz' plastic identification bracelet. He was processed out.

But a short time later, Fred Brewer, Pomona bail bondsman, discovered that the wrong man had been released. He returned Rivas to jail and refused to bail out Ortiz. Both men subsequently were booked on escape charges.

Fairground activities continue

POMONA — Interim events such as a Pomona Valley Model A Club swap meet and a Pomona Antique Show resume during October at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds after the closing of the 46th county fair.

Calizona Appaloosa Assn. has planned a horse show Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 13-14 and on that show there also will be a Model A Club swap meet and the Southern California Roller Club's pigeon show.

Riverside Arabian Breeders will hold an Arabian horse show in the Carnation Ring Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 20-21 with an Arabian horse show scheduled for that Sunday.

The annual Pomona Antique Show, presented by Bucks of Upland will be held Thursday through Sunday, Oct. 25-28 in the Home Arts building, a new location for the fall event.

San Fernando Pinto Breeders wind up the October activities with a horse show Saturday, Oct. 27.

Physical fitness class for men at Y

POMONA — A men's physical fitness class sponsored by the Pomona Valley YMCA will begin a new session Monday.

The class meets from 7 to 7:45 a.m. and from 7 to 7:45 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and is designed to develop muscular strength and endurance needed in vocational and recreational activities.

Medical approval will be required for participation

For further information, persons may call 623-6433.

Planning Commission will hear case for 2 road-race courses in Pomona

POMONA — This city may soon join Ontario in providing the thrills of auto racing.

Unlike the Ontario Motor Speedway, however, the Grand Prix of America, Inc., is proposing to build two scaled down road-race coarses where customers can drive smaller models of Formula One racers.

Firm officials will appear tonight before the Pomona Planning Commission seeking approval of an environmental impact report and a conditional use permit to allow the recreational facility to be constructed on eight acres at the southeast corner of First Street and East End Avenue.

In the application, officials said the cars would be powered by rotary engines and be limited to speeds of 30 to 40 miles an hour.

"Use of the premises shall provide a wholesome recreational outlet for young people of the Pomona community, with participation being limited to those persons holding automobile drivers' licenses from the Department of Motor Vehicles," they added.

The proposed site, now vacant, is zoned for manufacturing use. The Planning Commission determined two weeks ago the proposed use would be compatible with such zoning.

The planners will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the City Council chambers.

In the environmental impact report, officials indicate the project is intended to start Thursday, with completion set for Dec. 31.

The city planning staff has recommended approval of the use permit, based on these reasons:

—The proposed project seems to have a high probability of economic success; it will provide a needed outlet for a safe sporting experience; it should result in a significant improvement in the area's appearance; the site is well located to minimize any detrimental effect on the community, both in terms of noise and traffic; and with the open character of the proposed project, this is not an irrevocable commitment of the area to this use, notwithstanding the significant investment proposed by the applicant in their facilities.

Other agenda items include:

—Public hearing for a conditional use permit requested by Ray L. Birge to establish an on-sale liquor establishment at 446 E. Mission Blvd. The premises was formerly known as "The Shanty."

—Public hearing for a change of zone requested by Charlotte Livingston and Leonard Oakley, from R 1 (single family residential) to APS (administrative-professional) at 1920 N. Garey Ave. and 1905 Berkshire Way.

—Public hearing for a proposed ordinance amendment to establish procedures for voiding conditional use permits, including those not already issued, if the approved development hasn't started within a specific date.

—Discussion of a draft environmental impact statement for Ontario International Airport.

—Discussion of massage parlor controls.

Bugliosi tells Rotary

Return of death penalty doesn't affect Manson

POMONA — Charles Manson and co-defendants convicted in the Tate-La-Bianca murder trial have escaped the gas chamber and might even win parole eventually, the chief prosecutor in that trial told members of the Rotary Club on Tuesday in the Elks Lodge.

Vincent Bugliosi said that even though the death penalty has been reinstituted in California for certain types of murder, it is not retroactive.

This, said Bugliosi, is "a miscarriage of justice" in that the Manson "family" was convicted of the murder of seven people.

He said that Manson would be able to apply for parole after seven years, but that it was not likely that he would be released in 10 or 11 years. Bugliosi added that he "would not be shocked" if Manson won parole in 20 years.

The prosecutor described Manson as a "powerful personality" who had a twisted, sick mind but was not legally insane. His motive for the murders, Bugliosi said, stemmed from a morbid preoccupation with death and an obsession to strike out against the establishment.

Manson was able to dominate the members of his "family", Bugliosi stated, because they were dropouts from society who were vulnerable to a stronger personality who used fear, sex, and hallucinogenic drugs to influence their behavior.

Bugliosi said that if Manson had received in-depth psychiatric examination during the 26 years he had spent in reformatories, jails and prisons his threat to society might have been recognized and he might not have been set free.

Mr. Agnew vs. the vice president

If there is anything Americans take to their bosoms more readily than an underdog, it's an underdog with spunk.

Make no mistake about it, even a vice president of the United States can be an underdog. But as Spiro T. Agnew made plain in Los Angeles the other day in his ringing address to the National Federation of Republican Women, he is not about to roll over and play dead.

No doubt the cheers of his partisan audience were echoed in many homes throughout the land, and no doubt Mr. Agnew won many Americans over to his corner by his demeanor that day.

Yet the very pugnaciousness of his stance emphasizes the contradictions of his performance: The Vice President says one thing; at the same time his lawyers acting in his name do almost the opposite.

For example, on the one hand Mr. Agnew decries — and rightly — the "flagrant violations" of the constitutionally guaranteed secrecy of grand jury proceedings and his resulting "kangaroo trial in the media."

On the other hand, his lawyers attempt to persuade the courts that their interpretation of the Constitution precludes a grand jury from investigating, even secretly the allegations that have been brought against him.

On the one hand, Mr. Agnew calls for "the widest possible hearing" on the charges and on the other attempts to limit the investigation to the House of Representatives, even though a congressional committee, unlike a court of law, is not bound to observe the rules of evidence or permit an accused to confront his accusers.

On the one hand, Mr. Agnew proclaims his innocence, and on the other is willing to suffer the extreme punishment of impeachment and removal from office before risking the determination of that innocence in court.

Every American should fervently hope that the nation's vice president can vindicate himself — completely, unquestionably and soon.

At this uncertain juncture, however, while Spiro Agnew bravely challenges his enemies to fair and open battle, he seems to be doing everything he can to make sure the battle never takes place.

Vets benefit from space

Chalk up another down-to-earth benefit from space.

Remember the fire that swept the top floor of the Military Personnel Records Center in St. Louis last July? Millions of the fire-and water-damaged records, which previously would have been unsalvagable, are being restored in a space chamber once used in the Mercury and Gemini missions.

The soggy records are trucked from the Center to McDonnell Douglas Corp. in light, open milk-carton cases. Each case holds about 200 records and 2,000 cases fit at one time into the 14-foot space chamber.

After the chamber is sealed, the drying process begins with a hot-to-cold cycle in which the records are heated to 140 degrees with warm,dry air, then frozen while the space chamber pressure is gradually lowered to 0.088 pounds per square inch (normal air pressure is 15 psi).

The frozen water molecules are squeezed from the documents by the pressure drop and vented from the chamber. A drying cycle takes from four to six minutes and complete drying requires about five days.

It's a small thing for mankind, but of tremendous importance to veterans or their families in seeking to establish eligibility for various government benefits.

Baby development

"We are selling parts of our minority population down the river" by making the model of the white Caucasian baby the rule to follow in infant development, says pediatrician Dr. T. Berry Brazelton.

Some of Brazelton's findings, based on 20 years of practice in the United States, plus studies he conducted in Africa and southern Mexico, are detailed in Race Relations Reporter magazine.

A newborn Mayan baby, for example, will follow a dangling red ball for several minutes at a time. The best a white baby will do, says Brazelton, is a minute and a half. Mayan babies are also more immune to cold and stress.

In Africa, if you pull a newborn black baby up to sit, "he has enough motor strength for his head to come up in one heave and they come right up on their feet." Your typical white baby "doesn't have the kind of motor capacity or the energy or the motivation to do what the black baby can."

No wonder, says Brazelton, that "the white community wants to keep them down. They just might take off."

It is not clear who is keeping Mayan babies down. Maybe it's the Aztecs.

Grain firms put squeeze on farmers

WASHINGTON — A confidential congressional memo accuses the giant grain companies of using their power over transportation to squeeze small farmers out of their profits.

The memo, prepared for the House Agriculture Committee by Rep. John Melcher, D-Mont., charges that "farmers are being fleeced by big grain companies gouging them for use of hopper cars needed to get their grain to market."

Here's how the squeeze play works: The agribusiness barons have gained a stranglehold on boxcars. The grain elevators are full, so the farmers can't store their grain. The only boxcars available are controlled by the grain companies, which offer the farmers as little for their grain as $1 a bushel less than the market price.

"The spread between prices paid farmers for grain at interior points in America and value at port of final destination has increased two and threefold . . ." declares the memo. "Only a very fortunate few farmers whose marketing organization is able to move grain are really getting the prices we see in the paper."

The difference is going into the fat bank accounts of the agribusiness barons who are profiting by controlling the rails like the robber barons of old.

NIXON THE LAWYER: When John Dean was still President Nixon's fair-haired legal counsel, we reported Dean had been fired from his first law job for a grievous conflict of interest. This stirred rumors that the President, himself, had been cited for unethical conduct on his first law job. We have now dug back 35 years to find out what kind of lawyer young Richard Nixon was.

After graduating third in his class scholastically from Duke Law School, Nixon joined the prestigious, old Whittier law firm of Wingert and Bewley in 1937. He was the same orderly studious, fastidious Nixon, driven by ambition, that his subordinates would recognize today. One of his first acts, for example, was to clean out the law firm's musty library, clean the shelves and rearrange the books.

He buried himself in work and rapidly became the firm's chief trial lawyer. He was also a specialist on estates and taxes. There is one reference in the early court records to his professional conduct.

His law firm obtained a court order compelling a land sale to pay damages that had been awarded to a client. Nixon showed up at the sale on June 29, 1938, and purchased the property for the client, without authorization. Nixon paid the full amount of the unpaid portion of the damages.

The client, charging that Nixon purchased the land without her knowledge, asked the court to set aside the sale. While the old Canon of Ethics then in force was vague, it had been established practice that an attorney shouldn't make purchases for a client without the client's express authority.

FOOTNOTE: The White House responded to our questions by saying it was "absurd" to comment on a case 35 years old.

SECRET SACKING: At secret U.S. insistence, the South Vietnamese government has sacked its corrupt Customs personnel director. A message classified "secret-Sensitive" from U.S. Customs Service's Saigon field office to Washington urged American pressure to fire Nguyen Huy Xuong.

The message warned that Xuong was involved in the narcotics traffic and, worse, that his sensitive position permitted him to place corrupt underlings in key South Vietnamese seaports and airports.

"We ask that you request your sources to obtain the removal of this individual (Xuong)," appealed the secret dispatch to Washington. "If we can place an honest, decent man in this position, he legally can keep the cliques or groups of persons in separate areas so they cannot band together (This would) assist the United States in the seizure of large quantities of narcotics."

U.S. pressure was applied and resulted in Xuong's dismissal. But our federal narcotics sources tell us gloomily that his departure didn't have the desired result. South Vietnam's customs service remains riddled with corruption.

NADER HATER: Some people think Ralph Nader is all wet. The other night at the Kennedy Center, he was.

Nader had a glass full of ice water dashed in his face by Nick Zill, the husband of a disgruntled ex-Nader raider.

Seething with anger and dripping with water, Nader demanded an apology from host Stewart Mott, the General Motors heir and Nader admirer. Mott complied.

MAHON'S MUTINY: House Democrats are in a huff over the defection of George Mahon, the powerful, 73-year-old Appropriations Chairman, on the critical override vote on the emergency hospitals program. Speaker Carl Albert was able to jawbone all but six Democrats to vote to override.

But Mahon and Internal Security Chairman Richard Ichord ignored the appeal. Now, liberal Democrats are seriously talking about challenging the position of the two chairmen "I don't see why they should get the benefits of leadership if they don't follow the party's position," one Congressman told us.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Sleeplessness can be lethal

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) —One of the first things you learn in the newspaper business is to beware of absolutes.

Report that something unprecedented has happened and you almost certainly will find yourself writing a correction for the next edition.

For someone surely will discover that the same thing happened in East Iota, Iowa, back in 1903.

Due primarily to inexperience, most physicians lack this cautionary bent. When a doctor commits himself to the public prints, he is likely to toss in a few categorical statements, figuring, perhaps, that nobody will bother to check them out.

Which may be what happened in an article on insomnia in the current issue of McCall's magazine.

The author, Dr. William Nolen, wrote that "no one ever died of insomnia." When I read this, I said to myself "Aha! I'll bet my last bottle of barbiturates he wrote that off the top of his head without consulting his medical library."

Since insomnia is not normally considered a terminal condition, I'll bet he just assumed nobody had ever died of it, I said.

So saying, I picked up my copy of the Guinness Book of World Records and turned to the section on "Sleeplessness."

There I was informed that the longest recorded period a human being had gone without sleep under medical supervision was the 11 days, 18 hours and 55 minutes of wakefulness logged by Mrs. Bertha Van Der Merwe of Cape Town, South Africa, in 1968.

I also was informed that a certain Toimi Artturinpoika Silvo of Hamina, Finland, was reputed to have stayed awake from March 1 to April 2 in 1967.

Both apparently survived, although Silvo lost 33 pounds.

On the surface, these records appear to support Nolen's reference to zero fatalities among insomnia victims. But bear in mind both were cases of voluntary sleeplessness. Insomnia, of course, is anything but voluntary.

Guinness curiously fails to include the record for involuntary sleeplessness. Nevertheless, it contains grounds for impugning Nolen.

It reports that a certain Eustace Rushworth Burnett of Hose, Leicestershire, England, "claimed to have lost all desire to sleep in 1907, and that he never again went to bed." He finally died in 1965 at the age of 85.

Since Guinness does not list the cause of death, it must be assumed that Burnett died from lack of sleep. It took 58 years, but insomnia finally killed him.

In his next article, I trust that Nolen will acknowledge the lethal potential of insomnia. If something else doesn't get you first, sooner or later insomnia will.

LETTERS FROM P-B READERS

As others see it . . . letters

Humane society

In recent weeks I have read several articles concerning our Humane Society, and its director Bruce Richards. The initial article was written several weeks ago by a Progress-Bulletin reporter. That reporter had accompanied Richards on a so-called inspection tour of the Pomona Valley and its stray dog problem.

That tour, and the resulting article, created a furor that ended up at the City Council. I don't remember all the details of the article, but I do have one question regarding some statistics that were brought out in the article. It was stated that there are some 18,000 dogs in the city, and only 13,000 are licensed! WHY?

Subsequent articles proved that Richards really didn't know what he was talking about! In their "unofficial" survey they only found ONE dog running loose! Subsequent articles and complaints proved that this was not an accurate statement! Even a dog has enough sense not to roam in the heat of the day, at which time the "survey" was taken!

The final straw, which made it impossible for me to stay quiet any longer, was an article in "Action Line." The Humane Society had determined that a dog had distemper! Vets go to school for a long time to gain the expertise needed to make this kind of decision, but our esteemed Humane Society can make the same determination by "how a dog walks"! So, they put the dog to sleep!

The lady whose pet was "put to sleep" has my sincere sympathy. She, too, has been subjected to the "expertise" of our esteemed Humane Society. I would ask her one final question . . . was her dog friendly? I've never seen an unfriendly dog picked up yet. Is that the secret to being able to allow them to roam at will? — Mike Minnehan, Claremont.

Gossip for today

There is more than one way to confound parents and win an argument, and many of today's younger generation are getting unusually adept at that sort of one-upsmanship. I have in mind as a case in point a young fellow who recently asked his parents:

"How would you like me to grow up and be like Thomas Jefferson or Nathan Hale?"

Naturally his parents were overjoyed at this disposition on his part to pattern his life after such great American patriots.

"Fine!" they said, "We'd be mighty proud of you."

"Oh, I'm so glad you feel that way," continued the lad. "And, by the way, perhaps I should tell you that both Jefferson and Hale wore their hair in ponytails."

INSIDE REPORT

Goldwater irate over Agnew case

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Sen. Barry Goldwater, the conservative Republican elder whose advice on the Agnew affair is widely respected, has privately warned President Nixon through intermediaries that a vice presidential vacancy would be no blessing either for the President or his party.

Goldwater declines to confirm or deny that he has discussed the Agnew affair with the White House. In truth, however, the Senator specifically told Mr. Nixon that either Gov. Nelson Rockefeller or John B. Connally would "split the GOP" if named to succeed Agnew.

He was reacting to widespread reports of the White House plotting Agnew's early exit, thus giving Mr. Nixon the opportunity not only to anoint his successor but also to pull public attention off Watergate by naming a new Vice President.

Not so. Goldwater is said by high party officials to have warned the White House. If Agnew resigned, Mr. Nixon could not name a prospective 1976 Republican presidential candidate without doing serious damage to the Republican party.

The reason: party factions controlled by a leader not named to the vacancy would resent the new Vice President having a long leg up on the 1976 nomination. Consequently, creation of a vacancy in the vice presidency during a time that the President himself is at so low an ebb of popularity could splinter the party.

A footnote: Goldwater intimates agree that, although he is saying little publicly, he is seething over White House handling of the Agnew affair. The White House is well aware of this, yet Mr. Nixon has not once sought Goldwater's advice, an oversight some Republican officials think he may live to rue.

Reform & the Jewish vote

Democratic politicians are grumbling that Baltimore city councilwoman Barbara Mikulski has not only sold out to the extreme reformers as chairman of the party's Delegate Selection Commission but has compounded that error by needlessly offending Jewish voters.

Miss Mikulski scheduled working sessions of her commission's 17-member drafting committee over two weekends to coincide with the two most important Jewish religious holidays, Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur.

When this was pointed out to Miss Mikulski, she responded that no member of the drafting committee or the commission staff is Jewish, so it did not make any difference. But it did make a difference to Democratic national chairman Robert Strauss, who is Jewish and was personally offended by Miss Mikulski's attitude.

Moreover, many non-Jewish Democratic politicians felt that both the unintentional exclusion of Jews from the reformer-dominated drafting committee handpicked by Miss Mikulski and her scheduling of the meetings showed insensitivity to a harsh political reality: the 1972 convention delegate quotas, now being reconsidered by the Mikulski commission, contributed to massive Jewish defections from Sen. George McGovern.

So George Barrett, a labor lawyer from Nashville, Tenn., made one last effort in the drafting committee Sept. 30. Could the committee at least recess between Friday sundown Oct. 5 and Saturday sundown Oct. 6, the 24 hours of Yom Kippur? Miss Mikulski objected on grounds the agenda could not be changed.

Two months earlier, she had been asked by Lawrence Peirez, chairman of the national civil right committee of the Anti-Defamation league, not to schedule meetings that would "conflict with days of holy obligation, high holidays or the Sabbath."

That Aug. 8 letter from Peirez also complained that commission hearings were not conducted in three states with heavy Jewish population: New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. "This commission has frustrated its charge by skipping over these areas in which the majority of Jewish voters live," he wrote. "This is the antithesis of affirmative action (to insure minority representation)."

Fulbright in danger?

Key advisers to Gov. Dale Bumpers of Arkansas, including some of the state's powerful Democratic politicians, are privately pushing him to run against one of the Senate's most important doves: Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Bumpers, 48, still popular after three years as governor, would be strongly favored to defeat Fulbright, first elected to the Senate in 1944, in the 1974 Democratic primary. But Bumpers, hoping for a place on the national ticket in 1976 and backed by several Democratic governors as a presidential darkhorse, will think twice about alienating the politically potent peace block by opposing Fulbright.

Bumpers's advisers acknowledge that risk but feel it is outweighted by the fact that defeating Fulbright would make Bumpers a national figure and give him a long-term political base.

For Upland school

Master committees okayed

By PATRICK SPENCER
P-B Staff Writer

UPLAND — In line with Dist. Supt. Bill Plaster's recommendations for the development of a master plan for future education, the Upland school board Tuesday night approved the formation and composition of three 49-member committees to aid in the project.

As outlined by Plaster, the committees will cover the areas of instructional programs, including educational goals, philosophies, priorities and curricula; assessment of housing needs, including school sizes and formation of attendance areas; and needs of special programs in terms of instruction and facilities.

Plaster originally proposed each committee be composed of three parents from each of the district's 11 schools, an elected teacher from each school, a representative each from United Teachers of America, Professional Educators Group and California School Employes Association; plus two administrators to co-chair each committee.

Board President William S. Rugg and other board memebers, in discussing the matter, felt it would be advisable to cut down the number of parent representation in favor of more representation from community members not regularly associated with the district to gain a broader sampling of points of view.

Board members felt that the opinions of older adults who are not parents of children in the district, as well as the views of college-and high school-age persons, would be helpful in developing the district's master educational plan.

Following the discussions, the board decided to cut the number of parents from three to two on each committee and to include 11 community members-at-large in each group.

Professional and administrative representation will remain as originally proposed.

Plaster also outlined a schedule which the committees will follow in the course of their work. Following orientation meetings with district personnel on the purposes of the plan, the committees will begin holding regular discussion meetings from Nov. 12 through May 1, 1974.

The committees' final recommendations, as well as all background information, will be presented to the school board on May 13.

Public hearings will be held May 20, 28 and June 4 to allow other members of the community to express their opinions on the master plan and the board is scheduled to adopt the plan at or shortly after the final public hearing.

Plaster added that regular progress reports on the committees' work will be made throughout the six-month planning period.

In other action, the board:

—Approved the appointment of Walter L. Stout as vice principal of Upland Junior High School. Stout, 38, was formerly principal of a high school in El Centro. He holds degrees from both Cal State Fresno and USC, and was field services instructor at La Verne College.

—Heard a lengthy presentation on the impact of Proposition 1, Gov. Reagan's tax initiative measure, from Business Manager Glenn Hardy. In general, Hardy explained that the measure which sets limits on income taxes and state spending, if passed, would seriously hamper educational programs, interfere with the district's eligibility for federal funds and also result in an increase in district property taxes.

Following Hardy's presentation, board member William F. Emrich moved that the board go on record as opposing the intiative since, he said, "it might endanger the education of our children."

Other members were split on the issue, with only George Ehrnman supporting Emrich's motion. President Rugg voted against the motion, commenting that the board must represent both the "yes" and "no" voters of the community. Board member Erwin J. Schneekluth abstained from the vote saying that he had insufficient knowledge of the measure to make a decision at this time.

—Heard a presentation by Asst. Supt. Darrel Dawes on the results of state-mandated Cooperative Primary Reading Test administered to first, second and third graders last May. In general, Dawes said, the results were good and indicated that the children had scored well above expectancy levels set by publishers of the tests.

'Affirmative Action Program'

Recruiting drive on for deputies

SAN BERNARDINO — The San Bernardino County Sheriff's Department has begun an active recruitment that will reach into all segments of the county to interest men and women in a law enforcement career, announced Sheriff Frank Bland.

Last month Bland appointed Sgt. Paul R. Bruce to head the special program, called "Affirmative Action Program." Sgt. Bruce said "we will actively seek new applicants for the position of sheriff's deputy in all areas of the county. We are particularly interested in applicants who are bilingual."

Bruce said men between the ages of 21 and 36, with a minimum height of 5 feet 9, who have a high school diploma or a G.E.D. certificate may be eligible for a positions of deputy sheriff. Bruce said in addition the applicants must have at least 20-40 vision uncorrected, no felony criminal record or lengthy misdemeanor record, and a good driving record.

Applicants may apply at the sheriff department's personnel office, 157 Fifth St., or at any sheriff's substation. Applicant testing is held on Thursdays every two weeks. Applicants accepted by the sheriff's department will be required to attend a 12-week Sheriff's Academy course before they are accepted as a regular deputy.

Bruce said that the salary for a deputy sheriff begins at $845 per month with 10 per cent overtime per month guaranteed.

For further information interested residents may contact Sgt. Bruce at 383-2511 ext. 264.

City, chamber honor former Chino judge

CHINO — Former judge Ben Burrell was presented a special resolution and commedation from the City of Chino and the Chino Valley Chamber of Commerce during a joint meeting of the two groups Tuesday night.

Mayor Bob McLeod made the presentation on behalf of the council and chamber during a dinner meeting at the Centro Basco Restaurant. Burrell was the guest of honor at the quarterly meeting.

Burrell became judge of the Chino Justice Court following a successful write-in campaign in late 1964. He served in that position from January 1965 to June 30 of this year when he became a traffic referee for the West Valley Division of Municipal Courts for the county.

McLeod commented that Burrell was "part of the family and belongs to Chino. He's an outstanding member of the community and the only man I've ever seen who had a write-in campaign and carried it with a three-fourth majority."

Burrell, who served as a California highway patrolman for 13 years and does not hold a license to practice law, was applauded for his method of operating the local court.

"I firmly believe that, regardless of law, the constitutional rights of the United States provide that our courts are concerned and dedicated to justice for all men. We've seen justice in this (Chino) court. We've seen humanity," said McLeod.

Reading the resolution which listed Burrell's accomplishments, McLeod said the presentation was "inappropriate because it does not recognize the capabilities of you as an individual and as a justice court judge."

"We wish to commend and congratulate Judge Burrell for his service. This is a small token of appreciation to you as a servant to the community and an extreme example of service as an individual," McLeod concluded.

In accepting the resolution, Burrell spoke of the "continued growth" of the City of Chino and plugged the passage of the tax override at 25 cents per $100 assessed valuation to be put before the voters on Oct. 23.

He asked that those present urge others to "support the community, get out and work for it so we can have our new facilities."

McLeod noted that this year had been the biggest one yet for the city. He reported that Kaiser and Aetna Co. were considering location in Chino and the shopping complex near the Pomona Freeway had several firms already committed. Among this latter would be a motel, two new restaurants, a bank and a Thrifty's Drugs.

"There are two new industries which with every indication we'll see go in this year," he continued. "We are growing. I think it is very beneficial. I still have some qualms. I would like to see more industrial and commercial businesses. I have some qualms about the rate of residential growth. But overall Chino is growing and on the move."

PRACTICE AND LEARN

Rosalie Morales cooks sausage while Dorothy Hall, in background, beats eggs for scrambling. Both girls are in Ethelyn Orton's class and are participating in a "learn through doing" method of teaching nutrients and food essentials by fixing breakfast for the fourth grade class.

Teacher turns nutrition study into tasty topic

By MAE TATE
P-B Staff Writer

CHINO — Ethelyn Orton's fourth-grade class at El Rancho School is learning about nutrition and good food through cooking.

The 28 children in Mrs. Orton's class have prepared breakfast for themselves each Friday morning since school's opening in September. This is the second year for the "learn through doing" method, and Mrs. Orton feels confident the breakfasts will continue with student enthusiasm next year.

"September is Better Breakfast Month. This is an outgrowth of this," she said, pointing to a bulletin board. "On this board are the key food nutrients and each meal is planned around this. We want to stress starting school with a good breakfast in the morning."

The 18-year veteran of Chino schools divided the children into four groups with each group planning its own menu for its Friday meal. Committee meetings are held on Monday to outline the menu and enable children to volunteer various foods from the cabinets at home. Following the check and approval from mothers, a second meeting is held.

Mrs. Orton provides the meat. Each child is assigned a task and is responsible for such in the preparation of the meal.

Last week, Rosalie Morales, a long-haired miss with glasses, cooked the sausage while Dorothy Hall beat and scrambled eggs. Rudy Nunes and Frank Cervantez had charge of the toaster. Helen Garcia and Josephine Inacio served the boysenberry juice.

The children decided to invite a guest to enjoy the meal with them each week. Principal Ralph Mendoza; Mike Setlich, assistant principal; and Jess Garcia, head custodian at El Rancho, have all sat in the guest of honor seat in room 12.

"The children set the table. We talked about how to place the silverware. And, of course, they help with the cleanup. Everyone works together. Most of them are willing to clean up, but that's not the glorious part of it," Mrs. Orton said.

This participation becomes evident as the children gather around the sink with their utensils. Dorothy and Josephine scrub the table diligently with cleanser while Rudy and Frank rush to pick up the toaster and crumbs around it.

"It works out much better this way. Each child gets to participate this way. We'll possibly continue this each year if the children wish to. It's such a rewarding experience. As long as the children want to do it, we will," Mrs. Orton stated.

The other students taking part in the breakfasts are Johnny Fagundes, Kelton Francis, Ruben Freitas, Ruben Herrera, Douglas Hoffman, Chris Long, George Martins, Rick Moreth, Richard Phelps, Avie Reece, Lisa Alcala, Cynthia Alvarez, Regina Alvarran, Renee Arcides, Helen Garcia, Cherie Houston, Roseanne Ochoa, Rita Pindell, Nora Radford, Annette Robles, Stacy Scott, Cynthia Tapia and Eladia Torres.

The last breakfast of this year will be held Friday.

Cub Scouts will vie in olympics

ONTARIO —Cub Scouts in the Broken Arrow District, serving Ontario, Montclair and Chino, will compete Saturday at Chaffey High School in the fourth annual Cub Olympics.

Beginning at 10 a.m. with a parade, the scouts will compete against their own age group in the 50-and 100-yard dashes, the running and standing long jump, the 440-yard relay, the 660-yard walk, softball throw, tug-of-war and other events.

Each scout will be allowed to enter up to eight events with total scores from the best six events used to determine the top finishers.

Over 300 scouts are expected to participate.

The public is invited to attend.

Social service group asking for delegates

CHINO — The Chino Council of Social Services has invited churches and civic organizations in the community to select representatives to serve as members of the COSS associate board of directors for 1973-74.

The COSS meetings are held on the third Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in the community room of the Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan building.

On Oct. 18 COSS will hold a special workshop meeting at 7:30 p.m. with Mrs. Jackie Ridley, director of Plan Action for Senior Citizens, as guest.

Mrs. Ridley will review the findings of a Chino survey of senior citizens needs. Following the presentation, the group will attempt to establish priorities and begin to plan for solutions to some of these problems. The meeting is open to all interested members of the community.

Freightliner open house is Saturday

CHINO — Freightliner Corp. will hold its grand opening ceremony Saturday morning and host the public to an open house throughout the afternoon.

The ceremony will begin at 11:30 a.m. Saturday with Ken Self, president of Freightliner, serving as master of ceremonies. Among the guest speakers will be Mayor Bob McLeod of Chino and Otto Seiwert, president of White Motor Co.

Open house at the plant at Schaefer and Monte Vista avenues will be held from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The plant moved its firm of about 900 employes from southeast Pomona when facilities there became too cramped.

Ontario High sets back-to-school night

ONTARIO — Ontario High School will hold its annual back-to-school night Tuesday.

The Booster Club will sponsor a Mexican dinner in the school cafeteria as a fund-raising project from 5:30 to 7:10 p.m.

After dinner, parents will have an opportunity to follow a "school day" schedule based on their children's classes.

Student programs and campus maps are being mailed to each home. Duplicate programs will be available in the administration building in case the original is misplaced.

As an added convenience, the school homemaking department will operate a child care center for parents attending the classes.

Meetings planned to boost support for Chino tax issue

CHINO — The Citizens' Civic Center Committee, formed to promote the passage of a 25-cent tax override on Oct. 23, will launch a series of informational meetings this week to explain the purpose of the new Civic Center and the tax override.

The meetings will consist of a slide presentation and a question and answer period.

The first meeting will be held at Newman School at Walnut and Pipeline avenues Thursday night at 7:30. Marshall School will be the site on Oct 15 at 7:30 p.m. Marshall is located at Philadelphia and Telephone avenues.

Two meetings will be held Friday at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. at the Community Building in Room 6. Two other night meetings, both at 7:30, will be held Oct. 17 at Gird Elmenetary School on the south side of Riverside Drive and Third Street, and at El Rancho School Oct. 18 at Oaks Avenue and C Street.

Persons wishing to give the presentations to private citizens and service organizations should contact the Chino Valley Chamber of Commerce, 627-6177.

LINDA MORRIS

Uplander gets bank position in Rubidoux

UPLAND — Upland resident Linda Morris has been named operations officer of the Rubidoux Bank of America.

She assumed this post after 2½ years in a similar job at the Foothill-Mango office in Fontana.

Mrs. Morris joined Bank of America in 1966.

She was born in San Bernardino, and attended San Bernardino High School and San Bernardino Valley College. She has completed advanced courses at the American Institute of Banking.

She and her husband, Joe, have a son, Cary Alan, 8.

Sheltered workshop to mark 7th year

MONTCLAIR — A public open house is now being planned by the Pomona Valley Sheltered Workshop to celebrate its seventh anniversary in November.

Dates of the open house will be announced.

Conference on jr. high issues slated

SAN BERNARDINO — Dr. Don McNassor, chairman of the School of Education at Claremont Graduate School, and Bill Plaster, Upland School District superintendent, will deliver major addresses during a conference on junior high school students set for Saturday at Cal State San Bernardino.

McNassor will speak on "The Sleepless Night and the Break of Day in Early Adolescence," while Plaster will discuss "Change!—To Make a Winner of Every Kid."

The conference is designed for teachers, counselors and school administrators who will explore ways of meeting the special needs of this age group and attend discussion groups on motivation, discipline, reading, career-education, parent-community involvement and other related subjects.

Sponsors of the event are Phi Delta Kappa, the Association of California School Administrators and Delta Kappa Gamma, in cooperation with the San Bernardino and Riverside counties schools.

Registration is from 8 to 8:45 a.m. on the fifth floor of the college's library. The fee is $5.50 until Friday and $6.50 after that. One unit of extension credit is available for an additional $6 fee.

Interested persons may obtain additional information by calling the office of continuing education at 887-6311

Freightliner has new man in charge

CHINO — Edward G. Bartlow has been named as senior vice president of manufacturing of the Freightliner Corp.

Bartlow has responsibility for all manufacturing activites at the company's plants in Chino, Portland, Ore., and Indianapolis, Ind.

He joined the company in 1947 and served as manager of the Pomona plant, which was replaced this year by the new plant in Chino.

Attorneys to give lectures

Chaffey Adult School has series on 'You and the Law'

ONTARIO — A series of four lectures entitled "You and the Law" will be presented by the Western San Bernardino County Bar Association in conjunction with the Chaffey High Adult Evening School.

The series begins Thursday, and will be in the Homemaking Auditorium on the Chaffey High School campus. It will feature lectures by West End attorneys, followed by question and answer periods.

All lectures are open to the public but, since enrollment is limited, admittance will be by ticket only. Tickets may be obtained, free of charge, at the Adult School office or requested by calling 983-2010. Tickets will also be available at the door.

All meetings begin at 7:30 p.m.

Speakers, topics and dates are:

—Thursday: Attorneys Charles Pear of Cucamonga and Thomas Moga of Upland will speak on "Family Law."

—Oct. 18: Attorneys Kenneth Glube of Chino and Robert Shaver of Ontario will lecture on "Contracts and Consumer Protection Law."

—Oct. 25: Attorneys Mike Tarr of Ontario and Gary Wild of Upland will speak on "Personal Injury and Workman's Compensation Laws."

—Nov. 1: Attorneys Bill Batchelor of Montclair and Michael Welch of Ontario will lecture on "Criminal and Juvenile Law and Procedures."

Rebels of '60s: older, wiser, rapt in new goals

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lucinda Franks won a Pulitzer Prize in 1971 for her report, in association with Thomas Powers, on the life and death of "Weatherwoman" . . . . Diana Oughton. Here, she reports on the current activities of some of the younger revolutionaries of the 1970s.

By LUCINDA L. FRANKS

NEW YORK (UPI) —There was a time, not long ago, when America's youth was intoxicated with the spirit of revolution. They took to the streets in the thousands, converged on the national capital, planted bombs, and cheered the country's enemies in the belief that radical change was just around the corner.

Today, the cries of the outraged have been almost silenced. Visions of an apocalyptic new America have dimmed and a lazy calm has settled over the campuses. Over the years, the ones who have undergone the most radical upheaval are the radicals themselves.

Once, there was Abbie Hoffman, the wild-haired young prophet of the new youth culture, who tried to bring a "festival of life" to the 1968 Democratic Convention, danced in the park, and threw kisses to the jury when he was tried for his part in the Chicago disturbances. Several weeks ago, Hoffman was arrested in a run-of-the-mill New York hotel, allegedly trying to push three pounds of cocaine on a narcotics agent. He faces, if convicted, 15 years to life imprisonment.

There was Bobby Seale, the angry Black Panther who was bound and gagged by Judge Julius Hoffman at the Chicago Eight trial for his outburst against a court system in which he felt his people had no say. Seale was full of rage and bitterness and felt the time was ripe to smash the white institutions that had robbed blacks of their rights. Having been tried and acquitted twice —once for conspiracy and once for murder—Seale has become a system man. He wears tweed suits, talks of peaceful reform, and this year ran for mayor of Oakland, Calif.

Rennie Davis, a founder of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), was one of the most down-to-earth and careful thinkers among the Chicago defendants. Not long ago, Davis boarded a jet for Paris to talk to North Vietnamese officials, met some followers of the Indian guru Maharaj-ji, and never got off the flight. Since receiving "out" and he believes the 15-year-old guru will do for the world what the revolution failed to do.

Working to rebuild

Jerry Rubin, co-founder of Abbie Hoffman's Youth International Party (Yippie) but more serious and political than Hoffman ever was, is into bioenergetics. For Rubin, who often lies on a bed and kicks furiously to release blocked energy, revolutionary social politics is secondary to body politics; he feels now that an integration of body and mind is the first step to changing societal attitudes.

Tom Hayden and David Dellinger, the more seasoned New Left partisans of the Chicago trial, are living quiet lives. Hayden is married to Jane Fonda and they are raising a new baby in a big old California house overlooking the Pacific. Dellinger, after a bout of bad health, is on the mend and working on a book about the antiwar movement. Both Hayden and Dellinger are working in quiet ways to revive and rebuild the withered movement.

There were the others; those who died for the illusion of revolution, those who became fugitives. Diana Oughton, Weatherwoman, is dead. Now in his in a New York townhouse by a bomb of her own making. Other members of the terrorist Weatherman group are in jail, on the lam in the United States, or reported in hiding in Canada, Cuba, and points beyond. Nothing has been heard from some of the key figures in the group such as Bill Ayers and Bernadine Dohrn.

Recently, Jane Alpert, a Swarthmore graduate who became a member of a radical bombing group led by Sam Melville, published an open letter from the underground. It told of her wanderings since she jumped bail three years ago after pleading guilty to bombing conspiracy charges.

She talks of her conversion from revolutionary politics to radical feminism thanks to her chance meeting with Weatherman Mark Rudd, also a fugitive, whom she views as the embodiment of the sexual oppression of the left. Once urging a new socialist man, men and women could work together for freedom, Alpert now passionately advocates a matriarchial society —feshaped in the image of women.

Few have given up

There were the ones like Mark Frechette, the budding young star who became a symbol of the youth culture. A member of the Living Theatre, Frechette starred in the 1970 Antonioni movie "Zabriskie Point," which pitted the new culture against the old and became a favorite film within the movement. Last month, he was arrested holding up a Boston bank and charged with armed robbery. One of his accomplices was shot dead by police.

For all the metamorphases undergone by the revolutionaries and radicals of the late 1960s few have given up their dreams of a new society, only the methods that have changed, the visions slightly altered.

Bobby Seale is among the scattered but growing number of radicals who have undertaken to change the system from within instead of trying to chip away at it from without. Others have been Ronald DeBlums, a young black militant who won a congressional election in the Berkeley-Oakland district in California in 1970 and was reelected in 1972, and Paul Soglin, a twice-arrested radical at the University of Wisconsin who was elected mayor of Madison last year.

Seale, once a fiery rebel with a black beret and a cold, defiant manner, is subdued, amiable, and campaigns like an Irish politician. He and his Black Panther party still believe in revolutionary change, but now they feel it can be achieved only through the ballot box, not from the gun barrel. Seale made the rounds of the smoky barrooms and shopping plazas, and traveled about in a motorcade during his campaign for Oakland mayor. Although he lost the race, he put himself squarely in the political arena and built up broad-based support groups.

The Panthers, which have shrunk in size to perhaps a few hundred members, are community-oriented and run free breakfast programs, and free medical and sickle-cell anemia clinics.

No dropping out

"We're on the right track now," Seale said in an interview. "I don't believe in the concept of dropping out of the system. If people want change via the electoral process, we'll be there. If people want more concrete programs, that's where we'll be."

Like Rennie Davis, Jerry Rubin also has found an extra-political ways of achieving his goals. Instead of looking beyond the flesh, however, Rubin looks to the body to unlock the "pain and repression inside."

In an article in the September issue of Psychology Today, Rubin tells how the "collapse of the 1960s left me lost."

"Our 1960 dreams of apocalyptic and sudden revolution vanished apocalyptically and suddenly. We had moved with such energy to the brink of life and death itself, seen ourselves beaten in the streets and jailed, that almost of a single mind, the recognition came upon us that we were not ready now to make the final plung . . .

"Like everyone else, I needed a breather," he said.

After a journey into yoga, meditation, and natural foods, Rubin fell under the tutelage of Stanley Keleman, who taught that man does not possess a body, he IS his body.

"My definition of 'political' has now expanded to include the food we eat, the excitation in our bodies . . . people out of touch with their own bodies cannot make a revolution," Rubin said.

"The political battles of the 1960s included too many crafty meetings, bureaucratic basles, ideological wars, because people were not aware of their own need for personal growth. In the 1970s we are going inward and discovering that we are the creators of our experience. Soon the spiritual and the political revolutions will be joined."

State prisons sued over misuse of cons' earnings

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Prisoners Union has filed suits charging the state prison system has committed "welfare fraud" with inmates prison earnings.

The union charges the Dept. of Corrections handling of inmate money is unconstitutional in suits filed in the U.S. Dist. Court in San Francisco and in Sacramento County Superioer Court.

The suits, which seek return of funds from the state, assert that interest from inmates private funds, held in trust by the director of corrections, goes to the multi-million dollar inmate welfare fund, rather than accumulating in their own accounts.

They also charge the inmate welfare fund must be given 25 per cent of whatever inmates are paid for sale of works at annual prison art and craft shows.

The inmate welfare fund, according to Jerome Garchik, usually amounts to several million dollars. Revenue also comes from gifts and earnings from commissary sales.

Garchik told a news conference recently that $549,000 is spent annually from the fund to pay salaries of civil service employes, several of whom are really guards. By contrast, he said, the convict employes of the fund who work in commissaries and other facilities earn 60 cents a week.

Garchik said fund money is spent on items he said are the responsibility of the state general fund, such as athletic equipment and television sets.

Weatherman's party exercise in nostalgia

NEW YORK (UPI) —When Howard Norton Machtinger surfaced last week after almost four years underground, his friends decided to give him a party.

Most of his former Columbia University classmates who drank wine and danced at the party hadn't seen Machtinger, 27, since he was indicted for alleged participation in the SDS-Weatherman "Days of Rage" demonstrations in Chicago in 1969.

In April, 1970, 12 reputed members of Weatherman, a splinter group of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), were indicted on charges of conspiracy and crossing state lines with intent to riot. Only two, besides Machtinger, have been arrested and they have not been tried. The others—including Mark Rudd and Bernadine Dohrn— are still at large.

Machtinger was spotted on a New York City street by an alert FBI agent on Sept. 20 and was released on $2,500 bail in his mother's custody. He is scheduled to appear before Judge Julius Hoffman in Chicago on Oct. 9. Hoffman, although retired, has kept the "Days of Rage" case on his "fugitive calendar" and so is entitled to return to the bench to "finish up an old case," said Machtinger's lawyer, Columbia graduate Jesse Berman.

Machtinger obviously was enjoying his "welcome home" party five days after his arrest, but he refused to tell a reporter who turned up at the West 161st Street apartment what he'd been doing in his "underground" years.

The atmosphere of the party was heavily nostalgic. Almost four years have passed since SDS fractured and the Weatherman began a violent binge of antiwar demonstrations, but the walls of the run-down apartment were covered with old Vietnam posters protesting long-passed atrocities.

One guest sported a faded Che Guevara T-shirt. Other guests sang along and danced to old Supremes' records.

Everybody maintained that they were still "into" politics but nobody wanted to be specific.

Mrs. Yetta Machtinger, Machtinger's mother, was the only representative of the older generation at the party. She sat quietly while the others danced and refused to discuss her son's predicament.

Plus economic concern

Senate vote reflects U.S. war weariness

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

A U.S. Senate vote requiring a 110,000-man reduction in overseas troops by the end of 1975 puts the handwriting on the wall.

The Senate action responded to mounting war weariness among the people of the United States and to continuing economic problems. It was passed despite strenous objections of the Nixon administration and to the consternation of U.S. allies in NATO and in Asia.

U.S. military men expressed misgivings for its effect on U.S. deterrent capabilities against Communist forces in Europe and Korea.

The administration feared for its effect on the U.S. bargaining position in the 19-nation conference on "Mutual Force Reductions" scheduled to open in Vienna on Oct. 30.

As of now, the Senate action, taken as an amendment to the $21 billion military procurement bill, probably will be erased in a Senate-House conference. But it stands as an important reflection of American sentiment and almost certainly as a signpost to the future.

Actually, the Senate action need neither tie the hands of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in his talks with NATO allies nor endanger the U.S. position at Vienna.

The two deal with separate although related problems.

So far as NATO is concerned, the Senate and Kissinger are delivering the same message— the NATO allies must do more to help themselves, and the United States is tired of carrying an annual financial burden estimated as high as $3.3 billion a year for NATO.

As for talks on a reduction of forces, those negotiations will deal specifically with central Europe.

Globally, U.S. land-based forces stationed abroad come to around 470,000—some 300,-000 in Western Europe and 170,000 in Asia. Among the latter are 42,000 in South Korea, 45,000 in Thailand and the remainder scattered among Japan, Taiwan, the Philippines and Okinawa.

The Senate amendment did not specify from what areas the troops must be withdrawn, although Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, one of its sponsors, suggested Europe. It seemed a most likely place.

Some troop reductions already are being carried out in Thailand and others have been under study, including South Korea.

Regardless of the outcome of the troop reduction talks, the United States remains committed to NATO.

The same Senate session which called for troop reductions also passed an amendment reaffirming congressional support of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization as "vital to the security of the United States.

A beneficial result of the Senate action could be new impetus in the search for a practical solution.

The prestigious Brookings Insitution has suggested the United States could save at least $6 billion annually by reorganizing its troop strength in Europe, reducing support forces, rotating the others and bringing dependents home.

Agnew hassle has Nixon in quandary

WASHINGTON, D.C. (UPI) —Does President Nixon want Vice President Agnew to leave office?

The question has been asked almost daily of Presidential spokesmen at White House news briefings and the answer has always been the same:

"Neither the President or nobody else in any official capacity in the White House has been pressuring the Vice President to resign."

But there is little doubt that Agnew's troubles with the law have put Nixon —already grappling with Watergate —into an additional quandry. And the White House response that no pressure has been applied does not really answer the question of Presidential preference.

Nixon's dilemma is this:

If he gives Agnew warm support, he risks embracing a man who may soon be indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of accepting bribes from Maryland contractors.

If he withholds his support from Agnew, he risks alienating the very core of his own Watergate-diminished constituency —the dedicated Republican loyalists who are sticking by their party leaders come what may.

The President's problems were pointed up by events at a convention of the National Federation of Republican Women in Los Angeles recently.

Not only was Nixon treated to the spectacle of Agnew blasting the Justice Department of the government in which he serves. His White House agents also found strained loyalties among this most loyal of Republican organizations because of the feeling that Nixon had not done enough to support his Vice President.

Agnew, whose charges that the Justice Department had handled his case in a "malicious and outrageous" manner drew wild applause from the delegates, singled out Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Peterson for special criticism.

He charged that Peterson was out to get him as a "trophy" to make up for the ineptitude with which his department allegedly handled the Watergate case.

This is the same career civil servant that Nixon has on several occasions referred to as a man of unquestioned integrity. It is the same civil servant that Nixon chose as a symbol of rectitude in initially putting him in charge of the Watergate investigation.

Neither Agnew nor Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson has disputed reports that Justice Department lawyers and Agnew's attorneys engaged in "plea bargaining" —a fairly common practice in which an accused will plead guilty to a lesser offense in exchange for the dropping of more serious charges. Agnew insists that the Justice Department initiated the negotiations.

But those looking for an indication of the President's position in the matter should note another report —published in Newsweek magazine last week — which has also gone undisputed.

That is that the President's own attorney, J. Fred Buzhardt, acted as a liaison in the negotiations between the prosecutors and Agnew's lawyers to have Agnew resign from office in exchange for leniency from the prosecutors.

Presidential spokesman Gerald L. Warren confirmed earlier last week that Buzhardt did indeed serve as a go-between. But he said it would be "inappropriate" to talk about his specific role.

Coal might be answer to oil crisis

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Scientists long ago gave up trying to turn lead into gold, but if recent research efforts are successful they may be able to turn coal into something almost as valuable—oil.

A process to convert coal into gas has been known for years, but the problem is to produce it economically.

Exxon Corp., has spent $20 million since 1966 on coalconversion research and is committing another $10 million for a two-stage development of gasification and liquification methods.

And a research project at the University of Utah has developed a conversion process, but the problem, again, is making the process economically feasible.

Dr. Wendell H. Wiser, professor of fuels engineering, said the project can "produce first quality gasoline if you don't want to worry about how much it costs."

Wiser said the goal of the research is to set up a network of large, pollution-free plants located near coal deposits, capable of producing 100,000 barrels of oil daily.

He said the National Coal Association projects the existence of 36 such plants by 1990.

Wiser said while coal represents 80 per cent of the nation's known energy reserves, petroleum and natural gas represent only 8 per cent of known reserves.

"What it means," Wiser said, "is that we are taking 65 per cent of our energy requirements from 8 per cent of our reserves and we've just about come to the end of that rope."

Much of the nation's coal can't be used directly as a fuel. Clean-air regulations have limited use of coal with a high sulfur content. Wiser said with a coal-conversion process these reserves could once again be put to use.

He said the ratio between the amount of coal processed and the liquid fuel produced is nearly in balance. His tests have shown 100 pounds of coal can be converted into about 95 pounds of liquids and gases.

"That 95 pounds consists of 30 pounds of liquid fuel like gasoline, five pounds of other liquids, (diesel or fuel oil), 30 pounds of gaseous fuel like natural gas, and 30 pounds of char," he said.

Agnew counts new friends in the Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Alone and embattled, Vice President Agnew has found he has more friends in the Senate than he thought, even among senators who in the past had avoided him like the political plague.

Agnew, at times depressed over the allegations of wrongdoing against him, is being given "large doses" of morale boosting support from Republican senators who have usually been allied with his causes, according to those close to the Vice President.

"They're telling him to fight it out to the end," one Agnew aide told UPI.

"At times when things looked bad those phone calls really stiffened his resolve to hang in there and fight," the aide said.

Democrats, too, have called to wish him well in the battle for his political life. But even Agnew was surprised recently to receive an invitation to meet with the Wednesday club, a group of liberal GOP senators who have never been considered Agnew partisans.

The invitation came from Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore..

Opening lead—♦Q

One thing you can do if you want to play game in a major suit and don't want to lead to be through your partner is to use the Texas transfer against an overcall of three clubs or less. The Texas (invented by Dave Carter of St. Louis) is used at the four level. Four diamonds transfers to hearts; four hearts to spades. It has one great weakness in that partner is likely to forget when his partner jumps to four and let the hand play in the wrong suit.

If North plays at four spades East will open a heart. West can take two hearts and lead a third, whereupon North will have no play for his contract.

With South declarer at four spades the best lead West can make is a diamond. South wins in his hand; draws trumps; leads a club and finesses his 10.

West wins and leads a second diamond, won by dummy's king. A second club is led; the jack finessed successfully and dummy's last diamond is discarded on the club ace.

Bill would ban secret recording of conversations

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind. introduced a bill Monday to make it illegal to record a telephone conversation without telling the other party.

In a statement, Bayh predicted that Watergate's disclosures would spur enactment.

"Expectations of privacy have been shattered in recent years," he said.

The bill would also guarantee individuals the right to know about, see, correct and limit disclosures of records about them kept by government agencies.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll run into opposition where one-to-one relationships are concerned. Concessions will avoid confrontations.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today won't be too easy. You'll have some additional responsibilities you won't be able to duck. Do them cheerfully.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A strain is developing between you and a friend. It may become evident today. Work things out quickly before a split occurs.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your image will lose some luster if you become too dictatorial with others. Treat them as respectfully as you would like to be treated.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You will have a difficult time making up your mind. This will leave you frustrated.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Are you sure you haven't forgotten to pay an old obligation. If you have, it's likely to make its existence felt today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Someone is going to offend you today with their aggressiveness. Don't make an issue of it. It could develop into something nasty.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't brush any obligations under the rug today. Rather, meet them head-on or they'll turn into something worse.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You will resent anyone trying to manage you or your affairs today. You will let them know it in no uncertain terms. Cool off.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There will be outside pressures that will have an effect upon the family as a whole. Wait it out — it will pass.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) On a matter you're rather sensitive about, best you don't discuss with others unless you're certain it will go no further.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don' assume new financial obligations today. You may be biting off more than you can chew. It's not wise to overburden yourself now.

Dad says no to dating by 14-year-old

By JEAN ADAMS

DAD SAYS NO: (Q.) My sister got pregnant and had to get married. She is 18, four years older than I, and her problems shouldn't concern me.

But they do, because now that I want to date, my dad gives me all kinds of excuses why I can't.

I conclude from all these excuses that he thinks I am going to go out and get myself into the same kind of trouble she got into.—No Dates in Texas.

(A.) Have you asked your father why he says no to your dating? It may be that he thinks you are still too young. Many parents of 14-year-olds think that.

Have you asked him if it is because of your sister, or just decided that for yourself? If he says yes, it IS because of your sister, then you can explain to him that he can trust you not to get into trouble.

If he trusts you, be trustworthy.

NEXT DOOR: (Q.) The girl next door really moves me. We've been friends for a year and people tell me she likes me, but my problem is that I can't win her.

To me she is perfect. I stay awake some nights until 4 a.m. just thinking about her. I have done everything but tell her straight out that I love her. My dad says I'll just have to chase her until she catches me.

She plays cards with me, or football, or studies with me. But I still can't get her to go out with me, much less go steady with me. And I can't forget her. What else can I do? We're both 15.—Possessed in Pennsylvania.

(A.) Your father's statement about chasing her until she catches you is an old, old stetement that fits a lot of boy-girl and men-women situations.

It may fit yours.

Keep being friendly with her, and keep asking her to go out with you—not every week, but frequently.

In time, I believe, she'll say yes to dates with you, and later to going steady. Then is when you can tell her straight out that you love her. But not now.

Span of life close for raccoon, monkey

By Dr. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: We have two very smart, very fascinating and very difficult pets: Ringo, our six-year-old racoon, and Fuzzy, our five-year-old woolly monkey. We've put up with them too long now to give up so now we are wondering how much longer we have? With them, I mean. Who is likely to outlast whom? Providing they die of old age, that is — M.A.

Dear M.A.: Fuzzy and Ringo could very possibly retire from the scene at about the same time. The potential life span for both is about 12 years, give or take a few.

DEAR DR. MILLER: At first I thought my cat got its permanent distemper shots when it was a kitten. Then I began getting vacination reminders that it was supposed to be getting booster shots every year. This seems like a lot of trouble and expense to me, and I want to know if there isn't some way I can get shots which will last for the lifetime of the cat. Sootie, the cat, turns tiger when you stick her in the car. It's a bad trip for her. And for me, too, because prices of shots are going up and what with everything else going up, well, I've got to cut somewhere. —N.P.

Dear N P.: Ordinarily, it is poor economy to skimp on preventative medicine. Treating a sick animal is generally more expensive than keeping the animal well in the first place—especially when you consider that sometimes you can spend that treatment money and then end up without an animal anyway.

Treatments are not invariably successful, you know. The only way to be sure your cat wouldn't, for example, need yearly distemper boosters, would be to keep bolstering its degree of resistance by periodic exposure, perhaps at intervals of two months or so, to an animal known to have distemper. The virus active in the sick animal would, upon contacting yours, boost her stimulator resistance anew to the virus and so keep it high enough for continued protection.

Unfortunately, I can't really recommend this do-it-yourself plan for saving Sootie a trip and you money. It might do neither. For one thing, if you expose Sootie and her vaccination-rendered resistance has already dropped to a low point, she might break out with the virus instead of successfully warding it off. Then, too, the sick cat, if you could find one conveniently at the prescribed intervals, might not only be sick from distemper, it might have some other transmittable deadly disease along with or instead of the potentially deadly distemper virus.

Legalized prostitution favored in Sacramento

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —A majority of this capital city's residents think prostitution should be legalized, a survey by the Sacramento Union indicates.

The poll, which produced some interesting reasons for legalized brothels, showed Sunday that 61 per cent of the men and 49 per cent of the women contacted in a random telephone survey favored legalized prostitution. The average for both sexes was 55 per cent.

"It might help stopping rapes," remarked one clerk typist.

"It would cut down on a lot of baloney between vice and law enforcement," said a civil engineer.

"I think that California should legalize both prostitution and gambling, because there is a lot of tariff to be made in those two things," said another of the 302 persons contacted at random for the new Sacramento Poll, conducted by the Union.

"Cops have enough to do chasing someone who might shoot them. You aren't going to get rid of it no matter what you do," said an Air Force radar specialist.

Icebergs just drift away

The average iceberg that drifts as far south as Newfoundland and the Atlantic shipping lanes has a volume of 5,000,000 cubic feet and weighs 150,000 tons, compared with 50,000,000 cubic feet and 1,500,000 tons when it was glacier-born three years earlier.

Course scheduled for older people

CLAREMONT — "Coping with Father Time," dealing with the problems facing older persons, will be taught by Mrs. Josephine Smith, registered nurse, beginning Thursday at the Friends Meeting House, 727 Harrison Ave.

The minicourse, sponsored by the Claremont Unified School District, will be conducted on four Thursday mornings from 10 a.m. to noon. It will help the older person plan ahead to make the most of his capabilities.

Last spring Mrs. Smith, a resident of Pilgrim Place, taught an evening class at Claremont High School on geriatric nursing and attitudes toward the elderly sick person.

Mrs. Smith is a member of the Health Services Committee of Pilgrim Place.

Mrs. Kelsey Thompson, personal services assistant at Pilgrim Place, will assist with the course on "Coping with Father Time." Registration may be made at the first session.

Mrs. Smith is also repeating the course on geriatric nursing this month, assisted by Koklian Lim.

Citrus hires new English instructor

AZUSA — Mrs. Linda Tudts Humphrey of Claremont has joined the Citrus College faculty as an English instructor.

A member last year of the college's part-time evening teaching staff, she has also taught at Cal Poly, Pomona; the University of Arkansas and Central Missouri State College.

In addition to her teaching, Mrs. Humphrey has served on the staff of a student personnel journal at the Claremont Colleges.

She is also active as a director of the Unitarian Church of Pomona Valley.

CHP warns

Drive with greater care on foggy days

CLAREMONT — Motorists are urged to keep their distances when driving in fog.

"Hazardous conditions exist in periods of heavy fog. Visibility is reduced to a few feet and the streets are wet, resulting in increased stopping distances," said Capt. W. C. Jones, area commander of the California Highway Patrol.

Allowing a few miles per hour isn't sufficient to compensate for these hazards, he added.

"A simple two-car collision too often becomes a multi-vehicle accident in which scores of vehicles may be involved."

In fog, motorists may have to stop as soon as they see lights or obstacles ahead since they may not be moving, said Jones.

"During clear weather, you can usually see if the vehicles ahead are moving and then maintain a safe following distance.

"In the fog, however, the available sight distance may be reduced to a few feet with corresponding increases in stopping distances.

"At 35 miles an hour, it may take more than 100 feet to come to a safe stop. Remember, don't overdrive your lights or brakes," said Jones.

Tellers harassed

MITO, Japan (UPI) —Tellers at the Joyo Bank were harassed Friday by 11 men who stood in line for hours taking turns depositing and withdrawing 38 cents 143 times each.

The baffled bank officials said they were upset but found no effective legal means to stop the trouble-making.

MRS. DOROTHY HARRIS

Woman gets position at Harvey Mudd

CLAREMONT — Mrs. Dorothy Harris has been named the first assistant vice president in the history of Harvey Mudd College.

Mrs. Harris, a staff member since 1959, will assist George I. McKelvey, vice president for development and planning, in supervising the college's development office.

She is a past president of the Foothill Guild for the Crippled Children's Society, a member of the ARCS Foundation, and a member of the board of governors of the Claremont Area Pastoral Counseling Center.

She is the wife of Charles E. Harris of the Claremont Insurance Co.

FLU SHOTS URGED FOR ELDERLY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Health Director J. M. Stubblebine has warned elderly and chronically ill Californians to obtain flu shots to protect themselves against an expected influenza outbreak by December.

Stubblebine Monday also said limited national production of vaccines to combat English and Hong Kong "B-type" viruses "may create temporary shortages in some localities."

He urged the chronically ill, such as persons wiht heart and lung diseases or diabetes, and the elderly to receive immunizations this month or no later than November.

Children and healthy adults, Stubblebine said, should be immunized only if sufficient vaccine is available "because the chronically ill and elderly are more at risk."

He said the two strains of flu, which caused many deaths in California last year, are expected to return by December.

Workshop to teach new camping skills

In order to prepare today's girls for new camping situtions, it is necessary to learn special skills and to practice these skills in actual camping situations.

The Palomares District of Mt. San Antonio Council Camp Fire Girls is offering "Tajar's Workshop" Saturday from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Los Angeles County Fairground's Plaza of the States to teach these skills.

Overnight camping is planned for those who wish to participate.

Fourth, fifth and sixth grade girls will have fun exploring the world of "Tajar" and earn honors in the new Adventure program. The program stresses knowledge of the out-of-doors in keeping with the present ecology-oriented society.

Workshop leaders are Ken Irvine, Palomares District committee chairman, fires and cooking; Sylvia Stavros and her Discovery Club, assisted by Dorothy Puzifera, Ecology Center; Mary Shaffer, shelters; Jose Jacinto, pacing and compass; Elicia Good, camp songs; Grace Underwood, program and fun ideas; and Harriet Hartshorn, health and safety.

Mrs. Underwood, the general chairman, is being assisted by Linda Burns. Mrs. Bessie Eichorn is the Palomares District director.

Some garden vegetables, like corn, okra, peppers, tomatoes, squash and greens need extra nitrogen for best results.

Newly married couple residing in Ventura

A reception at the Via Verde Country Club allowed the nuptial ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Sharon Marie Rose Hilke and Kevin Gordon Kellerman.

The evening double-ring rites were performed by the Rev. Ernest Howard of the Montclair Unitarian Church, at the Chapel of the Bells, Ontario.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Hilke of Diamond Bar was escorted to the altar by her father. The bride wore a floor-length white gown with French lace on the bodice, sleeves and cuffs. The skirt was of nylon tulle. Her veil was trimmed in matching lace. The former Miss Hilke carried a single yellow rose.

Mrs. Jeanette Brennan was the matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Janis Hilke, Miss Martha Moore and Mrs. Barbara Vanderhave. Shannon Brennan was the flower girl.

Paul Kellerman stood as best man for his brother. They were the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kellerman of Ventura. Ushers were Robert J. Hilke Jr., Barry Zelner and Craig Farwell.

After a honeymoon in Las Vegas, the newlyweds are now making their home in Ventura.

TODAY'S Women

Walnut Valley Club charts two events

Two events have been scheduled for the Walnut Valley Women's Club.

A craft workshop is planned for the club's luncheon meeting Monday at 11 a.m. at Griswold's Inn, Claremont.

Mrs. Frank Lane and Mrs. Richard Castleberry have planned a program of crafts ideas for Thanksgiving and Christmas, including tissue paper collage, needlepoint pictures, coasters, transfer pictures and other decorations.

The business meeting will precede luncheon.

The club donated $150 to the City of Hope for use in the teen ward at the hospital. A plaque will be placed in Heritage Park in the club's name.

On Thursday, a membership coffee is planned at the Walnut home of Mrs. George Piccioni, membership chairman. Hostesses for the 10:30 a.m. gathering are past membership chairmen of the club, Mmes. Robert Relly, Julius Wear, Winfield Walker and Anthony Anzlovar.

Special invited guests from the San Gabriel Valley District are Mmes. Robert Renier, Emmett Smith and Henry Boas, plus Mrs. Paul Cartwright, president of the Walnut Juniors.

The club's objectives are to promote community service and to develop an interest in civic, social progress and economic conditions of the community. Interested women may call Mrs. Piccioni at 595-3324.

Unique project

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Animals are being used in a new project in San Francisco to excite and motivate young students.

A zoo-mobile has been developed by the Zoological Society to take a lion cub, crow, chinchillas, boa constrictor, indigo snake, hedgehog, African pygmy goat, iguanas, opossums, baby raccoons, guinea pigs, rabbits, armadillos and a box turtle to the classroom.

Investment specialists will speak

Various options and services available to career women who earn between $9 and $15 thousand per year for accumulating extra money will be reviewed at a UCLA Extension class on Oct. 27.

Specialists in real estate, savings and loan services, mutual funds, common stocks, bonds, and syndication will speak from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Room 2250 of Young Hall on the UCLA campus.

The fee for "Toward Financial Independence" is $20. The class will be coordinated by Christine Gillis, account executive with E. F. Hutton and Company, a national stock brokerage firm.

Further information is available by writing Daytime Programs, P.O. Box 24902, Los Angeles, CA 90024, or by calling (213) 825-2301.

Readers offered booklet

A woman should know the six elements involved in establishing and evaluating her credit standing.

Credit is based on her reputation for responsive and fair dealing; her reputation for paying bills when due; her earning capacity; value of her positions; and record she has built up for good financial judgement.

These are a few of the helpful hints revealed in a free booklet, "Woman and her Bank."

The pocket-sized booklet is designed to help women understand and utilize services banks have to offer.

Readers may write for the booklet to Lora Lackey, The American Bankers Association, 1120 Connecticut Ave., N. W., Washington, D. C., 20036, and include their names address and zip code.

Two clubs to present programs

The Upland Junior Woman's Club and the Upland Woman's Club, in cooperation with the Upland Fire Department, will present programs for third grade classes in eight of Upland's elementary schools.

"Put a Fire Extinguisher in Every Home" will stress the causes of most home fires and basic instructions for fire prevention in the home.

The students have been asked to take to school a one-pound coffee can with its plastic lid, four pipe cleaners and three ice cream sticks. With these basic materials, plus labels supplied by the Fire Department and baking soda, supplied by the two clubs, the children will make their own fire extinguisher to take home. These extinguishers should be placed in the kitchen and used only on electrical or flammable liquid fires.

Work problems

NEW YORK (UPI) — Problems of the workplace, ranging from worker dissatisfaction with dull, repetitive jobs to concern with the productivity of government workers, are the focus of research for which for new Ford Foundation grants have been made.

The grants went to Cornell University's School of Industrial and Labor Relations, to George Washington University, to the National Manpower Policy Task Force and to the government of Nassau County, N. Y.

Finally got bird

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI) — In 1932 the Washington Federation of Women's Clubs selected the willow goldfinch as the state's "favorite bird." It was designated as the official state bird by the 1951 legislature.

"Love thy enemy..."

This is a religious precept that challenges the mind. Love my enemy when I can barely deal calmly with my in-laws? Yet this hard saying has validity in a world where even a small act of violence has such unforeseeable repercussions. Scientific advances have heightened our mutual vulnerability. Only love and non-violence can sustain us. We may concede violence is in all of us. So is God. Try His way. It works. Get together with your family, friends, neighbors, or co-workers to discuss the problems of violence and how you can work together to help solve them. Ask Dr. Brothers

Forty and flirty

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My wife and I have been married for 20 years and our marriage has generally been a happy one. We share many common interests and are able to relate on a great many matters. Suddenly, this past year, my wife has been going backwards toward what would be more appropriate behavior for an adolescent than for a woman in her early 40s. She's preoccupied with her appearance and is overly concerned about whether other men appreciate her. She has never been unfaithful, but at this moment, I wouldn't be at all surprised if she were having an affair, or even several affairs.

I'm not a jealous man so her flirtatiousness doesn't bother me; rather, it embarrasses me because it seems so silly. We're both growing old and I feel people should learn to do this with grace.—B.McC.

Dear B. McC.: Your wife's behavior may be a rebellion against your attitude about aging. Forty or 50 is not really old. Your wife may not be ready to accept your definition of "old" and what one is expected to do at a particular age.

There is a great deal of truth in the bromide "you're as old as you feel." Your wife may be trying to tell you that she is not ready to move into a diffecent category, especially if that age category places rigid demands on her behavior.

Your wife is approaching a time of life that many men and women find trying. Both sexes may rebel during this change. For women, the change is physical as well as psychological and sometimes women, like men in the middle years, feel compelled to have a last fling. Just as a man may suddenly decide he's missed all the fun and may enter into several meaningless affairs, so a woman may react, particularly if she feels her husband thinks of her as unattractive and too old for such frivolity.

Psychiatrists feel that the transition period from adolescence to adulthood can be as stormy and difficult as adolescence, perhaps even more difficult because we live in an era where youth is worshipped and age is not revered or respected. This premium on youth and beauty weighs even more heavily on women than men because men usually have had more opportunity to express themselves through their careers.

Dr. Herbert Kiemme, who has been especially interested in adult development, believes that failure to resolve the difficulties of transition from young adulthood to middle age helps explain the high rates of alcoholism, depression, suicide, divorce and similar problems that occur during this period. Dr. Kiemme thinks this is why many highly creative people burn out by their mid-30s or early 40s and why others blossom only after that age.

Not all men and women pass through the phases of adulthood at the same chronological age. Some may only leave the young adult period when they enter their 40s. Some people get anchored at one particular stage and they may refuse to leave that period. They may spend the rest of their lives trying to work out problems they could not solve in those earlier years.

Help your wife adjust to the middle years by reassuring her. Make her feel more loved, more wanted and more secure. You might also help her to see that the middle years can be as exciting and rewarding as the earlier years when two people understand and love each other. Maturity and middle years need not be synonymous with dullness.

Griggs-Cooper nuptial vows are exchanged

MRS. DEE F. GRIGGS

First Union Church in San Juan, Puerto Rico, was the setting for the marriage of Miss Dana Kay Carper of La Verne and Dee Franklin Griggs of Pomona.

Parents of the bride are the Rev. and Mrs. Eugene Carper of San Juan, Puerto Rico. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Griggs of Shenandoah, Iowa.

Officiating at the afternoon double-ring rites were the bride's father and the Rev. Garth Thompson.

Carrying a bouquet of yellow fujis and baby's breath, the bride wore a white princess-style gown fashioned with a lace bodice and a pleated ruffle at the hem. Her veil was designed by her mother.

Serving as maid of honor for her sister was Miss Dena Carper. Thomas Schultz was the groom's best man.

A reception at the Holiday Inn in San Juan followed the ceremony.

After honeymooning in Trinidad and Barbados, Mr. and Mrs. Griggs are now at home in Pomona.

Women to sell rummage

A rummage and cooked food sale is planned Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. by members of the Women's Community Club of Pomona Valley, at 172 W. Monterey St.

A light luncheon will be served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and baked foods will be for sale in another area of the clubhouse.

Rummage items which will be offered for sale include clothing, household wares, costume jewelry and knick knacks.

Mrs. Robert Graham, sale chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. Eva Haworth and Mrs. Stanley Sparks. Chairmen for the individual departments are Mrs. Aden Lutz and Mrs. William O. Lee, baked goods; Mrs. Loren Frink and Mrs. Frances King, white elephant; and Mrs. Ford Brown, salad bar luncheon.

Others assisting during the sale will be Mmes. Charles Roe, T. Maxwell, R. Hedeman, Edward Cline, Warren Conarroe, Rose Jarosh and Ruth Kissiar.

The summer temperature in Utah averages between 65 and 80 degrees in different parts of the state but it often climbs to well above 100 degrees.

Blue jeans are so neatened that it's hard to tell them from dress pants. The blue jean shape, at least, comes in plaids, stripes and solids other than blue.

Assume they know

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: It is plain conceit for people to assume they know everything about good manners. Here is an example that came in this morning. My friend remarried and sent out beautifully engraved announcements — from Tiffany's, at that —which read:

Barbara Grayson (maiden name) Waterbury (former married name)

and

James Paul Anderson announce their marriage Saturday, the Second of June, one thousand, nine hundred and seventy-three, Atlanta.

"I know that it should have read 'Mrs. Grayson Waterbury' or possibly Mrs. Barbara Grayson Waterbury and 'Mr. James Paul Anderson.' There are so many second marriages now, perhaps you would like to comment in your column. — Mr. T. K., Memphis, Tenn.

I find other things wrong, too. I spoke to Tiffany's about the form of such an announcement with no titles and they say that they do this reluctantly at the insistence of customers from time to time.

Whenever I think I know everything about this subject, I find that I don't. In this invitation was enclosed an "at home" card. This card was approximately 4½ in. by 3 in. and looked like a large visiting card. Centered were the names of the couple. Lower left it said, "After the fifteenth of June" and lower right was the address, including the apartment number. I was not familiar with this kind of "at home" as I see them mainly in wedding invitations when they read simply "After the fifteenth of June and so forth." I discussed this also with Tiffany and they explained that since wedding invitations are engraved weeks before the wedding, there can be no "Mr. and Mrs. So and so" but that announcements may carry the married form of address.

In analyzing this invitation, I must point out too that the address on the outer envelope was in blue ballpoint pen ink, in spite of the elegance of the black engraving. Real ink should be used and, of course, black to match the engraving. There was no return address. This was very foolish as undeliverable wedding invitations and announcements without return address must be sent to the dead-letter office.

The practice of embossing the return address (with your own embosser if you have one) is acceptable although hard on post office employes. It is perfectly acceptable to write it, even on wedding invitations, upper left in very small writing, or to use return-address stickers (with the address alone, preferably) but optionally on an announcement, Mr. and Mrs. James Paul Anderson, never Barbara and James Anderson.

This joint form of return address on stickers is used only on such invitations and announcements and on greeting cards. Many people use them, too, as address stickers to give to friends.

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: What do you do when you receive a wedding reception invitaion and you cannot recall ever having heard of the bride, the groom, the parents? We can't find any clue among our friends or the employees of my husband's firm. I can't think of anything better to do than to write informally suggesting that the invitation was sent us in error —and then hope that it was! Can you see a better solution?

—Mrs. R. P., Boston, Mass."

I think your solution is the right one. I have had this happen to me, but then some people get a lot of fun out of sending invitations to a celebrity. I would also recommend, if you want to, that you call the mother of the bride saying something like this," "I am sure I must know you as I have received this invitation to your daughter's wedding but, on the other hand, perhaps it was sent to me by mistake." That should clear it up.

(For Amy Vanderbilt's booklet, "Engagement & Wedding Etiquette," send your name and address, plus 75 cents in coin, to: Miss Amy Vanderbilt, Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1066, Weston, Conn. 06880, requesting the booklet by name.)

SUSAN VANDERWILT

Upland couple to wed

Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderwilt of Upland announce the betrothal of their daughter, Susan Lee, and Thomas J. Hermes of Upland.

The bride-elect is a 1970 graduate of Upland High School.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell R. Howe of Huntington Beach, Mr. Hermes graduated from Upland High School in 1969. He is serving in the U.S. Army at Fort Eustis, Va.

The couple will be married on Nov. 25 at First Presbyterian Church in Upland.

PAMELLA MC KNIGHT

July rites planned by couple

The betrothal of Miss Pamella Sue McKnight and Philip Richard Dinter was announced at a gathering in honor of the silver wedding anniversary of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. K. McKnight of Pomona.

A 1970 graduate of Pomona High School, Miss McKnight is a senior at Cal Poly University majoring in English.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Dinter of Chino, the groom-to-be graduated from Chino High School in 1968. He received his A.A. at Chaffey College and attended Cal Poly.

Mr. Dinter is employed at Johnston Pump Company in Glendora.

A July wedding is planned by the couple.

Handy hangers

CUPERTINO, Calif. (UPI) — The California Fabricare Institute says storing garments in heavy, formed hangers will help clothes retain their shape. If a formed hanger is not available, two or more wire hangers can be bound together to give proper shape and support.

Ackerman-Leary vows repeated in Ontario Nazarene Church

The Ontario Nazarene Church was the setting for the marriage of Miss Lois Ann Leary and Porter B. Ackerman Jr.

The bride's brother-in-law, the Rev. Larry Pitcher, performed the evening service which united in marriage the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Leary of Montclair and the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Ackerman of Fontana.

The bride's gown was fashioned with a high neckline and long, cuffed sleeves. It was edged in lace as was the mantilla veil which fell from a fabric headpiece.

She carried a nosegay of miniature pink roses, white daisy mums and baby's breath accented by blue jeweled butterflies.

Mrs. Sandi Pitcher was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Kathy Curry and Mrs. Judy Feezell.

Todd Pitcher was ring bearer. The flower girl, Michelle Van Buskirk, was escorted by Daren Pitcher.

Jerry Nirkowski was best man. Ushers were Paul Curry and John Feezell.

Christie Pitcher handled the guest book at the wedding and reception in Ontario.

The newlyweds honeymooned in San Diego. Mr. Acherman is employed by Kaiser Steel.

Couple repeats vows in garden ceremony

Miss Paula E. Frederick and Marcus C. Leh were married in the garden at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Paul A. Frederick in Claremont.

The Rev. William Davis performed the double-ring rites. The bride and groom were attended by the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Leh Jr., of Alameda; the groom's sister, Nancy Lie, of Alameda; the parents of the bride and her sister, Victoria, and brothers, Lief and Galen Frederick, all of Claremont.

Close relatives attended the wedding.

A reception at Domenico's in Claremont was attended by friends and relatives of the couple.

The bride is a graduate of Pomona Catholic Girls High School. She received her bachelor's and master's degrees in biology at the University of California at Riverside.

Mr. Leh graduated from Hillsdale High School in San Mateo and UCR. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Both are employed at UCR.

Meat is safe

Pre-packaged ground beef that is red outside and dull, grayish brown inside is safe to eat. The color differences result because a pigment in meat combines with oxygen in the air to produce the red color, called bloom. The interior of the meat lacks bloom because it doesn't get as much oxygen.

Matter of time

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (UPI) — A Yukon woman sent a letter to a maternity shop in Vancouver, B.C., which said: "Dear Sir: You have not delivered the maternity dress I ordered. Please cancel the order. My delivery was faster than yours."

MEETIN' & EATIN' AT BETSY ROSS

By Gene Neighbors

Hi, Neighbors,

Whether you call it "pig 'n' patty" or "baconburger", we want you to try ours and enjoy a real treat. Complete with french fries, you'll find it a delicious meal.

In the F. Y. I. department, our JOE HURTON, manager of Upland Coffee Shoppe, informs us that the Ice Cream Sundae was invented to get around the law banning sodas on Sunday. Some thought that soda water was intoxicating, so druggist William C. Garwood, of Evanston, Ill., decided to serve ice cream with just syrup, no soda water. He called it a "Sunday", but when churches objected, changed the name to "sundae". Thanks for the info, JOE.

From a Pomona resident from 1941-1950 comes this message: "I had the priviledge of eating and having malts and ice cream at the original Betsy Ross on Garey in Pomona — graduated from Pomona Hi in 1947. Being away from Pomona Valley 25 years, it is our priviledge eating at Betsy Ross when we come to visit." We'd like to thank the gentleman of the harbor - drawing talent (on his napkin).

Anyone can open up a can when it comes to soup. But not everyone can make soup the way we do. Try a large bowl for only .45c with all the crackers you want.

MR. and MRS. GUERRERO brought MATTHEW (4) and MICHAEL (2) into Betsy Ross in Claremont to celebrate their respective birthdays in October. Also in Claremont Coffee Shoppe recently were MR. and MRS. MARTIN MANGOLD of Newport Beach, who were visiting their daughter, CONSTANCE, and his son, DAN LAYNE. Sunday, October 7th, JULIE KAICHEN of Upland was there with a party of 15 to mark her 14th birthday.

From Montclair Mobile Park, a group comes into Betsy Ross in Pomona Valley Center every time one of them has a birthday. Two were celebrants this time: HAZEL GOODSON and M. BENEFIELD. With them were BETTY CLEVELAND, CAROL ANDERSON, MARIE PENNINGTON, MARYELLA LOWER, BLANCHE BEEZLEY, and BLANCHE BUCKINGHAM. They started doin' it without benefit of our Party Plans, but do take advantage of them. Remember too, if you're under 10, sign a card at any of the Betsy Ross Coffee Shoppes and receive a free sundae on your birthday.

Until next Wednesday . . . play it cool . . .

Curb accidents

CHICAGO (UPI) — Keep daylight savings time year-round and help curb accidents and crime.

This is the thesis of Connecticut Representative Stewart B. McKinney, who says that daylight and safety go hand in hand. Using daylight time year round would reduce the accident rate which is heavy during twilight commuter hours, he said, and also would cut back on street crimes, most of which occur after dark. McKinney's proposal appears in a National Safety Council publication.

Fading from scene

There's some fashion news in what you won't be seeing much of—the "chinoiserie" in vouge after President Nixon's trip to Peking is fading from the scene. So, sad to say, are such luxury fabrics as silk, which are giving way to synthetics both because of the practical advantages of man-made fibers (remember now silk dresses would develop lap creases?) and because of the shortage of the old luxury fabrics.

Fast readers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Would you believe in reading at 51,000 words a minute? Educators at Rheem School in Moraga, Calif., are claiming several of their fifth graders, speed-reading graduates, have hit that many words per minute.

Nation's Schools a journal for school bosses, says the rapid-reading program, 10 weeks long, is Optimation. It as developed by the Reading Foundation of California.

Fire destroys an average of 1,884 houses and apartments daily in the United States and Canada, says the National Fire Protection Association.

Claremont group sets French room sale

The semiannual French Room sale of women's apparel will be held Friday by the Women's Fellowship of the Claremont United Church of Christ, Congregational.

The sale, under the leadership of Mrs. Myron Powell, will be held in the church refectory with the entrance on Harrison Avenue. Sale hours will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The clothes are all in excellent shape and only slightly used.

There will also be a baked foods sale with home made bread, cakes, cookies and baked beans.

Proceeds from the food sale will go toward the philanthropic projects of the Friendly Service Circle and the Women's Fellowship. A generous contribution goes to the local health clinic and to the neighborhood emergency pantry.

There will be complimentary coffee for shoppers and workers and sandwiches will be offered for sale.

Bethel 47 to honor guests

Bethel 47, International Order of Job's Daughters, will conduct a guest officers' meeting at 7 p.m. tonight at the Pomona Masonic Temple.

A majority degree practice is set at 5:30 p.m. with a choir practice at 6 and a reception for guests after the meeting.

Committee members include Karen Britt, Melinda Roberts, Jeanne Lias and Leslie Masters and their mothers.

The Bethel will exemplify its ritual work for the Royal Arch Masons Lodge 76 on Oct. 18 at 7 p.m.

Nashville, Tenn., is known as the "Athens of the South" because of its 13 co-educational colleges and universities and full-sized replica of the Parthenon.

LET'S ASK THE COOK by Nan Wiley

DEAR NAN:

I am looking for the kind of creamed slaw you get at some restaurants Not the one made with sour cream but it has a sort of tangy taste; and what do they do to make it so crisp? — Mrs. Raymond G. Meyer, Batesville, Ind.

That's easy. Soak the freshly shredded cabbage in ice water for about 30 minutes before you make and serve your slaw. I always add plenty of ice cubes to the bowl, set it in the refrigerator. Since I am not in your area I can't tell what sort of dressing you refer to. There are jillions of slaw variations. I would have to taste to be sure I was giving you a reasonable facsimile.

My favorite fast-and-easy dressing for "Dutch slaw" calls for 1 cup cream or undiluted evaporated milk, 2 to 3 tablespoons sugar, 2 to 3 tablespoons vinegar, about ½ teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper. You will have to juggle the amounts of sugar and vinegar to suit yourself.

You may wind up liking more of one than the other. Place the cream or whatever in a small bowl. Add the sugar, stir to dissolve Then add the vinegar gradually, beating constantly with a quick fork. It thickens miraculously. Add seasonings, pour over the cabbage after it has been well drained in a colander and patted dry with paper towels. A few chopped chives go right well here too. The dressing is also very good on sliced tomatoes or other greens. Old timers used a boiled dressing like the one I gave just recently.

DEAR NAN:

I have moved out in the country and cannot always get to the store when I run out of an item so I have made myself a small reserve of flour, sugar and salt by putting them in gallon plastic milk jugs. How long can I expect to keep the flour good? Would glass jars be better? I have noticed an odd smell after a period of storage. How long will self-rising flour keep under the same conditions? Mrs. M. L. C., Charlotte, North Carolina.

Yes, glass jars would be better The keeping quality of flour will depend on storage conditions.

If jars are tightly capped, the flour hasn't had time to pick up moisture before you switched containers and if it is kept in a relatively cool place, it should keep for months. I know mine does. Sugar and salt will be good indefinitely.

Salad lovers shouldn't be without Nan Wiley's booklet "Simply Super Salads". To get your copy, send 25 cents and a long, stamped self-addressed envelope to Nan Wiley in care of Progress-Bulletin, Register and Tribune Syndicate, 715 Locust St., Des Moines, Iowa, 50304.

Decorations

NEW YORI (UPI) — Bride and bridegroom ornaments for wedding cakes are not done much any more, says the banquet manager of a leading restaurant here. Many brides choose instead to decorate the cake with either a tiny vase of real flowers sunk in the center or bone china ornaments.. Some select peace symbols.

Status of Women head is guest at luncheon

Pamela Faust, chairman of the California Commission on the Status of Women, was guest of honor at a luncheon at Hillcrest Homes in La Verne.

Organizing the informational program was Mrs. Jessie H. Butler, coordinator of the Task Force for Child Care Centers of the Pomona Valley Chapter of National Organization for Women (NOW).

The Pomona Valley Chapter of NOW was instrumental in obtaining a resolution from the City of Pomona Planning Commission supporting the addition of child care centers to future housing tracts.

According to Mrs. Butler, the Status of Women Commission has endorsed child care centers in tracts for some time. At the meeting, Mrs. Faust was updated on the programs underway in this area.

Participants included Joan Richardson, NOW president; Marie Tabakman, a former midwife in London, England; Chris Perry, director of the child care center operating at the Lamplighters Mobile Home Park in Ontario; Charyl Blackwell, assistant director of the center, and Dr. Margaret Preska, chairman of the La Verne College faculty.

Also involved in the discussion were Beverly Benjamin, teacher at Chaffey College; Jane Smythe, Debra Trzyna, Bonnie Engel, Agnes Gilbreath and Cathy Minnoch, NOW board members; and Carolyn Givens, a teacher in a United Methodist nursery school. Mrs. Lucille Silliman assisted Mrs. Butler as hostess.

Autumn colors

Autumn colors have invaded florist shops with mums, pompons, tritoma, celosia, cockscomb, and colorful bittersweet all in plentiful supply during the fall months, the Society of American Florists reports.

In using the long-last mums and pompons for flower arrangements, break their stems instead of cutting them, SAF advises. This will help the stems to absorb water and keep the blooms fresh.

Books for children suggested as gifts

Looking for some new children's books for Christmas?

For the 3 to 7-year-olds the Golden Press has recently published the fifth in the Golden Frangrance Book series, "A Nose for Trouble," ($2.95).

In the latest Scratch 'n Sniff Fragrance Book the heroine is Clara Cat who unwittingly finds herself in one mishap after another.

Written by Barbara Shook Hazen, the book includes eight fragrance strips containing such scents as oranges, blueberry pie, lilacs, pizza, mint, licorice, smoke and violets.

The illustrators are Tim and Greg Hildebrandt, twin brothers who always work together.

Before a child can say "Jack Rabbit" or even count to 10, he can be transported into the fantastic dream world created by Mircea Vasiliu in a new Golden Press book, "The Good Night, Sleep Tight Book." It will attract from 5 to 8-year-old, and is the story of a place where dreaming children walk upside down, slide along the rainbow, talk nonsense and share secrets. The price is $2.50.

Although professionally trained for a legal career and as a diplomat with the Romanian Royal Legation in Washington, D. C., Mr. Vasiliu has always kept his enthusiasm for illustrating and for children's books.

"The Silly Book of Animals" is a new Golden book by Addie and appeals to children 5 to 8 years.

It is an imaginative and witty collection of comic rhymes designed to aid all animals in "distress." The rhymes, all enhanced by superb pictures, portray various animals in a lively and amusing fashion. "The Silly Book of Animals," published in August, $2.50, is Addie's first venture into the children's book world. Another of Addie's books, "Christopher for President," will be published this fall by Golden Press.

Charcoal is made by heating wood intensely in an enclosed space with a limited amount of air.

If fruit floats after canning, it probably was packed raw with some air remaining in its tissues. It floats because it is lighter than the syrup. Or it may have been packed too loosely

Program offers nurse instruction

Nurses are offered the opportunity to learn the nature of pain and new relief measures to use with patients during a new UCLA Extension one-day program, "Nursing Care of the Patient with Pain."

The program will be held Oct. 20 from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the auditorium of the Neuropsychiatric Institute at UCLA.

[illegible] will be [illegible] McCaffery, author of "Nursing Management of the Patient with Pain." She will emphasize specific pain relief measures that may be used with patients of all ages in any clinical setting.

Further information on the program may be obtained by writing P.O. Box 24902, Department of Continuing Education in Health Sciences, University Extension, Los Angeles, Calif. 90024, or by calling 213 825-4958.

For boss

Butter up the Boss with a boutonniere on Boss Day, October 16, 1973, and maybe you won't have to call him Boss anymore. Flowers have a way of softening up even the busiest captains of industry.

Faculty Wives set first fall session

Mrs. David Isley was recently installed as president of the Chino Faculty Wives Club.

Serving as officers with Mrs. Isley are Mmes. Michael Clare, secretary; John Monger, treasurer; Don Lamb, publicity; Gary Weiberg, hospitality; Jim Rawls, handbook; and Norbert Murphy, program and scholarship.

The Faculty Wives will hold their first meeting of the club year on Oct. 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Glenmeade Elementary School. The event will be a get acquainted tea with all wives of Chino teachers and administrators invited. Entertainment for the evening will be provided by the Treble Tones from Chino High School.

Hemline at knee

Don't worry about the length of skirts this fall, just so long as the hemline flirts with the knee—just above, mid or just below. Nothing indicates that the day of the fashion dictate or dictator is over as much as the vagueness of hemlines. Women can wear what suits their figures and their dignity without feeling that frumpiness that used to go along with last year's look.

Cheesecake, chocolate fans note

If you dote on chocolate and dream of cheesecake, run, don't walk, to the kitchen and whip up this super rich, fudgey, baked chocolate cheesecake. It's a luscious treat for cheesecake and chocolate devotees.

This baked cheesecake classic is firm and rich in texture, as contrasted to the souffle-like texture of a refrigerator cheesecake. You may expect a certain degree of shrinkage as the cake cools. Chopped nuts give crunchiness and flavor to the baked crust. Instant cocoa mix and cream cheese provide the cake with a fudgey, chocolate goodness. A sugar-sweetened, vanilla-flavored dairy sour cream topping and a sliced peach garnish adorn the top.

FUDGEY CHOCOLATE CHEESECAKE

NUT CRUST
- ¾ cup all-purpose flour
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup chopped nuts
- 1-3rd cup butter or margarine, melted

CHOCOLATE CHEESE FILLING
- 2 packages (8-ounces each) cream cheese, softened
- ¾ cup sugar
- 2 egg yolks
- 1¼ cups instant cooca mix
- ¼ cup all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 egg whites
- ¼ cup sugar

SOUR CREAM AND PEACH TOPPING
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- Sweetened peach slices

NUT CRUST: Combine flour, sugar, salt and nuts; blend in melted butter or margarine with a fork. Press on bottom and halfway up the side of a 9-inch springform pan. Bake at 400 degrees for 5 minutes.

CHOCOLATE CHEESE FILLING: Cream the cheese with ¾ cup sugar until light and fluffy. Blend in egg yolks, instant cocoa mix, flour and vanilla; beat until smooth and creamy. Beat egg whites until foamy in small mixer bowl; gradually add ¼ cup sugar and beat until stiff peaks form. Fold about ¼ meringue into chocolate filling; blend well. Fold in remaining meringue just until blended.

Pour into prepared crust. Bake at 350 degrees about 1 hour or until cake tester inserted halfway to center comes out clean. Cool 15 minutes. Combine topping ingredients and spread evenly over baked cheesecake. Cool to room temperature; chill 4 hours or overnight. Garnish with peach slices just before serving. Makes 12 to 15 servings.

Theater showing sex film raided

RIVERSIDE (UPI) —Police raided a theatre Monday where the sex film "Deep Throat" was being shown and arrested two theatre employes.

Authorities said Randall Pierce, 23, and Robert E. Booth, 29, both of Riverside, were booked on suspicion of showing a pornographic film and released on $500 bail each. The film was confiscated by police.

Pewter was popular in churches until recently. The baptismal font, communion cup and 12th-century crucifix shown here are from the Burton Pell Collection.

Let the pumpkin be the main attraction at party

Let a Rum Punchkin Party brighten your holiday entertaining this year. The fun centers around a real pumpkin, filled with a tasty rum punch punch bowl, if need be).

The pumpkin flavor adds just that extra something that will make your guests beg for the recipe. The pumpkin serves as an attractive centerpiece, too, just the setting for displays of bright colored fall flowers and possibly a bunch of Indian corn, too.

It's easier than you think to prepare the pumpkin. Just use a sturdy kitchen knife to cut off the top and scallop the edges. The inside is already hollow, so simply reach in to pick out any stray seeds and smooth out the bottom. Pour the punch in and add plenty of ice.

Start your menu with deviled ham roll-ups. A hearty cheese ball and dip, served with crackers and vegetable sticks, are all that you need to round out a festive party.

RUM PUNCHKIN

In a large bowl mix:
- 1½ cups sugar
- 1 cup lemon juice
- 2 cups cranberry juice
- 2 cups orange juice
- 2 cups strong tea
- 2 bottles light Puerto Rican rum

Pour into a hollowed out pumpkin shell. Add ice cubes. Serves 12 people twice.

PICK-UP-STICKS DUNK

- Crisp, colorful fresh vegetable sticks
- 1 canned pimento, chopped
- 1 small onion, minced
- ¼ cup minced parsley
- ½ teaspoon seasoned salt
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 carton (8 ounces) cottage cheese
- 1 can minced clams or 1 jar smokey cheese spread or 1 can deviled ham

Prepare the vegetable sticks, wrap in foil and chill. Combine the remaining ingredients and mix well. Chill until ready to serve.

To serve, surround bowl of mixture with crunchy vegetable dippers for dunking. Makes about 3 cups

Carrots, green peppers, cucumbers, turnips, mushrooms, cauliflower and other vegetables make attractive and good tasting sticks for dunking.

DEVILED ROLL-UPS

- 1 loaf unsliced bread
- 1 can deviled ham
- 2 tablespoons chopped mustard pickle relish
- 2 tablespoons mayonnaise
- Dash tabasco

Trim crusts from the unsliced bread. Cut loaf lengthwise into thin slices. Roll the slices with a rolling pin to make them flexible and prevent tearing.

Combine the remaining ingredients and spread on the bread slices. Roll the slices up like little jelly rolls, starting at the short end. Press firmy to seal the end, then spread each roll all over with a little soft butter, roll in finely minced parsley or sprinkle with bright colored paprika. Wrap the rolls tightly in foil or plastic and chill until ready to serve.

Cut the filled rolls into little rounds to serve. One loaf will make from 50 to 60 tiny roll-ups.

DUTCH CHEESE BALLS

- 1 gouda cheese (about 3 pounds)
- 1 small white onion, minced
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- ½ cup pecans, very finely chopped
- Dash tabasco
- 3 tablespoons light or dark Puerto Rican rum

Cut top off cheese, making the cut straight, zigzag or scalloped. Scoop out most of cheese leaving a shell about ¼-inch thick. Handle the cheese carefully so that red wax coating does not become torn or broken.

Grate the cheese, then combine in large mixer bowl with onion, sour cream and finely chopped nuts. Blend on medium speed until well mixed. Add a dash or so of tabasco, then add rum — a tablespoon at a time, beating in until cheese mixture is smooth and creamy.

Three tablespoons of rum is usually enough to achieve proper creaminess and spreadability. Chill the cheese mixture until it firms up slightly. Heap in cheese shell and continue chilling until ready to serve.

Serve surrounded with crackers, party rye and pumpernickel, melba toast and other favorite spreadables. Makes enough for about 2 dozen generous servings.

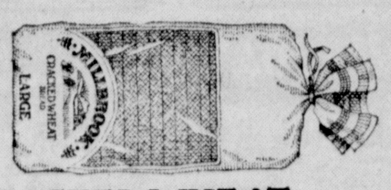
LET'S BREAK BREAD TOGETHER

Today, such noontime gatherings are largely a thing of the past. But the flavorful breads that were served are not. Our family of quality variety breads recapture that "fresh-from-the-oven" taste of the home-baked breads of a hundred years ago.

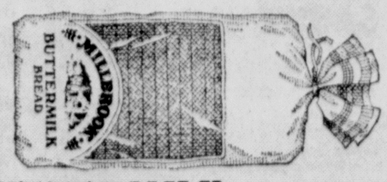


CRACKED WHEAT

This bread owes its distinctive flavor to two things. The ingredients—cracked, rather than crushed, whole wheat grits, sesame seeds and pure honey. And the baking process—it's slow baked to preserve all the flavor the ingredients contain.

HOLLAND KRUNCH

A golden-cracked top is the main taste attraction of this fine-textured loaf. We add rice flour to the unusual white flour to allow the top to crack into a crunchy crust. And we slow bake it to give it a chewy taste that's unique to say the least.



BUTTERMILK

A rich bread with a rich taste, thanks to premium buttermilk solids, a top that's split then crowned with white flour and our patient slow baking process. All Buttermilk shares with other white breads is color.

A CENTURY AGO the midday meal was a family affair. It was a time to relax and enjoy good food, company and, inevitably, delicious home-baked bread.

These are just three of the seven members of our first family of quality variety breads. Your family will also like the tastes of Dutch Dill, Bavarian Pumpernickel, French Sourdough, Up-Side-Down White and Up-Side-Down Wheat. Try one on your family the next time you all break bread together.

STORE COUPON

It's Bake-Off time again; entry deadline: Oct. 31

It's easy to enter the Pillsbury Bake-Off Contest. All you need is a simple idea with a fresh new twist and you could be among the 100 finalists competing for the $70,000 in cash prizes in Phoenix next February.

Recipes entered in the contest are judged on family appeal, taste and appearance, ease of preparation and the value-cost relationship.

In creating a recipe, try to use few ingredients — concentrating on those commonly kept on hand; choose flavor combinations that appeal to family members of all ages; and streamline your preparation method so that the recipe is easy to fix.

As you start your creative thinking, here are some past bake-off contest winners to give you clues in your development:

Creamy Fudge Nut Bars is an extra rich and extra delicious three-layer bar cookie for family or company eating. This is an example of an idea you might enter in the "Easy Idea" Dessert Category.

Evaluation of this recipe gives pluses for popular flavor appeal, appearance, use of few ingredients and ease of preparation.

Butterscotch Rum Ripple Cake and Saucy Apple Swirl are both examples of entry ideas for the Bundt pan ring cake category.

The attractive Butterscotch Rum Ripple Cake is perfect for a family or company dessert. The "ripple" in this rum-flavored, sour cream cake is made easily with butterscotch pudding mix and a jar of butterscotch ice cream topping.

Saucy Apple Swirl is a quick and easy dessert made from just five ingredients. Canned applesauce and sugar and cinnamon provide the special flavor.

Remember, the entry phase for the 25th bake-off contest ends Oct. 31. You'll find entry blanks at local supermarkets or in five-pound bags of Pillsbury's Best All Purpose Flours.

So hurry — you could easily be among the winners.

CREAMY FUDGE NUT BARS

Fudge frosting mix and cream cheese make these three-layer bar cookies extra rich and fudgy for family or company eating.

- 3 cups all purpose, unbleached or self-rising flour
- 1 package fudge frosting mix (reserve part for filling)
- 1 cup butter or margarine, softened
- 1 cup chopped nuts

FILLING

- 2 packages (8 ounces each) cream cheese, softened
- Reserved fudge frosting mix
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 2 eggs

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. (Lightly spoon flour into cup to measure; level off.) In large bowl, combine flour, 2½ cups dry frosting mix and butter; blend at low speed until well mixed and crumbly. Stir in nuts. Reserve 2 cups for topping. Firmly press remaining crumb mixture into ungreased 13x9-inch pan. In large bowl, beat cream cheese until smooth. Add reserved frosting mix, vanilla and eggs. Blend thoroughly. Spread over crust. Sprinkle with crumb mixture. Bake 25 to 35 minutes or until toothpick inserted into center comes out clean. Chill. Cut into squares. Store in refrigerator. Makes 2 to 3 dozen.

BUTTERSCOTCH RUM RIPPLE CAKE

Cake

- 3 cups unbleached or all purpose flour
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 cup butter or margarine, softened
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 3 teaspoons rum flavoring
- 5 eggs (1 cup)

Ripple

- 1 package (4-serving size) dry instant butterscotch pudding mix
- 10½-ounce jar (¾ cup) butterscotch ice cream topping
- 1 egg

Glaze

- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ¼ cup firmly packaged brown sugar
- 1 cup powdered sugar
- 1 teaspoon rum flavoring
- 1 to 3 tablespoons hot water
- 2 tablespoons chopped nuts

Preheat oven to 325 degrees (300 degrees for colored fluted tube pan). Generously grease and lightly flour 10-inch fluted tube or tube pan. If fluted tube pan has an opening in center tube, cover with foil. (Lightly spoon flour into cup to measure; level off). In large bowl, blend all cake ingredients. Beat 3 minutes at medium speed (portable mixer-use highest speed). In small bowl, combine 2 cups prepared batter and ripple ingredients. Beat 1 minute at medium speed. Spoon half of cake batter into prepared pan, then half the ripple batter. Marble the layers with a knife in a folding motion, turning pan while folding.

Repeat with remaining batters and marble. Bake at 325 degrees for 1 hour and 20 to 30 minutes until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool cake upright in pan 15 minutes; remove from pan. Cool completely. In small saucepan, melt butter and brown sugar. Boil until thick, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Stir in powdered sugar and rum flavoring. Add water to glazing consistency. Drizzle over cake. Sprinkle with nuts. Store in refrigerator.

If using self-rising flour, omit soda and salt. Reduce sugar to 1¾ cups and butter or margarine to ¾ cup.

SAUCY APPLE SWIRL

- ¼ cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 package (1 pound 3 ounces) yellow cake mix
- 1 and 2-3rds cups (1 pound ½ ounce jar) applesauce

3 Eggs

Preheat oven to 350 degrees (325 degrees for colored fluted tube pan). Blend sugar and cinnamon. Grease 10-inch fluted tube or tube pan and dust with 1 tablespoon of sugar-cinnamon mixture. In large bowl, blend cake mix, applesauce and eggs until moistened. Beat as directed on package. Reserve 1½ cups batter. Pour remaining batter into pan. Sprinkle with remaining sugar-cinnamon mixture; spread with reserved batter. Bake at 360 degrees for 35 to 45 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cook cake upright in pan 15 minutes; remove from pan.

Indian tribe 'democratic'

The Indians of the Rocky Mountain plateau practiced democracy and peacefulness in their loosely organized villages, and lived in harmony with neighboring tribes. Intensely spiritual, Plateau people employed long period of isolation, fasting, and meditation in search of supernatural visions.

The Indians had variety of uses for cranberries

Enjoy the autumn with bountiful harvest-fresh fruit truly native to our land. In such plentiful supply right now, lush red cranberries once grew wildly in many parts of North America. Long before the first settler arrived, Indian tribes made good use of this natural treasure in a variety of ways: to dye ceremonial robes and blankets and to treat arrow wounds, but most of all cranberries served as a wondrous food source which added flavor and color to the basic Indian diet.

Cranberries have come a long way since the first settlers were presented with baskets of the precious berries by friendly Indians. Here are some hearty Indian-style recipes that can be relished by family and friends through fall and winter.

Use fresh cranberries to prepare them now, and at the same time, freeze a quantity of the just-harvested berries for cooking these dishes in the months ahead. Easily frozen, just pop unopened boxes of the berries into your freezer. When you are ready to use them, do not thaw, just rinse the berries and follow the direction in any recipe calling for fresh cranberries.

For a main course which will warm the hearts of many a big or little brave, try this satisfying stew. You may be one of the lucky ones with a hunter in the family who'll bring you venison this less than "meaty" fall. If not, beef chuck will work very well, and goes a long way these days in feeding a crowd.

VENERABLE CRANBERRY VENISON STEW

- 3 pounds venison or beef chuck, cut into 1-inch cubes
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 2 large onions, chopped
- 2 cups fresh or fresh-frozen cranberries
- 3 cans (10½ ounces each) condensed beef broth
- ¼ cup gin
- 2 cloves garlic, chopped
- 2 cups, 1 inch pieces celery
- 6 potatoes, peeled and halved
- 6 carrots, cut into 1 inch pieces
- 1 can (12 ounces) whole kernel corn, drained
- ¼ cup flour mixed with 1-3rd cup water
- Salt and pepper

In a large Dutch oven brown beef on all sides in butter. Add onions and cranberries. Cook 5 minutes or until onions are tender. Stir in broth, gin and garlic. Cover and simmer for 1½ to 2 hours or until meat is almost fork-tender. Stir in celery, potatoes, carrots and corn. Simmer 20 minutes longer or until vegetables are fork-tender. Stir in flour mixture. Cook, stirring constantly until gravy is thickened. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

To accompany your stew, serve succotash salad chock full of corn, cranberries, lima beans and bright crisp greens.

CRANBERRY SUCCOTASH SALAD

- 1 can (12 ounces) whole kernel corn, drained
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen baby lima beans, cooked and drained
- 2 cups fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, cut into halves
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 2 tablespoons catsup
- 1 cup bottled garlic salad dressing
- Lettuce leaves

In a large bowl, mix corn and lima beans. In a small bowl mix cranberries and sugar and let stand for 20 minutes. Add onion, catsup and salad dressing to lima beans and corn. Stir in cranberries with their juice. Chill until ready to serve. Line a salad bowl with lettuce leaves and fill with succotash mix.

For a dessert bound to be devoured by everyone in your teepee, prepare a pie filled with fresh cranberries, apples and spices. All will find it delectable:

POCAHONTAS PIE

- 1 package (11 ounces) pie crust mix
- 2 cups fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries
- 1 package (11 ounces) dried mixed fruit, chopped
- 4 cooking apples, peeled, cored and sliced
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons minute tapioca
- ½ teaspoon each mace and nutmeg
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- Ice cream or custard sauce

Prepare pie crust mix according to label directions. Roll out 2-3rds of the crust on a floured surface into a 12-inch circle, use to line the bottom and sides of an ungreased 9-inch pie pan. In a bowl, mix remaining ingredients except butter. Pour mixture into lined pan. Dot top of filling with pieces of butter.

Roll out remaining pie crust on a floured surface into an 11-inch circle, use to cover pie. Crimp edges to seal and trim. Cut slits in top crust. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degree) for 1 hour or until apples are fork tender. Serve warm or cold topped with ice cream or warm custard sauce, if desired.

Alaska capital is landlocked

In Alaska's capital, automobiles literally are for "town driving." No roads lead into or out of Juneau. The city is connected with the rest of the world by its airport and seaport.

BEAN DISH

Clip & Save

Meat and potatoes men may be glum about the high prices of their favorite meat cuts or the more stunning fact that they are not as available as in previous months. However, nutritionists feel this state of meat affairs will be a boon to most Americans' future health. We eat about four times the amount of meat protein each day that we need. Instead of meat nutritionists suggest tasty dishes using vegetable and dairy products as good sources of protein. For example, a Depression dish of the 1930s combined a pound of drained, ground or mashed kidney beans, ½ pound American cheese, sauteed onion, a cup of soft bread crumbs, 2 eggs, a dash of salt and a tablespoon of Worcestershire sauce. Shape in a loaf and bake at 350 degrees until set.

Halloween treats can start early

Dessert is a treat any time of the year. At Halloween, when everyone is thinking in terms of special treats, the time seems just right for a dessert buffet party.

Invite guests for after-dark arrival and use candles and lanterns of various sizes and shapes for main lighting. Suggest guests wear costumes. Provide inexpensive humorous masks for the less adventuresome.

Give out lists for a limited-time scavenger hunt in the immediate neighborhood and then reassemble for prizes and dessert.

As a departure from the usual cake, cookie, pie routine serve Apple Buttered Rum Pudding.

Ever versatile, always dependable, and thankfully inexpensive, rice is the main ingredient in these creamy, elegant molded desserts. Rum and apples enhance the flavor. A chafing dish lends a festive air and keeps the topping hot. For a beverage, serve coffee or tea with cinnamon stick stirrers. Or, prepare a spicy cider punch.

APPLE BUTTERED RUM PUDDING

2 cups light cream or light half and half
1 cup cooked rice
1-3rd cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon (1 envelope) unflavored gelatin
¼ cup water
2 tablespoons rum
1 cup sour cream Apple Topping

Combine cream, rice, sugar and salt. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Soften gelatin in water. Add to rice mixture and stir until gelatin dissolves. Cool until thickened but not set. Fold in rum and sour cream. Spoon into lightly oiled individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold and spoon hot apple topping over pudding. Makes 6 servings (3 cups pudding).

APPLE TOPPING

½ to ¾ cup brown sugar
2 teaspoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup water
1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) pie-sliced apples
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 tablespoons rum

Blend sugar, cornstarch, salt, cinnamon, and water. Add apples. Bring to boil, reduce heat, and simmer 15 to 20 minutes or until apples are tender, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat. Add butter and rum. Serve hot over cold pudding. Makes 2 and 1-3rd cups topping.

Here still another idea for easy buffet entertaining, featuring economical and versatile rice.

TUNA-TOMATO MEDALLIONS

1 tablespoon (1 envelope) unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
2 chicken bouillon cubes
1 can (9 ounces) tuna (drain and flake)
2 cups cooked rice
1½ cups thinly sliced celery
¼ cup each minced onion and green pepper
½ cup each sour cream and mayonnaise
2 teaspoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 to 2 cans (13½ ounces each) tomato aspic, chilled

Soften gelatin in cold water. Add bouillon cubes; dissolve over very low heat. Chill until slightly thickened. Add remaining ingredients except aspic. Blend well. Spoon into individual molds. Chill until firm. Slice tomato aspic and place on salad greens. Unmold salad onto aspic circles. Garnish with ripe olives, if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Heart hints

Proper eating can prevent attacks

More than a million Americans die annually from heart and circulatory problems.

The foods we eat, especially fatty foods, are one of the risk factors in heart disease.

Our diet is one thing we can do something about, according to Dr. Phillip Rossman, authority on diet in relation to heart disease, and active volunteer worker with the Los Angeles County Heart Association.

Dr. Rossman joined Dr. Morton Lee Pearce, Heart Association president and nationally recognized diet-heart disease expert, in discussing the subject and the recently published American Heart Association's cookbook with food editors from newspapers and radio and TV stations.

Daily, the average adult needs protein, minerals, vitamins, carbohydrates and some polyunsaturated fats.

Guidelines for reaching and maintaining normal weight are as follows:

1. Adjust the servings to meet your own needs. Sometimes it is helpful to have a portion of lunch or dinner before mealtime, to reduce appetite. But if this is done, be sure it is a part of the following meal and not an extra.

2. Remember that the calories in snacks can mount up quickly. If you must nibble, choose snacks that are low in calories; coffee, tea, bouillon, pickles, raw vegetables and small portions of raw fruit, or use some of your meal allowance for between-meal snacks.

3. Add zest to meals with noncaloric spices and herbs for flavoring. Use the American Heart Association cookbook for healthy gourmet foods.

4. Use flour, cornstarch, sugar, honey, syrup and other sweets sparingly; avoid fruit canned with sugar.

5. Calories are highly concentrated in fats, so be cautious about margarines and oils. Try one of the new diet margarines that have about half the calories of regular margarine.

Trim fat off meat, and watch for those delicious but disastrous dishes that are rich in fat; fried and fatty foods, nuts, hot rolls and biscuits, sauces and gravies, salad dressing, pastries and desserts. These foods may all be consumed but the quantity consumed should be small. The secret is cutting down, not out.

6. Count in the day's calories all beverages, hard and soft. The only exceptions are water, black coffee and tea, and the low-calorie soft drinks.

7. Chew slowly, so that you feel satisfied, and so that you do not have time for second helpings.

8. Eat with reasonable regularity. Skipping meals is a poor practice. It leads to fatigue, excessive nibbling, the temptation to overeat at the next meal and haphazard nutrition.

9. Keep weekly, not daily, tabs on your progress with scale, tape measure, and a few pinches of abdominal skinfolds, and do not reach for the moon. Remember that fast weight loss by rigid restriction may be spectacular, but it is seldom lasting and the pounds come back again. A gradual weight loss is far more apt to be lasting, and does not necessitate a punishing diet.

10. Contrary to general impression, exercise is of decided value as a reducing agent, and moderate daily exercise does not necessarily increase food intake. Obese persons are notoriously sedentary in their habits; their level of physical activity must be increased for successful weight control.

The best treatment for heart attacks and strokes is prevention. This takes years of proper eating and exercise. The American Heart Association Cookbook has good health as well as good flavor in every recipe.

Deerfly bite blamed for rabbit fever

CHICAGO (UPI)—Most cases of rabbit fever, or tularemia, during a 1971 outbreak of the disease in Utah started from a deerfly bite, a medical report said.

Tularemia is an uncommon disease that produces fever, muscle pains, nausea, weakness and lung congestion that sometimes leads to pneumonia but is rarely fatal.

An outbreak of tularemia in Utah in which 28 of the 39 patients cases stemmed from deerfly bites was reported by researchers in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"First the deerfly bites a sick rabbit. Then the fly bites a man. The man gets a serious illness known as tularemia," the article said.

Few of the Utah cases were traceable to direct contact with rabbits during the 1971 epidemic. The deerflies were the carriers, the report said.

"Although tularemia has been found in more than 60 animals and birds, the jackrabbit is the main source of infection in man. Transmission from rabbit to rabbit is accomplished primarily by a variety of tick that seldom bites man," the researchers said.

Inability to read makes jail term more likely

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A youngster's inability to read properly makes him more likely to land in jail, a Pennsylvania educator contends.

"Schools are not doing the job of teaching people, especially poor people," Kenneth Wooden of Bucks County told the National Conference on Juvenile Justice on Monday.

Wooden said the reading level of those in juvenile institutions is no higher on the average than the fourth grade.

To get along in society, a person should be able to read at least at the 10th grade level, he declared.

OCTOBER IDEAS for COOKING WITH BEER!

MEATBALL STROGANOFF ON NOODLES

- 1½ lb. lean ground beef
- 1 egg
- 1 tbsp. instant minced onion
- 1 tsp. salt
- 2 tbsp. shortening
- 1 (1½ oz.) env. beef stroganoff mix
- ½ cup beer
- 1 cup (½ pint) dairy sour cream

Combine beef, egg, onion, salt; shape into 1-inch meatballs. Brown meatballs on all sides in hot shortening. Drain off excess fat. Sprinkle stroganoff mix over meatballs; pour on beer. Simmer for 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Fold in sour cream. Reheat but do not boil. Serve meatballs over buttered noodles. Serves 6.

★

SAUSAGE RICE CASSEROLE

- 1 (5 oz.) package rice milanese
- 1 tbsp. butter
- 1½ cups boiling water
- ½ cup beer
- 1 (8 oz.) pkg. brown and serve sausages

Pour rice into a 1½-quart casserole. Sprinkle sauce mix from package over rice. Add butter, boiling water and beer. Stir gently to blend. Place sausages on top. Cover and bake in a preheated 375 deg. oven for 20 minutes or until rice is tender. Serves 4.

MAGIC SALAD DRESSING

When using package salad dressing mixes, such as French, Italian, Garlic, etc., substitute beer for the water for zipped-up and subtle flavor.

A doughnut surprise can be fun

Children love doughnuts and children love surprises. Put the two together for a breakfast treat or mid-day snack youngsters will enjoy with a glass of milk or a cranberry-apple drink. Fill doughnuts made from an easy hot roll mix with jellied cranberry sauce and dust with confectioners' sugar. These Cranberry Surprise Doughnuts may be a way to break down a reluctant breakfast eater's resistance.

CRANBERRY SURPRISE DOUGHNUTS

- 2 packages (13¾ ounces) hot roll mix
- 1¼ cups lukewarm water
- 2 eggs
- ½ cup sugar
- Grated rind of 1 orange
- 2 teaspoons nutmeg
- 1 can (1 pound) jellied cranberry sauce
- Deep fat or cooking oil
- Confectioners' sugar

Remove yeast from hot roll mix and dissolve in lukewarm water. Stir in eggs, sugar, orange rind and nutmeg. Beat in flour from hot roll mix. Cover dough and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk. Turn dough out on a floured board and knead until smooth and elastic about 5 minutes. Roll dough out to ¼-inch thickness and cut with a cookie cutter into 48 three-inch rounds. Cut cranberry sauce into 6 thick slices. Cut each slice into quarters, making 24 pieces in all. Place a piece of cranberry sauce on 24 of the dough rounds. Brush edges of dough with water. Top with remaining dough rounds and press edges together firmly. Let cranberry-filled rounds stand on a floured surface until double in bulk, about 30 minutes. Heat fat to 360 degrees. Drop in doughnuts and fry until brown, about 2 minutes. Turn and brown on other side. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve sprinkled with confectioners' sugar. Makes 24 doughnuts.

Shipwrecks halt farming

Farmers around the world often stop plowing to remove rocks. Dutch farmers stop to remove shipwrecks. Recent news reports told how downed aircraft from World War II are surfacing as land is reclaimed from the Zuider Zee.

Beans give protein at modest price

Beans, in infinite variety, have been an important food world-wide for thousands of years. Types familiar to Americans were first cultivated by Peru's Incas, while North American Indians used beans long before the first settlers landed. Beans were one of many Indian foods quickly integrated into the colonists' diet.

The early settlers made baked beans their mainstay. Off they went to church, leaving the bean pot a-simmer on the fireplace crane. Sunday's meal was ready on their return, eaten with relish and a blessing.

Today's baked beans and other bean dishes also rate a blessing, for they provide protein at nominal cost. With food budgets in mind, here are two robust recipes for dried beans.

Serve Old-Fashioned Baked Beans after long, slow cooking, redolent with spiciness. For this, you use white kidney beans, simmering and then baking them with a piquant mixture of brown sugar, honey and prepared yellow mustard; sausages and orange sections enhance the dish.

Lentils, a smaller, round flat bean, were known even before Biblical times. Esau's mess of pottage was probably a thick lentil soup and archeologists have found lentils in Switzerland's Bronze-Age lake dwellings. Being smaller, lentils need less cooking and no soaking. For this second dish, Spicy Baked Lentils, a mixture of tomatoes and Worcestershire sauce supplies tangy savor.

Serve baked beans or lentils with a tossed salad and French bread. Finish off with baked custard, milk and coffee. This meal provides servings from each of the 4 food groups needed daily for good health and nutrition.

OLD-FASHIONED BAKED BEANS

1 pound navy beans
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ cup honey
½ cup prepared yellow mustard
1 cup water
1 orange, cut into wedges
Whole cloves
1 pound pork sausage links

Wash and sort beans; cover with salted water in 3-quart saucepan. Bring to a boil, reduce heat, and simmer, covered, 2 hours; drain well. In 2-quart heavy casserole or bean pot combine beans, brown sugar, honey, mustard and 1 cup water. Pierce each orange wedge with 2 or 3 whole cloves; arrange with sausage links on top of beans. Cover and bake at 325 degrees for 3 to 4 hours, until tender. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

SPICY BAKED LENTILS

1 pound lentils
6 slices bacon
¼ cup celery, chopped
1 onion, chopped
1 can (1 pound) tomatoes
¼ cup Worcestershire sauce
½ cup water

Wash and sort lentils, cover with salted water in medium-sized saucepan. Bring to a boil, reduce heat, and simmer, covered, for 45 minutes; drain. Cook bacon until crisp, pouring off all but ¼ cup of drippings; crumble bacon. Cook celery and onion in bacon drippings until tender. In 3-quart casserole combine cooked lentils, celery-onion mixture, tomatoes, Worcestershire sauce, ½ cup water, and crumbled bacon. Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees for 1 to 1½ hours, until tender. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

No bum steer with instant tenderizer

A steer's not all steak, but consumers can learn to make non-steak cuts (the less tender cuts) into steaks that will be extra juicy and flavorful with instant meat tenderizer. Let's take beef chuck for example—chuck makes up 26.8 per cent of the total carcass, more than any other beef cut. Therefore, you'll be finding more chuck at your meat counter this fall. And it's a good buy as well as a great alternate to ground beef. Pick up a four-pound chuck pot roast and a jar of instant meat tenderizer. If you're not familiar with instant meat tenderizer, now's the time to learn about it, since you need it now more than ever to get every cent from your meat dollar.

What does instant meat tenderizer do in addition to tenderizing meat? Other product benefits you'll discover include helping meat retain its juiciness, thus speeding up cooking time and reducing shrinkage and nutrient loss; and enhancing the natural flavor of meats. It insures a good result with any kind, grade or cut of meat cooked. You'll be happy to know that the tenderizing ingredients in meat tenderizer is of natural origin—it comes from the green papaya fruit.

Instant meat tenderizer makes it possible to bake or broil chuck roast and have steak at chuck prices at a reasonable cost per serving. If you've thought chuck roasts were only for long stewing and pot roasting, it's time to change your tune. This Baked Steak Ragu takes only one hour to treat the family to a delicious, juicy, tender sliced steak. For ease in saucing the finished beef, simply heat a jar of spaghetti sauce. A delicious and easy main dish to serve with pasta of your choosing, tossed greens and, of course, bread and wine.

BAKED STEAK RAGU

1 (4-pound) chuck (7-bone, blade bone or round bone arm), 2 inches thick
Instant meat tenderizer, seasoned or unseasoned
1 (15½-ounce) jar spaghetti sauce

Slash fat edges of chuck. Prepare all surfaces of meat, one side at a time, with instant meat tenderizer as follows: 1) Thoroughly moisten meat with water. 2) Sprinkle Adolph's Instant Meat Tenderizer evenly like salt over entire meat surface. USE NO SALT. 3) To insure penetration and retain meat juices, pierce deeply with fork at about ½-inch intervals. Bake steak in shallow pan in 400-degree oven, allowing about 1 hour for medium rare. Meanwhile, heat spaghetti sauce. Slice meat diagonally across grain into thin slices to serve. Pass sauce. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

EVEN IF you're a tall boy, shuffleboard can be a problem, but for a little feller it seems almost insurmountable. The street scene is in New York's Harlem.

Mets, Reds go with pitching aces

Seaver vs. Billingham

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Cincinnati Reds and New York Mets led with their aces today to decide the National League champion.

Jack Billingham of Cincinnati and Tom Seaver of New York, who combined for a total of 76 starts and nearly 600 innings of work this season and finished with identical 19-10 records, got the pitching assignments for the fifth and deciding playoff game at Shea Stadium.

"I don't believe a player can prepare himself differently. A professional athlete has to just approach it like any other game but it's awful hard to do that," Seaver admitted after Pete Rose's homer in the 12th inning gave Cincinnati a 2-1 victory and squared the best-of-five series at 2-2 Tuesday.

"It would have been nice to win today," Seaver added, "but since it's come down to one game, I'm glad I'm pitching it."

Seaver, who pitched the Mets' Eastern Division-clinching win in Chicago on Oct. 1, lost Saturday's playoff opener in Cincinnati 2-1 when he was touched for eighth and ninth inning homers by Rose and Johnny Bench, respectively.

"Pete Rose is the only athlete I'd pay money to see," was the supreme compliment paid to the Reds' leftfielder by Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson following Tuesday's game. "For him to hit the homer was only proper," Anderson added, referring to the thunderous boos Rose received by many in the crowd of 50,786 at Shea Stadium every time he came to bat and took his position in the field.

The boos were for Rose's part in Monday's brawl with Mets shortstop Bud Harrelson and Anderson claimed he had never seen Rose so keyed up as he was for the fourth game.

"Most guys can't produce under those conditions," said Anderson, "only the great athletes. His hitting the homer gave our club a sense of pride."

"Nobody likes to be booed," said Rose, who also got two singles and an intentional walk in six trips to the plate in addition to his game-winning homer. "It didn't bother me because I know there's a half million people cheering me 500 miles away.

"I would have given a week's pay to go 4-for-4 today. I wasn't mad at anybody. Winning is uppermost to me. We earned this game today. We showed what we could do."

Asked if he heard any cheers for his homer when he took his place in leftfield in the bottom of the 12th, Rose answered, "Yeah. There were about 10 people cheering for me. They were all in our bullpen."

The Mets were only eight outs away from clinching the pennant and winning the playoff in four games before Tony Perez tied the score 1-1 with a homer in the seventh. It was Perez' first hit of the playoffs and couldn't have come at a better time for Cincinnati.

Until Perez' homer, Mets' lefty George Stone was nursing a 1-0 lead given him in the third inning when Don Hahn and Stone walked off Reds' starter Fred Norman and Felix Millan singled to score Hahn.

After they tied the score, the Reds had numerous chances to win the game, leaving eight runners stranded over the ninth, 10th and 11th innings. Mets' relief ace Tug McGraw, who relieved Stone with two out in the seventh, worked out of each of the difficult situations, one of them thanks to Rusty Staub's sensational catch of rookie Dan Driessen's liner in the 11th.

Staub caught the ball over his head on the run and crashed into the rightfield wall. He was momentarily stunned and admitted his right shoulder hurt him slightly when he batted in the bottom of the 12th.

X-rays taken after the game proved negative but Staub did suffer contusions in the back of the shoulder. A Mets' spokesman said Staub's playing status would not be determined until right before today's game.

Ken Boswell pinch-hit for McGraw in the 11th and Harry Parker came in to pitch for the Mets in the 12th. He retired pinch hitter Ken Griffey before Rose slugged his homer over the rightfield fence on a 2-2 pitch.

"My whole series of pitches to Rose—they weren't good," Parker said. "They were 'hitter's pitches.' They weren't 'pitcher's pitches'."

Pete Rose wasn't about to complain.

Neither were the rest of the Cincinnati Reds.

Can Blue deliver KO blow today?

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Oakland A's, sprouting a couple of new heroes in Bert Campaneris and Ken Holtzman, sent Vida Blue out to hand the Baltimore Orioles the knockout blow today and wrap up their second straight American League pennant.

Blue, a 20-game winner during the regular season, was kayoed in the first game of the 1973 Playoffs in Baltimore last Saturday as Jim Palmer pitched a five-hit shutout. Palmer, the ace of the Orioles staff, comes back to face Blue a second time today, needing another good effort to keep Baltimore alive in the best-of-five A. L. Championship series.

"Vida is my man," A's skipper Dick Williams said Tuesday after Campaneris' bat and Holtzman's pitching had carried Oakland to a dramatic, 11 inning, 2-1 victory and a two games to one lead over Baltimore. "Blue wasn't all that bad in the first game. He just wasn't lucky."

But the Orioles sent Blue to the showers in less than an inning in that game, touching him for four runs, which Palmer, a 22-game regular season winner, made stand up easily for a 6-0 victory.

Both pitchers come into today's game with three days of rest so neither side can claim an edge, although momentum seems to be on the A's side.

Campaneris, who hit only four homers all season, cracked his second of the playoffs off veteran Mike Cuellar leading off the bottom of the 11th Tuesday while Holtzman, pitching competitively for the first time in 10 days, stopped the Orioles on three hits.

It seemed ironic that Campaneris and Holtzman were the heroes since neither played all that well in the final month of the regular campaign. Campaneris tailed off badly to finish the year with a .258 batting average and his lowest season homer total since he hit only two in 1969.

Holtzman, mainstay of the Oakland pitching staff in the first third of the season, also fell off in the final month, winning only two of his last seven starts.

But Holtzman's problem may have been too many innings and too many fastballs. Coming into Tuesday's game with 10 days rest proved the right tonic. He was overpowering with his fastball and used it most of the time.

The Orioles' only run off him came on a homer by Earl Williams in the second but then Ken settled down to retire 14 batters in a row before Tommy Davis snapped the string by drawing a walk in the seventh. Ken finished strong, though, getting the last eight men in order to wrap up the victory.

"I was starting to get a little tired in the eighth," said the lefthander who won 21 games during the regular campaign, "but I was so keyed up I could have gone on."

Campaneris nailed a Cuellar inside slider for his game-winning homer. The ball barely ducked over the fence near the left field foul pole and there seemed to be a difference of opinion on whether Baltimore left fielder Don Baylor could have caught it.

Batimore manager Earl Weaver said he thought Baylor had a chance but lost a fraction of a second flicking down his sunglasses.

"If the ball had a little more arc on it," said Baylor, "I could have gotten back to the fence and jumped a bit higher to catch it. I just couldn't jump high enough while on the run and the ball never touched my glove."

But there never would have been an 11th had it not been for old pros Jesus Alou, Mike Andrews and Joe Rudi.

Between them they engineered the run that tied the score at 1-1 in the eighth. Alou opened the innng with a pinchhit single, Andrews, also pinchhitting, sent pinch-runner Allan Lewis to second with a good sacrifice bunt and Rudi delivered Lewis.

Of the game winning homer, Campaneris said he was looking for a slider.

"When I came up in the 11th," said the little shortstop, "I saw there was a lot of room down the line, so I went up thinking I would try to pull the ball. I was looking for a slider and I got it."

Weaver said, as might be expected of a manager with his back to the wall, "we aren't out of this yet, as long as I still have Palmer."

"I don't have to tell you how he handled these guys (A's) in the opener, do I. I'm confident we can get back into this thing."

"I'll give them my best game," said Blue. "If I'm on, we should win it."

Hopeful Kings greet Chicago in NHL opener

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Kings, who have missed making the NHL playoffs the past four seasons, open ther seventh major league hockey campaign tonight against the defending Western Division champion Chicago Black Hawks.

It will be the first opener for the Kings in the Forum here. The Kings played their first NHL game at home but the contest took place at the Long Beach Arena.

Los Angeles held a 3-2 edge over the Black Hawks last season, posting all three of its victories at home.

Red Devils' Butler a miniature A.D.

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

Pomona High head football coach Mike Clifton claims he has a "miniature Anthony Davis" in his offensive backfield.

Montclair's football team will probably attest to that.

The player Clifton was referring to was junior running back Raymond Butler, who scored three touchdowns against the Cavaliers in last weekend's San Antonio League opener.

The Red Devils, who failed to win a non-league contest and then belted Montclair 33-12 to open league play, relied heavily on Butler's running talents against the Cavs.

And when the evening was completed, the 5-7, 155 pound Pomona tailback had reeled off 115 yards on 25 carries which included three touchdowns.

The three TDs moved him into a tie for seventh place in the Pomona Valley's Individual Prep Scoring Derby.

Butler's performance against Montclair also gained him the Progress-Bulletin's San Antonio League Player of the Week honors.

"He (Butler) has all the moves of Anthony "Davis," analyzed Clifton. "He's got the quickness and he reads the blast well. He's just a good athlete."

Butler has only started in two of Pomona's three games, but in those two starts he has picked up a total of 184 yards—an average of 4.3 yards per carry.

The Pomona victory was only a part of the very strange first week of SAL play.

Out of the four teams which came away with victories, two of them went winless in non-league competition.

Upland, which fell twice in preleague, stunned previously undefeated Ganesha and snapped the Giant's seven-game winning streak.

"We're getting there," Clifton said of his Red Devil team. "Our offensive line is giving us a little more protection and we're doing a lot more running than we anticipated."

But when you look at Pomona's passing game, you would figure the Devils as a pass-oriented team—which they were at the beginning of the season.

"Our quarterback Steve Taylor (who was All-SAL last year) now has 398 yards in passing three games," Clifton pointed out. "I don't think he'll have 1200 yards passing this year, but as a team we may get about 1,000 yards more than we did last year."

The balance in the offensive attack may be just what the doctor ordered for the Red Devils.

"I think the team is playing the way it should be right now," Clifton praised. "But I don't know if the young guys have finally come around, or if they just had a lucky night. I guess this week will tell."

The Devils battle the flashy Garey Vikings Saturday night at Mt. San Antonio College in what should be a real block-buster.

"If our offensive line continues to play like it did against Montclair, we should have a pretty good shot at the title," the Pomona head coach warned.

"We'll be working on the defensive fundamentals this week," Clifton indicated. "I think a good fundamental defense can contain outside speed."

Free admission at Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — The strike-delayed Oak Tree race meeting will open Thursday with free grandstand admission and general parking for the first day, the meeting's general manager said Tuesday.

The Oak Tree season at Santa Anita race track was scheduled to begin last Saturday but was canceled at the last minute by a strike of parimutuel clerks.

Fred H. Ryan, general manager of the Oak Tree Racing Association, said the Parimutuel clerks Union has agreed to return to work Thursday and the dispute will be settled by arbitration.

Ryan said that "as a gesture of appreciation to the race going public for their patience and forebearance," grandstand admission and general parking Thursday would be free, except for a 20-cent city tax.

Some 20,000 persons had already arrived at the track Saturday when the program was canceled.

The strike was a protest over management's refusal to hire three clerks who had been accused but cleared of bookmaking charges.

Rams by one in Tahoe book

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI) — Harrah's Tahoe Racebook gave this point spread for this weekend's professional football games:

Minnesota over San Francisco by six; Oakland over San Diego by 11; Los Angeles over Dallas by one; Denver over Houston by five; Detroit over New Orleans by 11; Green Bay over Kansas City by five; St. Louis over Philadelphia by seven; Atlanta over Chicago by two; Buffalo over Baltimore by six; New England over New York Jets by five; Pittsburgh over Cincinnati by eight; Washington over New York Giants by seven; and Miami over Cleveland by nine.

Farmers dominating Valley grid honors

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

POMONA — For the second time this football season, the two Farmers are dominating the Pomona Valley.

Even though this area is not located in the farm belt, it is clearly the year of the Farmer.

Azusa Pacific College's Jim Farmer and Mt. San Antonio College's Teddy Farmer were selected the valley's Offensive Players of the Week respectively for the four-year colleges and junior colleges for the second time this season at Tuesday's weekly football luncheon at The Castaway Restaurant.

No, they aren't related.

Jim Farmer, who came to Azusa from UCLA after a brilliant career at La Puente's Workman High, scored three touchdowns in rushing for 163 yards on 26 carries in the 28-14 win over La Verne.

Teddy Farmer, a sophomore from Bassett, ran for 237 yards and two touchdowns on 17 carries in leading undefeated MSAC to a 24-15 win over L.A. Valley.

Linebacker Benny Ligon, who was credited with nine tackles and several pass deflections in Citrus' 27-14 win over Chaffey, was voted the JC Defensive Player of the Week.

There were no official nominations for College Defensive Player of the Week so the writers honored Walt Ambord's Pomona-Pitzer unit for its brave stand in the 57-7 loss at the University of San Diego.

Quoting the coaches:

MAL EATON, MSAC: "When we had L.A. Valley down 21-7, we were able to play a lot of kids. When we played well, we played exceptionally well. But when we're poor, we're very poor. We hope the bye this week will get us well for the South Coast Conference games. I've never had a bye before in all my years of coaching so I'm not real sure what to do. We'll use it to get back to fundamentals. Our players are playing up to their capabilities. Defenisvely, we are prepared very well, thanks to Larry Schrock, our defensive coordinator."

JOHN STRYCULA, Citrus: "We were very shaky in the first half against Chaffey. I must give some of the credit to Chaffey. They played very well and were well prepared. We were happy to win and were pleased with our blocking. Fullback Ed White played one of the best games a fullback has ever played at Citrus. He was an excellent blocker. We play Pasadena this week. They are a typical tough Pasadena team but we'll use this game—a non-leaguer—to take a look at some of our young freshmen."

WILLIE RICHARDSON, Chaffey: "John Strycula's team came out the second half and turned the game around. We were disappointed we didn't win. We host Palomar this week. Palomar is a very unpredictable team. Offensively, we had good games from guard Dan Robinson and end Rich Presto."

Sharks, Oilers swap players

LOS NGELES (UPI) —The Los Angeles Sharks sent Tom Gilmore to the Edmunton Oilers Tuesday to complete a World Hockey Association trade which gave the Sharks right winger Ron Walters.

The Sharks said Walters, sent to Los Angeles two weeks ago, will start for Los Angeles when it opens its WHA season against the Houston Aeros here Saturday night.

Gilmore played left wing for the Sharks last year, scoring 17 goals and making 18 assists.

Butler has Davis' moves

That's the kind of speed the Vikings have in running backs Dana Hutchison and Stanley Webster.

But against Chino last weekend, the game which Garey lost by a 14-8 margin, the Vikings were unable to turn on the speed to the outside.

"We didn't execute well," Garey coach Lawson Bush said. "We couldn't come up with the big play."

Bush fears that Pomona will take advantage of the weak Garey secondary, but thinks the Vikings can stop the Red Devils in the running department.

"We're going to have our hands full on the deep pass, but we're working on it," the Garey skipper commented. "I think we can stop the run though."

The Vikings will have last week's SAL Player of the Week, middle linebacker John L. Jones, back in full force this week after he saw only limited action last weekend with a bad knee.

Ganesha coach Garry Norvell didn't think his Giants deserved to win their game against Upland considering all the mistakes the team made.

"We made enough mistakes not to win," he noted. "We fumbled twice to them (the Highlanders' defense), and one of them they took into the end zone for a touchdown. Eight basic errors hurt us."

Ganesha gained a total of 312 yards against the Scots, 79 of them coming through the air. The Ganesha coach praised his offensive line, which he says is improving.

The Giants will be going up against Montclair this weekend, but Norvell doesn't think his defense can blank the Cavaliers.

"I don't see how anybody can keep Montclair scoreless," he stated. "We've been working on the short passes and on what we call our vertical accuracy, which means keeping the ball high or low but right at the receiver. Tracy Cowger (quarterback) has been doing a pretty good job at that. He threw the best hook pattern he has ever thrown against Upland."

Norvell also indicated that the Giants will probably throw more against the Cavs.

Montclair coach Jack Simpson will be hoping that his team's passing game improves when it faces the Giants Friday night.

"I really disappointed with our receiving," he said. "We dropped six or seven passes, four of them on the 10 yard line. We're still not blocking well and our linebackers did a terrible job on defense."

Although Simpson wouldn't go into detail, he did say that the Cavaliers will change their defense a little against the Gaints. "We've got to stop that triple-option," he emphasized.

The Giants run from the wishbone formation, the offense which put them on a seven-game winning streak.

One of the games which is turning into a hot rivalry is the Claremont-Upland tussle—and this year's game comes this weekend.

Two years ago, Upland embarrassed Claremont with a 42-8 win, but last season Claremont returned the favor by whipping the then No. 1 ranked Highlanders, 33-0.

The usually talkative Esper Keiser, head coach at Claremont, is keeping quiet this year—simply because he doesn't know what to think.

"I don't know yet what to think," said last year's Pomona Valley Coach of the Year.

He had been thinking about the Wolfpack's stunning 28-3 win over Damien last weekend, and also worrying about Upland's big 21-20 upset over Ganesha.

"I was pleased with both our offense and defense," Keiser praised. "We are really improved and played well as a team, but we're still going to have to play real good defense. We know Upland is for real."

The Highlanders had changed their entire backfield for the SAL opener and the Ganesha Giants, and it proved profitable for the Scots.

"We moved the ball better than we thought we would," Holycross indicated. "We got some bigger backs in there and Dan Spencer did a good job at quarterback. We're getting better, but Claremont looks fantastic."

Jim Christensen (converted quarterback) and sophomore Garry Carr have filed in the positions in the offensive backfield—and that combination shredded Ganesha's defense on the outside.

"We feel we grew up a little in the Ganesha game," Holycross said. "Our defense is getting better too. We remember last year's game against Claremont, but I think this year is going to be an uphill battle."

Chino, winning two in a row after dropping its season opener, faces a hungry Damien tribe which has gone winless in three outings.

"I was disappointed in our performance against Garey," said Chino coach Jim Rawls, "but I thought we moved the ball well. We should have scored 35 or 40 more points. We rushed for 200 yards and passed for another 100, but we fumbled eight times."

Rawls figures Damien will be "up" for the Cowboys and says, "They'll really play this one up big, and they think we're a soft touch but I know we're not. We're not going to fumble this time and we plan to throw more."

WALT KAUFMAN . . . Chaffey tackle

Tigers gird for powerful Steelers

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

One of the nice things about preparing for the fourth game of the season is that a team has three contests under their belts.

Three games to get over the aches and pains of preseason conditioning. Three games to find replacements for spots vacated by June graduations and three games for new personel to get used to playing together and polish execution.

Chaffey high, a perennial Citrus Belt League contender, has only six starters back from last year's 5-4 Tiger team. The remainder are up from an unbeaten (9-0) junior varsity squad.

Of course one of the reasons for Chaffey's annual success is head coach Ray Stark. The veteran skipper, beginning his 14th season as Tiger tamer, has piloted the team to a 27-8 league record over the past five years and a 38-19 CBL mark in 13 years of service.

The '73 Tigers are once again a strong candidate for title honors along with Redlands, San Gorgonio, Ramona and this week's opponent — Fontana.

The Steelers have a highly explosive offense directed by quarterback Henry Colangelo and breakaway threats in backs Terry Henderson, Russ Waleszonia and Murray Daniels.

Fohi will be dangerous for other reasons. It dropped its league opener to powerful San Gorgonio last week, 17-7. And last year's 27-0 win over Chaffey was the first victory in six years.

"We can't make mistakes against them if we expect to win," said Stark. "Last year they beat us in the trenches. So to get control we'll have to beat them off the line this year."

"We'll have to execute and carry out assignments better. Such as carrying out fakes."

Among Chaffey's problems have been penalties and broken assignments that have occurred in crucial situations and stopped scoring drives.

An advantage is that Fontana's offense is similar to that of Anaheim, Mater Dei and Pacific — Chaffey's opponents to date.

"The three teams we've played are similar and quick with good maneuverability and a lead blocker," said Stark. "The only difference between this and last year's Steeler team is that they have a better passer."

Despite the lack of lettermen, the Tigers do have first string returnees at quarterback, in Mike Scanlon and Mike Partington; wide receivers, Harley Stark and Rod Weigand; Bill Edmondson at linebacker and Walt Kaufman on the line.

Partington, Stark and Kaufman also give some experience to the defense.

Kaufman, David Hurd and Barry Sagouspe make up both the offensive and defensive interior lines. Guard John VanderKallen joins and center Roger Cortez join them on offense while Pat Carew, Joel McCloskey and Wally Reed join them on the defensive trenches.

The linebackers are Edmondson and Vanderkallen while the secondary consists of Partington, Stark and Mike Polzin.

Coach Stark has been alternating six backs. The fullbacks are Cal Elefante and Carew. The running backs are Edmondson and Mike Cumpston and the 'Z' backs are Roy Cole and Dana Demuth.

Alan Lupinetti does most of the kicking, including kickoffs, punts, extra points and field goals.

Kaufman was All-league as a junior last year and is a much improved player.

Coach Stark commented that Walt is a student of football. He studies technique, works hard, hustles and is one of the best leaders Chaffey as ever had.

Both Weigand and Harley Stark were All-CBL selections last year. Both receivers averaged 20-yards per catch and are gathering in 50-60 yards in passes per game this year.

The Tigers are 2-1 this year with wins over Anaheim, 15-14, and Pacific, 34-6. Their loss was to perennial CIF powerhouse Mater Dei, 38-26.

Christensen goes both ways

Scout likes Roman star

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

The University of Nebraska had sent a scout to last Friday's Royal Oak-San Dimas game to check out the Romans' Clyde Christensen as a defensive back.

Playing the free safety position, Christensen didn't disappoint the Cornhusker scout, as he intercepted two passes and made eight unassisted tackles.

Impressive? Sure, but that's just half the story. Christensen also quarterbacked Royal Oak to a 42-6 romp, completing 9 of 11 passes for 104 yards and two touchdowns, and scrambled for 30 more on the ground plus another score.

All this won for the 5-11, 175-pound senior the Progress-Bulletin's Hacienda League Player of the Week award for the opening round of loop action.

Christensen is used to the attention he's getting as a defensive back. He was an all-league selection last year as a junior while playing the free safety spot.

But his fine play at quarterback has been a big lift for coach Len Mussack in his first season as head mentor of the Romans. Stepping in for the departed Bill Strycula, who set several school passing records, Christensen has more than filled the bill. In the first three Roman contests, he's completed 34 of 51 passes for a remarkable .667 percentage, and has six TD tosses.

Coach Mussack and Christensen have a winning history together. Christensen was the signal caller on Mussack's 1971 junior varisty squad, which won the Hacienda League title in their division.

The two hope for a repeat performance on the varsity level, and if Royal Oak and Christensen play as they did against San Dimas, they are going to be awfully tough to stop.

In fact, a few more games at quarterback like the one Christensen had against the Saints and he may well be heading to Nebraska, not as a defensive back, but to take over for Dave Humm.

ROYAL OAK — Coach Mussack had plenty to be happy about besides Christensen's fine two-way performance. Running backs Rich Hall and Marc Monson more than complimented him in the backfield, while flanker John Ochoa and wide receiver Don Warren also had big nights.

The vaulted Roman defense led by Ron White continued its fine play. They intercepted five passes in the San Dimas rout, giving them a total of 13 in only three games.

However, both the offense and defense should be in for another stiff test as the Romans next opponent is undefeated Walnut, defending HL champs.

WALNUT — The Mustangs shook loose from a sluggish first half to down Gladstone in their league opener, 27-6. Lance Parrish had another good day, passing for over 200 yards and two TDs.

Penalties continue to plague Walnut, as they amassed more than 100 yards in red flags last Saturday. Fumbles and interceptions also hurt

Girls track club asks for community fund raising aid

POMONA — The Southern California Cheetahs, the local AAU girls' track organization, is currently raising money to compete in the AAU National Women's Cross-Country meet in Albuquerque, N.M. Nov. 24.

Cheetah coaches Jim Allen of Montclair and Bill Petersen of San Dimas are optimistic about their team's chances in the Nationals. The top seven national competitors, 14 or older, will join the team representing the U.S. at the International Cross-Country Championships next February in Europe. This international women's meet has been held for six years with the U.S.A. the top team for five of those years.

In their current drive for funds to cover their travel expenses to Albuquerque, the Cheetahs are hoping for iscreased community support of their activities. Further information on the team or its scheduled track meets can be obtained by calling Petersen at 599-4569.

During the fall cross-country season, the Cheetahs are competing in meets held throughout Southern California. The Cheetahs will host an invitational meet this coming Sunday at Mt. San Antonio College. The meet begins at 9 a.m.

Teams scheduled to compete include the Blue Angels, Long Beach Comets, La Mirada Meteors, Orange Coast Track Club, Rialto Road Runners, and South Bay Striders. Other competing teams come from La Jolla, Lakewood, Lomita, Lompoc, Los Angeles and Paramount.

Pomona Valley girls competing for the Cheetahs include Dee Dee Rogers of Chino; Shawn Walker of Claremont; Jane Janousek of Diamond Bar; Diane Esslinger; Diane Stern, and Becky Wolfinbarger of Montclair; Kim and Rochelle Ealy nad Angie and Monique Gregoire of Pomona; Emily and Martha Diaz, Tami Furgeson, Danielle Mojica, Sandy Walleen, and Sheri Webster of San Dimas; and Leslie Irving of Walnut.

Herrera not in any hurry to box Anaya

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Handsome Rafael Herrera sat expressionless and slowly twisted a roll of tape around one of his hands.

"Look at him," smiled Herrera's manager, Chucho Cuate. "He's always like this. He will live until he's 120."

Herrera defends the World Boxing Council's version of the 118-pound title Saturday night at the Forum in Inglewood, Calif., against Borkorsor, the former WBC flyweight champ.

Promoter Don Fraser would like to match the winner against Mexico's Romeo Anaya, the World Boxing Association bantamweight titleholder.

In the gym, Herrera wastes few moves. In an interview, he wastes fewer words.

"I understand he's very strong," Herrera said through a Spanish-speaking interpreter when asked about Borkorsor, a former kick boxer who had to leave the 112-pound division because he couldn't make the weight any more.

"I've never seen him fight but I never go out of my way to see any of my opponents before I fight them."

Herrera will take a 40-4-1 record against Borkorsor, a southpaw, and his record shows three knockouts in three bouts with lefthanders.

"I expect to win," he said tersely. "But I never go into the ring with the idea of losing."

Herrera won the WBC crown last April 14 by knocking out countryman Rodolfo Martinez in 11 rounds. He hasn't fought since.

He is not in any hurry to fight Anaya but will —if he beats Borkorsor and if the price is right.

"I'm a champion and he's (Anaya) a champion," Herrera said. "If there's two champions, okay. If there's one champion, okay, too. It doesn't make that much difference to me."

"He's easy going but I've never had any problems getting him to work," said Cuate.

For Herrera, it will be his ninth start in Los Angeles, his 16th in California and sixth at the Forum. Fraser is paying him $90,000.

Lakers not dead; whip Bulls by 20

By United Press International

Reports of the Los Angeles Lakers' demise have been greatly exaggerated.

That's the feeling the Chicago Bulls got Tuesday night after the Lakers, written off after losing star center Wilt Chamberlain to the rival American Basketball Association, romped to a 117-97 victory.

The Lakers, who have undergone internal turmoil not only with Chamberlain's defection but with the late arrival at training camp by Jerry West and Keith Erickson's holdout, left no doubt that they're still championship material as they opened the 1973-74 National Basketball Association season with a convincing victory over a Chicago team that made the playoffs last seasn.

West, who only reported last week, got off to an incredible start, hitting 12-of-19 shots for 28 points. Backcourt mate Gail Goodrich finished with 26 points.

"We played a pretty good game," Laker Coach Bill Sharman said, "better than we've been playing the last few games. It gives me some hope for the season."

Chicago Coach Dick Motta summed up the Bulls' performance: "Any team in the NBA would have beaten us. We couldn't play much worse."

Chet Walker's 26-point effort was the lone bright spot for Chicago.

In other NBA opening night action, the league champion New York Knicks edged Detroit 101-100, Atlanta whipped the Capital Bullets 128-114 and Buffalo shaded Houston 107-105 in overtime. The Golden State-Cleveland game was postponed because of a wet floor caused by the hockey rink under the curt at the Cleveland Arena.

Walt Frazier's 27 points and 23 by Dave DeBusschere, beginning his final NBA season, carried the Knicks over Detroit. Bill Bradley's jumper with 2:32 left gave New York the lead to keep. Bob Lanier led Detroit with 29 points.

"When you're champs, you've got to be up for every game," Frazier said. "Everyone wants to beat you. We started to move the ball in the third period when we made some steals and Bradley gave us a lift with 12 points in the quarter. We were in last place in pre-season with a 2-6 record. We're in first place now."

Lou Hudson poured in 17 of his game-high 41 points in a five-minute stretch of the third period to lead the Hawks over the Bullets. Pete Maravich added 24 points and Walt Bellamy 23 for Atlanta while Mike Riordan was high man for the Bullets with 26.

Loss to Skins makes Dallas tougher--Knox

LOSANGELES (UPI) —The Dallas Cowboys will be tougher this Sunday for the Los Angeles Rams because they lost a close one to the Washington Redskins, coach Chuck Knox said Tuesday.

"When you have a team with a lot of pride like Dallas, losing gives them an added incentive to win next time," Knox said.

The Cowboys beat the Rams 24-7 in their first preseason game this year and the first for Knox as head coach.

"I watched the Cowboys on TV against Washington Monday and I didn't see anything Dallas did differently. They have enough weapons to continue what they've been doing well. They have a new dimension in that rookie tight end Billy Joe Dupree. He can run fast and catch the ball."

The Rams will be without wide receiver and kickoff return man Dick Grodon for three or four weeks. He dislocated a shoulder in the Houston game.

For the Dallas game, the Rams announced there were 8,277 tickets available at 1 p.m. Tuesday. Deadline for a sellout and possible local television is 1 p.m. Thursday, 72 hours before game time Sunday.

Prep defenses shine in M.L. play

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

Defense dominated the first week of Montview League play as only 13 touchdowns were scored in the four games.

Charter Oak tallied three times and kept Azusa from reaching paydirt. The Aztecs have gone eight consecutive quarters without lighting up the scoreboard.

Lancer fullback Nick Howard rushed for 214 yards on 34 carries and scored one TD while quarterback Tom Merrill had 130 yards total offense and ran for two scores. Howard, in the three games, has now gained 439 yards on 79 totes. The defense has yet to allow a score in six quarters.

Coach Wayne Fetters' Lancers will have their hands full Saturday night when they visit Rowland at J. Jolley Stadium in an 8 p.m encounter. The Lancers are 1-2 overall.

In the stingiest game of the four played, defensive oriented Northview overcame a 9-7 halftime deficit to post a 14-9 win over Workman.

In its three games, Northview has only allowed a touchdown, a field goal, and a safety while registering a 2-1 slate.

Nogales also demonstrated a fine defensive effort despite losing to Baldwin Park 17-8.

The Nobles yielded two scores and a field goal in the first stanza before blanking the Braves over the final three periods. One of the six-pointers was a 48-yard pass interception return by Dave Enquez.

Inexperience is still creating a sputtering offensive attack for Archie Carter's bunch.

Quarterback Walt Stahl is continuing to improve as a passer as evidenced by his 163 yards in the losing effort. He scored Nogales' lone touchdown on a one yard plunge.

The Nobles host Azusa Friday night at J. Jolley Stadium. Kickoff is 8 p.m

Carter's crew is capable of notching its first win of the season in this one (0-3). The Aztecs have not yet scored in two games but have an adequate defense while quarterback Jeff Snyder is a threat.

Should Nogales overcome it's first quarter jitters it should control the tempo of the ball game.

In their three games, the Nobles have allowed 30 points in the first quarter, 24 in the second (all to Walnut in the season opener), none in the third stanza and 13 in the final period.

Rowland, who called on its defense for three periods, received a scare from Bassett in the final stanza when the Olympians tallied 15 points.

Bassett had the opportunity to win the game, having a first and goal at the eight yard line with less than a minute to play in the game.

The Raiders called on their defense to stave off the threat and preserve the win.

It's doubtful that any team will shutout Bassett due to its backfield jackrabbits.

"The kids played real well," said Rowland coach Gary Rawls. "I was very pleased. They showed more emotion in this game than they have to date. We figured they (Bassett) would break loose two or three times but our kids did such a good job they only broke away once."

While the Raider offense didn't move the ball until the second period the defense played hard - nosed football for the entire game except for that five minute span in the third and fourth quarter when the Olympians scored their 15 points

Defensively the Raiders were led by end Greg Baumgartner, (10 tackles) tackle Russ Thorpe (17 tackles); linebackers Mitch Culp and Greg Vaughn and cornerback Al Emeterio who recovered two fumbles and was in on 16 tackles.

Rowland's defense will have to be emotionally charged up to stop Charter Oak's Howard. But the Lancers will have to contend with the Raider backfield tandem of Emeterio and David Pearce and the receving of Donnie Pearce and Garry Schwalbe.

Sports news in brief

CHUCK WALTON, Detroit Lions guard, was scheduled for surgery today for ligament repair in his left knee. Rocky Rasley, a four year veteran from Oregon State, will replace Walton for Sunday's game with New Orleans.

THE NBA PHOENIX SUNS Tuesday traded backup center Walt Wesley to the Capitol Bullets. The Bullets gave the Suns their third-round draft choices in 1974 and 1975. Meanwhile the Suns acquired 7-foot Bob Christian from the Atlanta Hawks in exchange for their second-round pick in 1976 and third-round choice in 1977.

BERNIE BIERMAN, former Minnesota football coach and a member of the coaching Hall of Fame, is now in stable condition. Bierman was admitted to a Laguna Hills hospital 11 days ago in poor condition with heart trouble.

VETERAN CENTER SAM GRUNEISEN, retired from the San Diego Chargers only six weeks, Tuesday joined the winless Houston Oilers to fill the vacancy left by the injured Bill Curry. Gruneisen gave up a job with a supermarket group to go to work for his old boss, Sid Gillman who signed the 12-year vet to a one-year contract.

TIM HORTON, veteran defenseman who was the Buffalo Sabres' most valuable player last year, Tuesday was wooed out of retirement and signed a one-year contract with the NHL club.

Azusa, MSAC claim powerful Farmers

ROLAND ORTMAYER, La Verne: "We took our gang to the hillside last week but were thoroughly trounced by Azusa Pacific. We did have some bright spots but I also had a poor feeling about a couple of the calls. I questioned the decision about our onsides kick and the official wouldn't consult a rule book. I know I was right. There's no question we got beat in the football game but I do feel the officials have the responsibility to hear out the rules. We play the University of San Diego this week. I don't want to learn as much about them as Walt Ambord (Pomona-Pitzer) did. I don't know how to stop it. San Diego is probably too much of a football team for us. We know they are stronger but we hope luck prevails."

JERRY SCONCE, Azusa Pacific: "Our game with La Verne ended up as a whale of a battle. It was the most physical game we had all year. I have a similar feeling as Ort about the officials. On the first play of game, Farmer was speared in the head. If something would have been called then, some of the later problems could have been avoided. Our offensive line did a great job and I can't say enough about Farmer. We host Cal State Los Angeles this week. They had to do something to hold Hawaii in a close 16-9 loss. That score means we have to double our work."

WALT AMBOARD, Pomona-Pitzer: "I'm glad we were up for the game. At least when you feel pain, you know you're alive. San Diego hits so hard, I hid behind our bench. Actually, San Diego hits like a ton of bricks. They have a super football team. We're happy to survive that game. However, we have lost middle guard John Irvine for another three weeks. We're back in our league this week against Loyola. We helped save football at Loyola last year by losing to them so they owe us a victory."

ROY ANDERSON, Cal Poly: "I wish we could help Jerry at Azusa but we could only hold Cal State L.A. to 34 points. We were disappointed in our football team in the 14-10 loss to Cal Lutheran. I don't know whether were fatheaded, stupid or we don't have as good a team as we believe. Our quarterback, Jim Zorn, is doing a fantastic job. He is one of the most exciting players in the country. We go to Cal Poly San Luis Obispo this week. SLO is very strong, very tough We must play one of our best games if we hope to win. I'm not sure if our young players realize the emotional part of our rivalry with SLO."

JOHN ZINDA, Claremont-Mudd: "We made good use of our bye last week. We will start Jim Webster at fullback Saturday when we visit Cal Lutheran with Mike Graber and Billy Nash battling for the starting tailback spot. Our next two weeks against non-conference teams should toughen us for league play. We have played six consecutive shutout quarters. Our defense will be tested and we hope our offense develops this week."

MIKE CLIFTON, Pomona High School: "Raymond Butler, who is only a junior, did a great job for us against Montclair. He scored three touchdowns and ran for 144 yards on 14 carries. Being a junior makes me happy. Offensively, we are just starting to click. Defensively, we're in trouble. We're still looking for a good season."

LEN MUSSACK, Royal Oak High: "We play Walnut Friday night at MSAC. It should be a great game. Walnut is an offensively-minded team while we stress defense. We came in this season very unknown but we have a fine football team. This is the best Hacienda League I've ever seen. Our quarterback, Clyde Christensen, doesn't get as much publicity as some of the other QBs but he is doing a great job."

Ferro takes his work seriously now

Deke Houlgate

Motor sport today

Will the real Bobby Ferro please stand up? If he did, you would expect to see the brash, cocky, pugnacious little guy with moods that change as quickly and as often as Indiana weather.

More likely you would be amazed at the new Bobby Ferro, a serious but freidndly chap, still talkative and opinionated but humble and reflective, more self-assured than ever but introspective and questioning.

It's a contrast, particularly to the people who have known him in off-road racing, where he is the acknowledged super star.

Nobody knows for sure what made the change in Bobby, but it probably had something to do with his bad experience when he got involved with road racing.

A year ago Ferro signed to drive with Roy Woods Racing, a well financed and heavily sponsored team that campaigns on the USAC championship trail, the L&M formula 5000 circuit and other major series. It appeared to be the biggest break in Ferro's career.

But three months later he was out of a job. Woods complained that the 25-year-old driver showed a lack of interest in anything but his paycheck. Ferro bitterly assailed his former employer for assertedly breaking promises he had made.

"I suppose I burned my bridges," Ferro said, "and that was a mistake. But I've gotten together with Roy in the meantime, and we've settled our differences. I guess I acted badly."

Ferro said he was asked if he would like to drive a formula 3 car for Woods in a few races in Europe next year. The answer was a predictable yes.

Ferro is also preparing to drive for a new team entering the L&M formula 5000 circuit in 1974. He will race either a new Eagle, Lola or whatever turns out to be the car with the best chance of winning.

Racing journals are filled with rumors about the new Eagle, which Jerry Grant has been testing in the expectation that it will be far superior than anything on the track today. Test results have been less than spectacular, although the car is said to have great potential.

As the stories go, some modification are being made in the car to eliminate the problems. It depends on what you read as to what you understand those changes to be, either a few little improvements, a complete redesign or something in between.

Like most drivers, Ferro is waiting to see how the new Eagle is going to turn out.

"The car is going to cost $30,000," Ferro said, "but if it is one or two seconds a lap quicker than anything else, it's cheap at that price. If you want to win, you can't afford not to have one."

Ferro will continue, of course, driving in every off-road race that comes along. He is one of the favorites in the upcoming Baja 1000, co-driving with Johnny Johnson in the single-seat Sandmaster VW dune buggy.

The old Ferro drove alone. The new Ferro takes on a co-driver, because between the two of them each knows that the other drives a particular half of the course better than the other.

To be a lone wolf as Ferro used to prefer is still okay, he figures, but he'd rather double up and win than go alone and maybe lose. Truly, a new Bobby Ferro.

You'd be amazed to know the lengths to which organizers are going to make sure that competition is going to be fair in the International Race of Champions to be held this month at Riverside, Cal.

In that race three of the world's leading drivers are facing nine of this country's best—three each from USAC, NASCAR and SCCA.

That may seem a little one-sided, since world champions like Jackie Stewart, Emerson Fittipaodi and Dennis Hulme are obviously more highly regarded as road racers than our big guns, six of them being oval track specialists.

Nevertheless, Peter Reinhardt, the Porche factory project manager, feels the Americans have equally as good a chance to win as the Europeans.

Reinhardt heads a 20-man task force made up of technical experts and race mechanics. He is at Riverside this week to begin testing the 15 cars, to make sure they are all set up properly for the 2.5 mile course that will be used.

★ ★ ★

Another crew from Goodyear is in charge of tires for the 12 Porsche Carreras and three identical backup cars for the series of road races at Riverside and Daytona.

As everyone knows, it is impossible to produce identical cars, whether on a mass production assembly line or hand-built, one at a time. But Reinhardt claims they are about as close to idential as man can make them.

"We dyno tested them, and all of the cars are within 3 to 4 horsepower of each other," he said. "We consider that difference insignificant."

The cars were weighed in at between 929 and 931 kilos, less than seven pounds difference between the heaviest and lightest.

"These 3-liters are very torquey," Reinhardt said. "I doubt that any of these cars will be at a disadvantage because of weight."

The chassis were all set according to instruction issued by a computer. Reinhardt has personally tested all of the race cars to verify that they worked properly, but at Riverside this week he will see how good the computer was in Germany for a race in America.

There is an electrical cutout when the engine revs reach the red line maximum of 7,700 rpm, theoretically making it impossible for a driver to overrev the engine except by downshifting.

Reinhardt figures the only tricky thing about driving these cars will be getting used to the five-speed-forward gearshift. You'd think that professional drivers wouldn't have any trouble with a detail like that, but Reinhardt claims it will take about five laps of practice to get used to the unusual shift pattern.

The possibility that some aggressive driver might want to make a destruction derby out of the race has been thought of. Rules are set up so that officials can penalize a driver for deliberately crashing into another competitor by making him run the next race in his wrecked car.

That effectively would put him out of commission, while the victim would get first priority in getting his wounded machine fixed. If it was totally destroyed, he would get one of the spares to race next.

Cucamongan returns to San Berdoo

Randy Matthews of Cucamonga will return to the Orange Show Speedway in San Bernardino this Saturday night hoping to find victory in the 75 lap Grand Prix for hobby stock cars.

Driving a potent Plymouth six, Matthews has made a shambles of the hobby division ranks this season and has cinched the speedway hobby car championship.

With graduation from the hobby racing ranks of NASCAR imminent Matthews would like nothing better than to give fans a race to remember with victory in his final start as a hobby driver.

Two other drivers due to graduate, Harry Stockman of Fontana and Don Newman of Yucaipa, will provide some hot competition for the champion in the long race.

Some 90 sportsman and hobby stock cars will be on hand for the Grand Prix action starting at 7:30 p.m. with trophy dashes.

Short game

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The shortest nine-inning game in baseball history lasted 51 minutes as the Giants defeated the Phils, Sept. 28, 1991, 6-1.

Southland racing

VALENCIA — Capping a weekend scheduling of five motorcycle competition programs at the complex, second-round activity in the California State Trials Championships will be featured Sunday on an all-terrain course at Indian Dunes Park near Saugus.

Sanctiond by the American Trials Association, and beginning at 10 a.m., this year's championship event for the "plonkers" and "dabbers" is expected to attract even more than the 166 contestants who were present during the 1972 meeting for the title, also held at the Dunes.

IRWINDALE — Being a firm believer in the old adage "lightning never strikes twice in the same place" Herman Kern will return to the sport of speed at San Gabriel Valley Speedway in Irwindale this Saturday night.

The El Monte daredevil will compete in the claimer stock and figure eight racing program on the tight quarter-mile asphalt speedway where victory has been his many times this season.

CORONA — Hair raising Figure 8 and Oval racing will return to Corona Raceway Saturday night at 8 p.m.

The figure 8 daredevils will be pulling out all stops in their efforts to stop hard charging Don Compton and Fred Arnold, as they try to finish the season out on top of the heap. The action will be centered around the "X" as up to 30 cars try to beat each other through.

CORONA — The Modified Stocks will be returning to the slight of their 75 lapper this Sunday at 2 p.m.

Even though last Sunday's race is a hard act to follow, many of SoCal's top will be here to compete in the regular points show. Guaranteed to be on hand are Dee Kelly in his 65 Ford, Jerry Jones in his Eastern style '37 Chevy coupe, Bob Forrester, Vince Glamformaggio and Nestor Silveira.

GARDENA — Ron Moore of San Bernardino, the postal clerk who rides motorcycles professionally when he finds time, will join Ascot's "night riders" this Friday with substantial proof that he rates with the American Motorcycle Association's big-name tourists.

Although only a second-year expert at the advanced age of 29, Moore showed that he only has to be a whole man to ride with the best. In the 20-lap national at Ascot last Saturday, he was the second fastest qualifier to Mert Lawwill and was the only man to threaten 21-year-old champion Kenny Roberts the last half of the future.

GARDENA — Olie Anderson's Auto Daredevils are back!

The thrill-a-minute stunt men who performed for J. C. Agajanian at the Los Angeles Coliseum when Evel Knievel made his "world's longest motorcycle jump" are coming to Ascot Park this Saturday at 8 p.m.

The Anderson troupe, performing on late-model Ford Mustangs will go through their two-wheel distance ride, ramp-to-ramp jumps, saloms, and fire rides. Anderson's motorcycle fire rider and dynamite chairs will accompany them.

Bears, Bruins show offense

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— California and UCLA dominate the offensive statistics and USC the defense after four weeks of play by Pacific Eight teams.

Figures released today show the Golden Bears are averaging 430.3 yards per game and UCLA 409.5.

The Bruins are rushing the ball at 324.3 yards per contest with runner-up Cal far back at 216.8. California tops the passing teams at 213.5 per game and UCLA is scoring at a 42.0 points per-game clip.

Defensively, USC has given up just five points per game, 268.3 yards per contest in total offense and 75.5 in passing. Winless Oregon has the stingiest rushing defense at 143.3.

the Mustangs until they put things together for two fourth-quarter scores to win going away.

Defensively, the Mustangs looked much better against the Gladiators. Unfortunately, the defensive unit should get the test of the year this week against Royal Oak, and coach Ken Gunn hopes for a rapid improvement over the first three Walnut contests.

BONITA — The upset kids from Bonita did it again last week by dumping talented Alta Loma, 20-14. With each week the Bearcats look tougher and tougher. In fact the 20-14 final is somewhat misleading as Bonita had three TDs called back, otherwise the contest would have been very much one-sided.

Coach Pete Lopez got another clutch performance from Richard Ortega, including the winning score on a 59-yard touchdown run. A fired up Bearcat defense held Alta Loma's rushing attack at bay, which proved to be the deciding factor in the outcome.

Bonita will get to play the role of favorites in this week's ecnounter with winless Ontario. But Lopez knows that odds don't mean much in high school football, and will have his squad ready for the potentially dangerous Jaguars.

ALTA LOMA — The Braves took it on the chin against Bonita, and will try to get things together against Gladstone this week.

The Gladiators looked ragged in losing to Walnut, but Alta Loma cannot afford another Hacienda loss and should be fired up. Quarterback Jamie Broecker had a good outing against the Bearcats, but the Brave ground game fell off. Head Coach Tom Cook hopes Kula Kuresa can pick up the running attack and looks for a tougher effort from his defensive unit.

SAN DIMAS — On a night when everything went right for Royal Oak and nothing worked for the Saints, San Dimas, suffered through a 42-6 bouncing. Turnovers, mistakes, and costly penalties ruined whatever chance the Saints had of defeating the sky-high Romans.

Quarterback Dave Maloof and crew will try to take their anger out on Sierra Vista this week. Sirrra Vista doesn't look strong on paper but downed Ontario to open HL play and should give the Saints a struggle.

ONTARIO — The winless Jags are getting hungrier and hungrier with each week. Last Friday they dropped a narrow 20-19 contest to Sierra Vista despite outgaining the Dons by a wide margin in the statistical department.

Unfortunately for Ontario, this week's opponent is tough Bonita, so the Jaguars will need to show a lot of improvement to stay with the Bearcats. Running backs Joe Jefferson and Marty Verdusco continue to lead the Ontario offense, while the defensive unit is performing above its pre-league form.

Jr. Highs open football season

POMONA — Mt. Baldy League football for ninth graders begins Thursday afternoon at the city's six junior high schools.

Opening day action has Simons visiting Palomares, Emerson traveling to Marshall and Fremont hosting Lorbeer. All three games begin at 3:15 p.m. after school.

ABA starts on schedule

DENVER (UPI) — The American Basketball Association players association and owners today agreed on a new contract — less than six hours before a players strike threatened to wipe out the opening night of the 1973-74 season.

Arland Preblud, director of the ABAPA, and Denver Rockets owner Frank Goldberg, chairman of the owners' negotiation committee, made the joint announcement during a news conference at the Rockets office. The two met throughout the night in reaching the settlement on the contract, which expired last July.

The ABA opens play tonight with New York at Indiana, Memphis at Utah and San Diego at San Antonio.

"We have attempted to negotiate since last June," Preblud said. "They waited and waited and waited until the last minute and unfortunately this year we were not at a point where we can make an agreement."

Preblud said the disagreements were over first class air travel, per diem expense money, pension and the playoff pool.

Newly-named ABA Commissioner Mike Storen claimed to be unaware of the strike before he was informed by UPI.

"This is the first I've heard of it," Storen said from Indianapolis. "Our representative was in discussion with Preblud early this afternoon and I hadn't heard anything about a strike.

"This is a helluva time to call a strike though," Storen said. "I hope we can get them back to discussions and clear this up before the start of the season but I don't know."

Preblud said he was confident the strike would be supported completely by the players.

"The players have waited and waited and waited and they just aren't going to wait any longer and he put off," he said.

Preblud said the owners were cooperative during the negotiation, "but they are not willing to budge from their position."

Preblud said the owners were offering an increased per diem over the next three years of $20, $21 and $23 but the players wanted $23 right now.

He said the association wanted the pension age lowered 10 years to 55, but the owners said they don't want to make any changes in the plan for three years.

"We say that's fine, you don't have to fund or do anything to the pension plan for three years but it should be retroactive to this season," Preblud said. "That would mean the players who retire in the next three years would be covered by the new provisions."

The players also want first class air travel or all trips over one hour instead of the current two hour provision and they oppose an owner decision to lock the playoff pool at $250,000 over the next three years.

Chisox send Keoughdown

CHICAGO — Former Ganesha High and Mt. San Antonio College star Joe Keough and three other White Sox players have been sent to the Iowa Oaks of the American Association.

The White Sox said the four players were "outrighted," meaning without option, and that they would all be eligible to be drafted by other clubs during the December major league meeting in Houston.

Besides Keough, the Sox sent Hank Allen, brother of Dick, Dave Lemons and Ben Hottman to the farm club.

Wilt, Spurs in debuts

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)— The American Basketball Association players strike threatens to delay two major debuts tonight—the opening game of the first major league sports franchise in the history of this city and Wilt Chamberlain's first performance as player-coach of the San Diego Conquistadors.

The San Antonio Spurs, who fled Dallas and shucked the name Chaparrals after compiling the worst record in the ABA last season, were scheduled to open the 1973 season tonight.

But the home team was expected to be upstaged by the presence of Chamberlain, who last month jumped from the Los Angeles Lakers to San Diego for $600,000.

"As of now, we are not changing any plans for our opener," Spur General Manager Jack Ankerson said. "I hope we can settle this thing (strike). It's just a wait and see situation for us."

WTTL Strings sign first player

LOSANGELES (UPI) —The Los Angeles Strings of the new World Team Tennis League Tuesday announced the signing of its first player, 22-year-old John Alexander of Australia.

The new league is the first of many professional tennis organizations to feature city-based teams, as in other pro sports. Play is scheduled to begin next May and run through mid-August.

Giants' QB unhappy, returns home

NEW YORK (UPI)—Randy Johnson, the second string quarterback of the New York Giants, quit the team Tuesday and left town for his home in Tampa.

Johnson made the announcement to three reporters before he called coach Alex Webster with the news.

Johnson has played behind Norm Snead while the Giants have posted a 1-2-1 record in their first four games.

"I have spent two sleepless nights and put many hours of thought into this decision," Johnson said, "I have decided to retire from pro ball."

He added, "I have enough pride in myself to believe that if I had been given the opportunity the past three weeks to contribute to our football team, we undoubtedly would have been 4-0."

Webster said that when Johnson informed him, he reminded Johnson that he had been the number one quarterback last year before Johnson was hurt twice and lost the job to Snead.

JIM JENNINGS of Rutgers now leads the nation's colleges in both rushing and scoring. Jennings is averaging 20.7 points per game and 178.7 yards per game. Toledo's Gene Swick still leads in total offense with an average of 273.5 yards per game. Oregon State's Alvin White leads in passing.

NHL opens its 57th season with some talent missing

By United Press International

The National Hockey League opens its 57th season tonight with a stick and a prayer that the rival WHA hasn't taken too much talent away from the senior circuit over the last two years.

Stanley Cup champion Montreal lost one of its superstars, goalie Ken Dryden, but not to the WHA. Dryden decided to sit out the season over a salary hassle with the Canadiens.

Fourteen of the NHL's 16 teams raise the curtain tonight on the 1973-74 season. Montreal is at Minnesota, Buffalo at Toronto, Detroit at New York Rangers, New York Islanders at Atlanta, Vancouver at Boston, Chicago at Los Angeles and St. Louis at California.

Philadelphia opens its campaign against visiting Toronto on Thursday night and Pittsburgh makes its season debut at Atlanta on Friday night.

Montreal is favored to repeat as champions despite the loss of Marc Tardif and Rejean Houle to the WHA. Tardif scored 25 goals and had 25 assists last year, while Houle netted 13 goals and had 35 assists.

Boston, with perennial scoring champion Phil Esposito and ever-dangerous Bobby Orr handling the attack, figure to rate among the top challengers for NHL title.

The New York Rangers hope to provide Larry Popein with his first victory as Emile Francis' successor at the helm. Popein is just one of six new coaches in the NHL. The others are Red Kelly at Toronto, Al Arbour with the New York Islanders, Billy McCreary at Vancouver and Ted Garvin at Detroit.

Montreal, New York and Boston are rated top choices by observers to control the points in the Eastern Division. Chicago, Philadelphia and Minnesota are the "heavies" in the western sector.

There were four players who scored 100 or more points in the NHL last season and all are on contending teams. Esposito scored a league high 130 points, Bobby Clarke of Philadelphia accumulated 104, Orr had 101 and Rick MacLeish scored 100.

Richert gets 1960 trophy

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dodger relief pitcher Pete Richert, an 11-year major league veteran, went to the stadium to pick up his mail Tuesday and found a trophy naming him "outstanding rookie of the year." The Trophy was dated 1960.

Richert learned why he had received the trophy 13 years late when he read an accompanying letter written by Hal Totten, who was the president of the Southern Association League in 1960.

Totten explained that he was rumaging through a storeroom of furniture when he found the trophy naming Richert the Southern Association's rookie of the year in 1960, which Richert never received.

CIF announces a breakthrough

BAKERSFIELD — The first high school championship track and field meet for girls in California will be held in Bakersfield next spring, the CIF announced over the weekend.

"It's a breakthrough," said state CIF commissioner William Russell of Santa Barbara. "It's the first championship statewide for girls in high school sports."

Indian group to perform at Cal State

SAN BERNARDINO — Sheikh Chinna Maulana and his touring Indian troupe will present a concert in the physical sciences building at Cal State San Bernardino at 7:30 tonight. Tickets are $1 general, 50 cents for students.

The concert will feature an ancient double-reed instrument, the nadaswaram, ancestor of the oboe.

The two-hour concert will consist of ragas and compositions in duet with on-the-spot improvisations on the nadaswarams, accompanied by the jalara (cymbals) and the thaval. A double-sided drum, the thaval is played with a combination of stick and fingers and is said to be the most complex rhythmic instrument in Indian music.

The nadaswaram, native to South India, is a reed instrument about a yard long, with fingering similar to the recorder. Although extremely difficult to play, it is highly melodious in the hands of a skilled performer. The instrument pervades all culture of South India and is heard in temples, at weddings and on all auspicious occasions.

The troupe, which bears the name of the leader has been performing throughout India since 1959. It has performed on All-India Radio in national programs.

Maulana has won some rare honors, including the "Ponnadai," presented in 1970 by the Prime Minister of India, Indira Gandhi, and again in 1972 by the President of India, V. V. Giri.

It has made several recordings for Columbia Records.

OCCURRENCE AT CALICO—This group of Claremont musicians, Occurrence at Owl Creek, will play country and bluegrass music at the sixth annual Calico Days celebration at Calico Ghost Town Saturday and Sunday. Calico was a silver mining boom town of the 1880s and is now a San Bernardino County regional park. It is 10 miles east of Barstow. The group is made up of, from left, Dave Brock, Jim Cope, Gil Frazee, David Firman and Lee Dunn. The festival opens with a parade at 11 a.m. Saturday.

Gallery sets auditions for yule play

Occurrence at Owl Creek

Local group to play at Calico

CALICO — The sixth annual Calico Days celebration will be held Saturday and Sunday at Calico Ghost Town, a San Bernardino County regional park 10 miles east of Barstow.

Among the entertainers will be a quintet of Claremont musicians, Occurrence at Owl Creek, playing country and bluegrass music. They are Dave Brock, Lee Dunn, Jim Cope, Gil Frazee and David Firman.

A western parade of the 1880s will kick off the weekend celebration on the ghost town's Main Street at 11 a.m. Saturday.

Hardrock Sam will again be tried and hanged in front of Lil's Saloon when the townspeople stage their third-year performance of the Hanging of Hardrock Sam both Saturday and Sunday in the streets of Calico

Folk, bluegrass, country, and western music will be heard in the Silver Bowl where the Occurrence at Owl Creek and the Bodie Mountain Express, a bluegrass group from Perris will perform.

The Tyroleans will play music on the porch at McCullah's Warehouse. Mom's Desert Hots Band, complete with washboard and piano, will entertain in front of Lil's Saloon, while Frank and George will stroll Main Street, playing music.

Following an afternoon barbecue, Saturday will feature a dance on Main Street at 8 p.m. with Walt and Beverly La Mora providing the country western music.

Sunday's Burro Run will start at 11 a.m. to match the skills and abilities of prospectors wishing to stake a claim in the Calico silver fields and weigh in their silver ore for cash prizes. During the run, Los Hermanos Cinco will be active in claim-jumping, train-robbing and gunfight skits.

Weekend contests will be tug-of-war, balloon busting, egg tossing, greased-pole climbing, and pie eating, There will be old fashioned hat contests, glass guessing, oldest visitor registration, drill driving and horseshoe pitching.

TEX WILLIAMS

C-W star scheduled at Knott's

BUENA PARK — Country-western entertainer Tex Williams will perform on the stage of the John Wayne Theater at Knott's Berry Farm at 2, 4 and 6 p.m. Oct. 21.

Williams, first president of the Academy of Country and Western Music, has performed for audiences all over the world, His list of hits includes "Smoke, Smoke, Smoke," "Town of Broken Hearts," "Rose of the Alamo" and "Texas in My Soul."

Fine Arts Quartet sets concert at Balch Hall

CLAREMONT — The Fine Arts Quartet will open the Bessie Bartlett Frankel Festival of Chamber Music with a concert in Balch Hall, Scripps College, at 8:15 p.m. Oct. 21. Admission is free.

The Fine Arts Quartet is composed of violinists Leonard Sorkin and Abram Loft, violist Bernard Zaslav and cellist George Sopkin.

Artists-in-residence at the University of Wisconsin, the quarter, organized 25 years ago, has performed all over the world. The performers have been regular guests on Tv's Today Show, appeared on the Bell Telephone program and NBC Recital Hall and have made many videotaped chamber music programs for the National Educational Television network. For eight consecutive years they performed on the American Broadcasting network. In addition, they have made numerous recordings and appeared in movies produced by Encyclopaedia Britannica Films.

For its Scripps performance, the quartet will play the Beethoven Quartet in E Flat Major, Op. 74; Schubert's Quartetsatz; the "Italian Serenade" by Wolf and Walton's Quartet in A Minor.

A MESSAGE TO CLASSIFIED AD USERS

You are about to invest money for an Ad and you are entitled to get results. To accomplish this it is necessary for you to TELL ALL about the details of your offer. Be sure you don't make any of the following errors that prevent results. Readers can't guess on important details. Remember, a well written informative ad will get results faster and cost less in the long run.

1. Don't Omit The Address

Many out-of-town readers will write you but will not spend money for a long distance call.

2. Don't Omit The Phone Number

Many readers will call you but do not find it convenient to come to your home.

3. Don't Use Blind Box Numbers

Avoid them if at all possible. They are difficult to answer and many people are suspicious of them.

4. Don't Conceal The Price

Surveys show that a high percentage of readers will not answer an ad unless the price is given.

5. Don't Leave Home On The Days You Advertise

Many good prospects will not call the second time if your phone is unanswered.

6. Don't Forget, Check Your Ad The First Day It Runs. Call Us!

7. Don't Omit Important Words To Save Money

The power of the Want Ads is with the people. Want Ads are people offering goods and services to other people. Really, people helping people. Can we help you?

MAN BITES DOG!
AND THAT'S NEWS
About like the Pomona couple who went to Las Vegas to clean up! AND LEFT THE JACKPOT BEHIND! What a switch! All it takes to make the good news complete is to find a family who will scoop up and pocket a bundle in built-in equity when they purchase this gem of a home, for the greatly reduced price of $23,950. You can also pick your terms.
P.S. Will they ever get through enjoying all these beautiful features: a strategic location, just a hop, skip and a leap to all the best in shopping and school areas. Handsome carpeting and drapes, living room, 3 bedrooms plus a den that could be used as 4th bedroom, rustic enclosed combination patio-family room and picnic-recreation area and pipe this! a fantastic kidney shaped heated pool, fenced in for absolute security and safety, even for small children. Many other excruciating and exciting features including entirely fenced corner lot and room for recreational vehicles.
